BRITISH SHOOT WARRING ARABS IN HAIFA RIOT

Jewish Quarter Is Scene of Marine Skirmish With Moslems.

TRIBESMEN MARCH TOWARD JERUSALEM

Trans-Jordania Situation Causes Government Border Guard.

U. S. SEMINARIANS MUTILATED, CLAIM

American Consul Requested to Protect Hadassah School Youths.

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—British marines opened fire this afternoon at Haifa in an attempt to quell an Arab attack on the Jewish quarter of the city in which many were killed and wounded among both Jews and Arabs, according to reports received here by the Jewish telegraphic agency. The marines fired on both the Jews and Arabs, it is stated.

Another report received in Cairo this evening described Jerusalem as being in grave danger, with an army of 2,000 armed Arabs, including Bruse tribesmen, marching on the city.

London, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—The colonial office officially stated tonight that the situation in Palestine was reported to be well in hand. All was quiet in Jerusalem and Jaffa, but the country outside was still unsettled and subject to continuous organized attacks by Arabs on Jewish colonies.

Casualty Lists Tardy.

The statement added that while the transjordania situation was not free from anxiety, so far no actual disturbances occurred. Officials of the colonial office stated that the death roll did not exceed 193 up to this morning, but they admitted the difficulty of checking the actual number of casualties.

As a means to ending the conflict the two strongest measures today were the manifesto by Moslem leaders calling on Arabs to cease rioting and the action of the Palestine government in closing the eastern frontier to prevent possible incursions by transjordanian Arabs.

The view of official quarters in London, apart from some evident nervousness about transjordania, was that there was no danger of the Palestine trouble spreading to other Moslem countries or to the Mohammedan population of India. The official opinion was that the Palestine trouble was more local and racial, although it was admitted religion was an important factor.

Few Christians Molested.

The Arab attitude was described as more anti-Jewish than anti-British, and it was pointed out that so far as is known at present no Christians have been deliberately molested. For these reasons authoritative observers believed there was no reason for other Moslem peoples to take a hand, although the Moslem world naturally sympathized with its Palestine brothers.

The long official resume of the situation by the colonial office tonight said:

"The situation is reported well in hand, all being quiet in Jerusalem and Jaffa, where up to the present time most of the rioting has taken place.

Provinces Unsettled.

"The country outside the centers is, however, still unsettled. Continuous organized attacks are being carried out by Arabs on numerous scattered Jewish colonies. There have been no attempts so far to interfere with the essential services.

"The acting high commissioner states the local press is still suspended, but probably could not function in any case," the report continues.

"The government, however, has commenced to issue a series of news bulletins. No censorship on outward telegrams is in force, but in a few cases press telegrams have been held up for a period not exceeding 48 hours.

"The following are the total casualties, and include those previously mentioned:

Casualties Summarized.

"Jerusalem and Hebron, Killed, Moslems 23, Christians 3, Jews 78; wounded, in-patients, Moslems 35, Christians 2, Jews 102; wounded out-patients, Moslems, 35, Christians 17, Jews 63.

"Nablus—Wounded, Moslems 10.

"Jaffa—Killed, Moslems 10, Jews 4; wounded in-patients, Moslems 18, Jews 15; wounded out-patients, number not yet reported.

"Belsan—Wounded, Jews 21.

"Haifa—Killed, 1 Jew; wounded, Jews 50.

"A later telegram gives the total casualties reported up to this morning in all Palestine as: Killed, Moslems 46, Christians 4, Jews 93; hospital cases, Moslems 73, Christians 12, Jews 153; wounded out-patients, Moslems 45, Christians 27, Jews 116."

Olympia May Anchor Forever At Tidal Basin as Dewey Tribute

The Olympia, famous flagship, as she appeared in her prime when Admiral Dewey bombarded Manila in the battle ending the Spanish War.

GALLINGER DOCTOR DEFENDS ACTIONS

Kahn Claims at First Public Hearing He Knew Reporter Was Faking.

BOCOCK GIVES FIGURES

The investigation by the Board of Public Welfare into conditions at Gallinger Municipal Hospital zoomed out into public view with the throttle wide open yesterday, but it arrived practically nowhere.

A highly satisfactory summarization of plans for making Gallinger the Nation's outstanding public therapeutic institution was revealed in response to questions propounded to various employes of the hospital by the investigating committee of the board, but not a single admission was made that conditions in any detail were other than worthy of the highest praise.

The nearest approach to a condemnatory statement was contained in the testimony of Dr. Floyd Echols, one of the resident psychiatrists at Gallinger, who admitted that "there might possibly be an occasional stray cockroach," but that he had never seen or heard of a bedbug being present anywhere in the institution.

After hearing a lengthy statement of conditions, past and present and plans for the future, delivered by Dr. Edgar A. Bocock, superintendent of the hospital, at the opening of the public hearing in the board room on the fifth floor of the District Building yesterday morning, the committee moved its session to the hospital, where members of the hospital staff were questioned.

Yesterday afternoon's session was devoted almost entirely to an attempt to refute the charges made by Duncan Price, Post reporter, who wrote a series of articles two weeks ago after spending two days and three nights incognito as a patient in the psychopathic division of Gallinger.

First to be called was Dr. Samuel Kahn, chief psychiatrist, who answered all questions without hesitation. It was not Dr. Kahn's fault that only a few of the questions asked were such as might be calculated to elicit information which would disclose anything unsatisfactory at Gallinger.

Dr. Kahn told of the circumstances surrounding Price's admission to Gallinger, and declared that he had known immediately upon examination of the "patient" that Price was a malinger or faker.

"I talked with Dr. Racz and Dr. Rod (Kahn's assistant psychiatrists) and with Miss Fisher, the nurse on duty," Dr. Kahn testified, "and told them this man, Donald Duncan, as we later came to know him for purposes of the records, or Duncan Price, Famous Flagship Will Be Preserved, Adams Assures Harden.

Congress Must Act Befor Memorial to Valor Is Certain.

Admiral Dewey's flagship, the Olympia, famous vessel of the historic Manila Bay battle which quickly ended the Spanish-American War, probably will be permanently moored in Washington's beautiful Tidal Basin and preserved forever as a memorial to American valor.

Preservation of the historic vessel as a national memorial is made possible by an offer of Edward W. Harden, New York financier and former newspaper man, who has offered to buy the ship for that purpose.

Offers to Buy Ship.

Upon learning that a Federal board of survey had recommended that the flagship be condemned and sold, Harden wrote to Secretary Charles Francis Adams of the Navy and offered to purchase the vessel from the Government with the understanding that it be preserved forever in Washington as a national memorial.

Although unable to accept the offer outright, Secretary Adams, impressed with the idea of preserving the ship as a memorial, assured Harden that it undoubtedly would be preserved in some appropriate manner. The Secretary explained that he had no power of incurring permanent annual expense on the scale necessary for making a suitable memorial of the Olympia, and the exact method of preserving the ship depends largely on the policy of the President and also on congressional action.

Secretary Adams is reported, however, to be enthusiastic over Harden's plan and has suggested that the Tidal Basin, adjacent to the Arlington National Cemetery, in which is the tomb of Admiral Dewey, who gained fame while commanding the ship, and also the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, which the ship brought here from the battle field of France, would be an ideal place for permanently mooring the vessel.

Now in Dry Dock.

The Olympia is now in dry dock at Philadelphia, and cost of bringing it here would be considerable. Since the ship is far from being in sailing condition, it is believed the cost of towing the vessel here would be less than trying to bring it from Philadelphia under its own power.

Maintenance of the vessel as a memorial is estimated at between $12,000 and $15,000. As the ship would be turned over intact, it would be necessary to keep guards on the vessel as well as a watchman. Lighting of the ship would be another considerable item of expense.

As one of the three civilians present at the famous Battle of Manila Bay, Harden has a singular attachment for the vessel and admiration

LOW COST FORESEEN FOR U. S. INSURANCE

J. B. Dexter Declares Policies for Federal Employes Would Be Cheap.

PLAN TO BE CONSIDERED

The Federal Government could sell a $1,000 policy for less than 50 cents a month if it should adopt a plan of group insurance for its half million employes, in the opinion of J. Boyd Dexter, president of the Employes Welfare Association of the Veterans' Bureau.

Through the welfare association, Veterans' Bureau employes already have gone in for group insurance. They buy their insurance, however, from a private firm, whereas under the plan that now is being discussed the insurance would be handled by the Federal Government itself.

Although arrangements were only made with the private firm three months ago, already 1,000 of the 4,200 employes in the Veterans' Bureau have taken out policies, and by the end of the year it is expected that the number will reach 2,000.

Obviously, the more policyholders there are the smaller the premium will be, it was explained. At present the premium on a $1,000 policy is less than 70 cents a month.

If a private firm can sell a $1,000 policy for as little as this, President Dexter, of the welfare association, declared, then Uncle Sam, by doing away with commissions and other expenses, ought to be able to sell one for even less than 50 cents a month. Of course, Dexter added, this is assuming that all the employes, or at least a large majority of them, subscribe to the plan.

The proposal to have the Federal Government adopt the group insurance plan as a supplementary to its retirement plan will come up for discussion at an official conference here September 6. This will be a conference of the interdepartmental board headed by Maj. Alfred H. Erck, of the chief coordinator's office, and composed of seventeen Federal chief clerks stationed here.

The experience of the Veterans Bureau employes, as well as employes in the Interior and Treasury Departments, who also have gone in for group insurance, will undoubtedly be considered when the chief clerks get around the conference table.

Mr. Dexter said yesterday that he believed the proposed Federal insurance would prove popular with Government employes. At the same time he expressed the opinion that it would be unwise to make it compulsory.

The reason, he said, is a psychological one. Employes do not like the idea of having to do a thing, even when they know that thing is for their own good.

The employes' welfare organization in the Veterans' Bureau was organized in 1927 by George A. Holcombe, of the legal department, for the purpose of bettering the condition of the employes. There are no dues, the association's fund being raised through the sale of candy and other delicacies at two stands in the building, through dances, entertainments and in other ways. At present the association has outstanding loans to employes amounting to $17,000. No interest is charged and the losses are virtually nil.

Holcombe, father of the welfare association, also was father of the insurance plan. In the course of his welfare work he naturally had to disburse considerable money to stricken employes or to the dependents of those who died.

His first thought was to establish a plan of group insurance that would cover sickness and accidents, and an arrangement was made with the Commonwealth Casualty Co., of Philadelphia. The idea of the life policies grew out of this.

Holcombe negotiated with various firms, and finally came to terms with the Shenandoah Life Insurance Co.,

GRAF ROARING ACROSS PLAINS OF WEST TEXAS

Mighty Dirigible Passes El Paso and Heads for Fort Worth.

HEAD WINDS SLOW SPEED OF ZEPPELIN

Dr. Eckener Wirelesses He May Change to North Route.

CRAFT FLYING LOW AT SIERRA BLANCA

Mountain Regions Are Left Behind; Ship Faces Easier Sailing.

Sierra Blanca, Tex., Aug. 27 (A.P.). The Graf Zeppelin passed 40 miles north of Sierra Blanca tonight. t was following the pipe line which serves west Texas' big old fields and was traveling, according to estimates from the ground, at between 40 and 50 miles an hour.

Fort Hancock, Tex., Aug. 27 (A.P.). The Graf Zeppelin passed over Fort Hancock, 63 miles from El Paso at 6:55 p. m. (Central standard time).

A Texas & Pacific Railroad operator sighted the big ship.

At Fort Hancock the dirigible, which had been following the Texas & Pacific Railroad tracks, turned directly to the north, the operator said. If this change in direction were followed out, the Zeppelin eventually probably would pass over or near Abilene and Merkel, in central Texas. The operator believed, however, that the craft probably was taking a temporary short cut and would head back for the tracks soon, which run into Fort Worth.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Riding high, the dirigible Graf Zeppelin tonight roared over west Texas on the last stretch of its around-the-world flight. It is en route from Los Angeles, Calif., to Lakehurst, N. J.

At Sierra Blanca, 90 miles from here, the gradually rising terrain leaps to an elevation of approximately 4,500 feet. Thereafter the way becomes smooth as the elevation drops precipitately.

The Graf floated about over El Paso for about fifteen minutes this evening, first heading out southeast over Mexico and then turning back due east toward Fort Worth, Tex From there its route lay toward Little Rock, Ark. Reports to the Texas & Pacific Railway, whose lines the dirigible followed part of the way in west Texas, indicated that the big ship jumped its speed to about 67 miles an hour after leaving El Paso.

At 12:14 a. m., Pacific standard time, today the Graf left Los Angeles. During the day she glided along above Arizona and New Mexico. Just as the border of Texas almost was in sight head winds began an assault on the ship and her commander, Dr. Hugo Eckener, radioed that he was changing his original plan to fly over the Texas Panhandle. After passing El Paso he said he would head directly for Fort Worth.

If the unfavorable air currents affected the Zeppelin adversely there was no indication of it as she appeared over El Paso. A convoy of airplanes darted out to greet her. A great roar from the spectators supplemented the shrieks of whistles, sirens and automobile horns and she sped away, the airplanes darting about her smooth sides.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf eppelin, wirelessed:

"We are proceeding along the Mexican border, following the Southern Pacific to El Paso. Strong head winds, however, are making our speed about 80 kilometers (50 miles) an hour. We are avoiding the higher mountain peaks.

"From El Paso we probably will head toward Fort Worth, Tex., and Little Rock, although not certain of change in plans yet."

The message was sent just before the dirigible passed over Columbus, N. Mex. No mention was made of any trouble with the ship.

Columbus, N. Mex., Aug. 27 (A.P.). The Graf Zeppelin was sighted moving very slowly about 15 miles due west of here at 3:30 p. m. (M. S. T.).

It was reported that at the time the Zeppelin was sighted it had an altitude of only 100 feet. No reason

Suckers' Early Gains In Bucket Shops Lure Them to Loss Later

Swindlers Uusually Get Victims' Bankrolls by Changing Stocks.

Following is the fourth of a series of articles on Washington's bucket shops and financial swindles. Another will appear tomorrow.

By REGINALD P. MITCHELL.

One of the favorite ruses employed by the financial speak-easy came to light in the glaring record of a fraud perpetrated several months ago on a spinster in the Treasury Department by a well-known Washington bucket shop maintaining a lavishly outfitted suite of offices in a downtown building almost within earshot of the Department of Justice.

Through the years the woman, by indefatigable industry and thrift, had patiently denied herself at times even the necessities of life to treasure bit by bit from her slender salary enough

City Editor of Post Goes to Grand Jury Room With Documents.

In answer to a subpena issued by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, Aubrey E. Taylor, city editor of The Washington Post, yesterday went before the grand jury prepared to lay before that body certain facts on which the newspaper is basing its series of articles dealing with bucket shop operations in the District of Columbia.

Mr. Taylor was accompanied to the District Supreme Court Building by Reginald P. Mitchell, a member of the editorial staff, who is writing the series of articles. The United States attorney issued a subpena for Mr. Mitchell Monday, but deputy United States marshals were unsuccessful in locating him. Six Powers Now Working Out Details of New Settlement.

GERMAN CONSENT IS TO BE OBTAINED

Accord Is Regarded as Victory for English Chancellor.

BRITAIN CONCEDED MOST OF DEMANDS

France Forced to Sacrifice Concessions at First Promised Her.

The Hague, Aug. 28 (Wednesday) (A.P.).—Agreement in principle on the British share of reparations, which had blocked adoption of the Young plan for three weeks, was reached just after midnight by the six powers who called the conference.

Details of the agreement were given out by the British delegation. The French placed a slightly different interpretation on them, but it was understood that in the main the agreement gave the British substantially 70 per cent of their demand in money, while other concessions were made to them on deliveries in kind. Among the last was agreement by Italy to buy an additional 1,000,000 tons of coal annually for the state railroads on the reparations account.

The agreement was a compromise. The British sacrificed 8,000,000 marks of the 48,000,000 they demanded in addition to amounts attributed to them under the Young plan. They had asked for about $11,530,000 additional and obtained about $9,530,000.

The agreement requires release by the Germans of their interest in the surplus payments of the Dawes plan over the Young plan between April and September of this year. They will meet the creditor delegations at 11 a. m. to discuss this matter.

German Acceptance Seen.

Should the Reich delegation refuse to accept the accord the agreement by the creditors would have failed to have saved the conference. However, the expectation was that the Germans would adhere to the accord so as to be able to go home with the definite announcement that the Rhineland will be evacuated within a year.

An unbroken session from 5 o'clock last evening to midnight, with only sandwiches and coffee to sustain the delegates, was necessary to bring agreement out of the seemingly hopeless deadlock which existed when the sessions began. The Germans, who were not directly concerned, since all creditors had early accepted the Young plan total of reparations, were the only ones to obtain dinner.

Of the additional 40,000,000 marks assured Great Britain, 36,000,000 are attributed to unconditional annuities. It had been the contention of the British delegates that the Young plan changes in the Spa ratios for division of reparations had not only reduced the British share but had placed it largely in the conditional column which made payment uncertain while France and Italy were guaranteed the sums due them.

Victory for Snowden.

The agreement was generally regarded as a striking victory for Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden, the financial expert of the Labor government. While the interpretation of the accord given out by the British was contested by the French, it indicated the other creditor powers gave way on practically all points in order to save the conference from foundering.

At the very first session, following the formalities of organizing, Snowden had astounded the delegates by a blunt speech in which he declared

WELLS AND HALSEY AIR DERBY VICTORS

Wrangle Results as Four Fliers Finish Together From Miami.

LINDBERGH SHOWS SKILL

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Two cross-country air derbies, symphonies in speed, roared to a finish at the national air races today with T. A. (Ted) Wells, of Wichita, Kans., winning the dash from Portland, Oreg., while George Halsey, of Kansas City, was declared victor in the Miami-Miami Beach, Fla., race after a long muddle at the judges' stand, so closely bunched were the leaders.

Maj. J. Carroll Cone, of Little Rock, Ark., was first across the finish line in the Miami race but Halsey, C. D. Bowyer, of Westfield, N. J., and Earl Rowland, of Wichita, Kans., all had unofficial elapsed time lower than Maj. Cone. A check made Halsey the winner.

Two other derbies were still en route to their finish at the national races tomorrow, one group spending the night at Syracuse, N. Y., in their race from Philadelphia by way of Boston, Albany, Syracuse and Buffalo, while the other group was quartered at Fort Wayne, racing from Oakland, Calif., via Salt Lake City, Omaha and Springfield, Ill.

Tragedy marred the start of the Philadelphia-Cleveland race today with the deaths of Pilot D. J. Devereaux, of New York, one of the racers, and Al Reiss, Devereaux's mechanic, who were killed when Devereaux' plane crashed at Boston. Mrs. Devereux, also a passenger, was perhaps fatally injured. It was the only bad accident in a day crowded with speed and daring.

The 50-mile speed race for women over the Cleveland airport aerial speedway was awarded to Mrs. Keith Miller, of Buffalo, N. Y., after Phoebe Omlie, of Moline, Ill., had been disqualified for crowding the plane of another contestant in banking her plane for one of the turns around the pylons which mark the air course. Miss Omlie filed a protest, denying she fouled. Her speed had been 113.8 miles per hour. Mrs. Miller's speed

SINO-RUSS PARLEY TO END ROW LOOMS

Undercover Negotiations Will Settle Squabble, Reports State.

RAILWAY STATUS SOUGHT

Shanghai, Aug. 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Undercover negotiations between China and Soviet Russia, looking toward some arrangement for settlement of the controversy over the Chinese Eastern Railway by which both countries would "save face," are still going on in Berlin, reports reaching here from Nanking indicate. If these conversations are successful, there is hope for the calling of a conference to draw up a new agreement for joint Sino-Russian management of the disputed railroad.

The latest of these reports from Nanking states that Russia is prepared to enter negotiations provided the Russian manager of the railway, expelled by the Chinese, is reappointed. Such reappointment would involve virtual acceptance by China of the terms of the Soviet ultimatum without use of the term "status quo," which the Chinese find objectionable.

The status quo of the Chinese Eastern Railway has never been quite satisfactory since the signing of the agreements of 1924 under which China and Russia recognized each other as partners in the administration of the railroad. This agreement, curiously enough, was negotiated by Leon Mikhailovitch Karakhan, now vice commissar for foreign affairs at Moscow, and C. T. Wang, present minister of foreign affairs in the Chinese Nationalist government.

Breaches have been continuous since the 1924 agreement became operative. As a quorum was almost never available at meetings of the board of directors of the Chinese Eastern Railway, the resident Russian manager constantly acted on his own initiative.

Although the Chinese have been reiterating the charge that railroad funds were constantly diverted and used for communist propaganda, it has been Russia's unwillingness to divide profits of the railroad's operation that has really annoyed them most. In fact, that is one of the principal factors in the present row, although it is seldom mentioned. Even the Russians agree that the 1924 agreements for joint operation of the railroad are untenable.

Girl Wanderer Home, Stays Few Hours and Then to Jail

Wyona Stevents, 21, Missing Three Weeks, Returns Mysteriously; Theft of Auto Now Laid at Her Door.

After keeping police guessing as to her whereabouts for more than two weeks, Wyona Stevens, 21 years old, of Brentwood, Md., who left her home in the guise of a boy August 14, returned to the family hearth last night as mysteriously as she disappeared.

The reception from her parents was supplemented by a possibly less warm but more disturbing one from police, who presented the fair adventurer with a warrant charging her with theft of an automobile from the Glassman Rent-a-Car Co. Hardley had the kisses of the joyful mother dried on her daughter's lips, than the young lady was led away to police headquarters and then to the House of Detention, where she will remain until suitable bond is set.

Detective Sergeant H. M. Jett, of the Central Bureau, who was instrumental in negotiating the arrest, said that efforts had been made to keep Wyona's home coming a secret. Jett said that he let himself in on the secret about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and kept it until a few hours later when he enlisted the cooperation of Brentwood authorities. First Justice of Peace Isaac D. Arnold was interviewed, resulting in the issuing of a warrant for the girl as a fugitive from justice. The warrant was served by Chief of Police Brown, of Educational Drive Riddled, Dry Bureau to Try Again

Miss Sutter Follows Up Dud Entitled "Now We Will Teach Prohibition in Schools," With Pamphlet, Not Yet Past Censor.

Miss Anna B. Sutter, who might be called the public relations counsel of the Prohibition Bureau, is preparing some new literature for the bureau's much-riddled "educational campaign." What it is like, however, is known only to her and bureau officials.

The first pamphlet Miss Sutter got out, "How Are We to Teach Prohibition in the Schools," precipitated such a furore about the country that President Hoover stepped in and had the original plans for the educational campaign scrapped.

The result was that when Miss Sutter went to Atlanta to attend the convention of the National Education Association she was without the pamphlets she had expected to distribute among the teachers assembled there. The pamphlets were put in a safe here by Prohibition Commissioner Doran and it was understood that ultimately they would be destroyed.

In Atlanta Miss Sutter limited her activities to simply answering questions and giving oral information when the teachers asked for it. As a matter of fact, she never had any intention of forcing information on the teachers or their pupils, she said.

While Miss Sutter was away, Commissioner Doran scrapped another one of the proposals of the educational campaign, that of placarding the that Great Britain had made every sacrifice which could be expected and that he was not prepared to accept the additional cuts proposed by the Young plan. He maintained this stand for three weeks while the other powers made united efforts to break down his will.

The increased British share would reduce considerably the French share of annuities subject to commercialization.

Delegates of the "big six" were still drafting the text of the agreement at 1:30 a. m.

If the details furnished by the British were exact there remained for the conference only to seek agreement in principle on the proposed bank for international settlements, the organization of which will be left to a committee of experts.

Evacuation of Rhineland.

It was understood that Premier Aristide Briand, of France, and Foreign Minister Gustav Stresemann, of Germany, already had agreed on July next as the date for final and complete evacuation of the third and last zone of occupation in the Rhineland. This problem has been dependent upon adoption of the Young plan.

The British delegates were exultant when they left the conference room at about 2 a. m. The French and other creditor delegates, however, appeared grave and sober.

The final accord among the creditor powers was attributed partly to the eloquent appeal by M. Briand and partly to his spirit of sacrifice which made possible the increased offer to Great Britain.

Some of the unconditional annuities now transferred to the British account were part of the inducement offered France to accept the largely reduced reparations payments proposed by the Young committee experts.

As soon as the Germans have given their consent to the conditions agreed upon by the creditors, if so they do, the conference will proceed to details for putting the Young plan into operation. This will be done principally through committees of subordinate delegates and experts who will report to the governments when details have been arranged.

Policy Game Man Held For Alleged Bribery

New York, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Lawrence Sackman, 44, charged with having attempted on August 7 to bribe Harold Harris, 16-year-old Associated Press office boy to falsify clearing house figures, was held in $2,500 bail for the grand jury today in Tombs court.

Using combinations of numerals taken from the daily clearing house figures as published in the newspapers, gamblers the world over play a policy game, whose stakes often run up into huge sums, Sackman said he was acting for a group in Harlem in offering the bribe. Nathan Feltington, arrested with Sackman, was freed today for lack of evidence.

WELLS AND HALSEY DECLARED WINNERS IN TWO AIR RACES

was 98.72 miles. Lady Mary Heath, of England, and Blanche Noyes, of Cleveland, won second and third places.

Prizes for the winners of today's events were $6,000 and lap money in the Portland derby; $5,500 and lap awards in the Miami derby, and $1,700 in the women's speed race.

A revision was made today in the outcome of the all-Ohio derby yesterday, officials awarding the race to Lewis Love, of Richmond, Ind., who originally had been declared the winner, but later had been placed second to H. A. Speer, of Marshall, Mo. A check of elapsed time gave Love the race and put Speer in second. To the pilots it meant the difference between $1,000 for first prize and $500 for second.

A contest for airplane gliders was won by Elmer Westerland, of Jackson, Mich., who sailed a distance of 550 feet. William Fowler, of Cincinati, was second with 497 feet. Oscar Kume, or Orion, Mich., was third.

Exhibitions of daring aerial maneuvers engaged a large space on the day's program, with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh taking a leading part. He and two Navy pilots showed eager air fans just what an airplane can do. The trio, flying as a combat unit, put the planes through virtually every pace known to pilots.

Forty-three Army planes staged a mimic aerial fight, swooping, zooming, diving at imaginary foes until even veterans wondered at the skill of the daring pilots.

The two lords of the air, the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin and the United States Army dirigible Los Angeles, were to greet each other here tomorrow. Commander Hugo Eckener, of the Graf Zeppelin, sent word he would pilot the round-the-world ship over Cleveland at noon. The Los Angeles will be here to take part in other exhibitions.

Speer Wins Speed Test.

H. A. Speer, flying a Barling in a 50-mile efficiency test for light planes today made the fastest speed when he piloted his plane at an average of 105.2 miles per hour.

H. G. Heath, of Chicago, flying a Heath Parasol, won another race for light planes with piston displacement of less than 100 cubic inches. He flew the 50-mile course at an average speed of 62.5 miles per hour.

A new record for outside loops was set by Gordon Mackie, of Boston, who went over eight successive times in the difficult stunt. "Speed" Holman, of Minneapolis, had set the old record at the outside loops.

Charles ("Speed") Holman, St. Paul, forced out at Sandusky, Ohio.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 27 (A.P.).—The three contestants remaining in the Oakland-Cleveland air derby landed here within a few minutes of each other shortly before 5 o'clock (Central daylight time) this afternoon. Loren W. Mendell, of Los Angeles, was first to land, arriving at 4:42 p. m., having made the trip from Springfield in 2 hours 12 minutes.

Thirty Seconds Later.

Joe Barrows, of Oakland, Calif., landed at 4:48 p. m., and J. C. Donaldson came down 30 seconds after Barrows. Barrows' time from Springfield was 2 hours 15 minutes, while Donaldson's time was 2 hours 22½ minutes.

Two of the contestants went out of the race today. Robert C. Nagle, of Oakland, Calif., had trouble with his supercharger and dropped out at Bowen, Ill. B. C. Warren was forced down by motor trouble 25 miles northeast of Danville, Ill., and his plane was so badly damaged that he abandoned the race.

The racers flew from Omaha to Springfield this morning. They will leave on the last lap to Cleveland at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow.

OLYMPIA MAY ANCHOR FOREVER HERE AS TRIBUTE TO DEWEY

for its great commander. Consequently he is determined to do everything in his power to prevent the destruction of the historic ship.

In his letter to Secretary Adams, Harden says that he and John T. McCutcheon were on a trip around the world in the revenue cutter McCulloch during 1896.

Attached to Fleet.

"When war was declared April 17," he states, "the McCulloch was attached to Admiral Dewey's fleet by direction of the president." Both newspaper men accompanied the fleet, Harden relates.

"Admiral Dewey gave us permission to remain with the fleet when it arrived at Manila on the historic first of May and participated in the naval battle that day," he continues. "There were only three civilians with the fleet. During the period of the blockade following the victorious battle of May 1, we lived with the fleet and August 13, by the invitation of Admiral Dewey, we were on board the Olympia during the bombardment of Manila, at the time of the combined land-and-sea attack which resulted in the surrender of the city.

"Through those stirring times I had the good fortune to establish a friendship with Admiral Dewey, which lasted to his death. It is because of my affection and admiration for him, as well as the feeling which I share with every American in cherishing the renown of the Olympia, that I venture to suggest this method of preserving the ship as a memorial of American valor."

Former Newspaper Man.

Harden was born August 20, 1869, the son of James and Mary Walker Harden. After attending the public schools, he married Miss Ruth Vanderlip, of Chicago, on September 9, 1903. They have two children, a son and a daughter.

He was financial editor of the Chicago Tribune from 1895 to 1898. While correspondent for the Tribune and the New York World during the Spanish-American War, his story of the battle of Manila was the first news of it reaching the United States, his dispatch reaching New York five hours before Admiral Dewey's report reached Washington.

After the war, he made a six months' study of commercial conditions in the Philippines as a special commander of the United States. Later he was connected with the New York Commercial and the Chicago Journal. He became a stock and bond broker in 1905. He is now a member of the New York Exchange, and is connected in executive capacities with numerous important industrial organizations.

Author of Review.

Harden is the author of "Financial and Industrial Conditions in the Philippines" in 1899. In addition, he has contributed articles of the island to several magazines.

Secretary Adams' reply to Harden follows:

My dear Mr. Harden:

May I express to you the warm appreciation which the Navy Department feels for your generous offer to purchase the Olympia and turn her into a national memorial. Your interest in that historic vessel is very welcome to those who are interested in the Navy. I think it is clear that the Olympia will be preserved in some manner, but the exact method depends largely on the policy of the President and also on congressional action, as I have no power of incurring permanent annual expense on the scale necessary for making a suitable memorial of the Olympia.

With your leave, I shall be glad to keep in mind your willingness to help in case any possibility develops of offering you some opportunity in this connection which might prove to be interesting.

With best regards, believe me

Very sincerely yours,

C. F. ADAMS.

GALLINGER DOCTOR DEFENDS ACTIONS

reporter for The Post, as he eventually proved to be, was faking. I told them he had a reason for his act in getting admitted to Gallinger, and instructed them further that he was trying to cook up some trouble and that they should under no circumstances permit him to be released until they had learned why he was there."

Dr. Kahn stated that four classes of patients are placed in the "strongroom," in one of which Price was incarcerated. These are patients with homicidal manias, those with suicidal tendencies, incorrigible mental patients and maligners. Falling into the latter class, for some reason unknown to the hospital staff, Price was confined in a strongroom on the theory that such confinement would make him disclose his purpose, Kahn declared.

Easily Explains Strongroom Order.

Althoug Kahn had issued strict orders that Price was to be confined in the strongroom and not released except under definite instructions, nevertheless a nurse on duty in the observation ward, taking matters in her own hands, had released him and permitted him to walk about the ward. However, Kahn continued, as soon as he heard that Price had been given this limited freedom, he immediately ordered him relocked in the strongroom.

Explaining the reasons for detaining Price in the hospital after the reporter had completed his compilation of information and "regained his memory" in order to obtain his release, Kahn said he had told Price at the time that the reason he could not be released was because he might develope amnesia as soon as he got outside, and get hit by an automobile and killed. Thus, he declared, although he was convinced that Price was a malingerer, nevertheless, he had ordered him detained after his memory had "returned" for further observation.

U. S. URGED TO INSURE ITS OWN EMPLOYES of Roanoke, Va. Then a set-up was arranged whereby the premiums were to be collected. An employe was selected in each division and designated to collect the premiums of the other employes who subscribed to the group plan. The money is turned over to Frances M. Miller, treasurer of the welfare association, who forwards it to the insurance firm.

The undertaking, of course, was entirely unofficial, and consequently could not be officially sanctioned by Director Frank Hines. Nevertheless, Hines, realizing that the plan made for a better morale and benefited the employes, gave it his unofficial approval.

Hold Two Policies.

President Wexter believes that, if Uncle Sam adopts group insurance, many of the Veterans Bureau employes not only will subscribe to it but hold on to their Shenandoah policies at the same time.

William H. McReynolds, director of the survey being made by the Personnel Classification Board to determine how conditions in private employ compare with those in the Federal service, expressed the opinion yesterday that the proposed group insurance plan was both practicable and equitable.

The only opposition he could foresee, McReynolds declared, might come from the insurance firms. Administration of the Government insurance, he said, could very well be handled by the same units that now are handling the Civil Service Retirement Fund, The Pension Office, he said, could collect the premiums and the Treasury Department handle the money.

FEAR OF COOLIDGE MAY SWAY HOOVER

President's Talk With Butler on Place for Huston Is Indicative of Specter.

CHIEFS SCAN 1932 RACE

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

William M. Butler, former chairman of the Republican national committee, of all people, was in town yesterday to see President Hoover, presumably to tell him just why he did not want Claudius C. Huston to be the successor to Chairman Hubert Work.

The former chairman, fresh from Massachusetts, where there are all sorts of political intrigue and discord just now, has long been a thorn in the possibility of Huston's receiving the appointment. He was a luncheon guest of the President.

It is not known definitely what they talked about, the former chairman was summoned here, so to speak, but the definite impression is that if Huston does receive the chairmanship it will not be because Butler has indorsed him. Neither is it known just what Butler has against Huston, but it is known that he does not look with favor on his appointment.

Butler's Objections Factor.

This has been known to be Butler's attitude for some time and it is understood that emissaries from the President have heretofore waited upon him, trying to get him remove his objections.

Just why this much attention should be paid to Butler is another thing that is not known. He is out, dethroned and about all he has to go on politically is that he perhaps was the most honest, not the most efficient, chairman the Republican committee ever had.

But in the calling of Butler here there is reflected the specter of Coolidge that hangs over the present administration to an amazing degree. Mr. Hoover has been in office for six months and one would suppose that he had entirely forgotten about his predecessor, and it may be, of course, that Mr. Hoover has. But his entourage has not; his camp followers and personnel have not.

Fear of Coolidge Evident.

It is at least an amusing commentary that six months after he has taken office, Mr. Hoover's scouts and the fellows who supposedly show him the way in politics, are talking about and predicating their nearly every step upon the possibility that Mr. Coolidge may be a candidate in 1932.

Of course, nobody knows what will happen in 1932 and nobody knows, probably not Mr. Coolidge himself, just what he will do then. But politicians are sensitive and politics is their business. It is not any more unusual for them to talk about such a possibility than it would be for a business man to discuss expansion four years hence.

But it is an unusual situation when the wheelhorses of a new administration, who ordinarily should be thinking little of the future, but instead spending all of their time in gloating over how they have come to sit upon the top of the world, are really talking of the possibility that Mr. Coolidge may be a candidate.

Coolidge Possibility Real Influence.

Conversation, of course, is harmless, but there are indications that this possibility is influencing some of them in their acts.

A striking example revolves around Postmaster General Walter Brown.

Now it may be that the Postmaster General has never had anything like this in mind, but it is a fact that numerous of his friends, in attempting to defend his course in the reorganization of the party in the South have said that it was necessary in the event Coolidge ran in 1932.

It has been incomprehensible to most observers why Brown will not encourage such men as Glenn B. Skipper, the Republican national committeeman in Florida. One does not have to approve everything Skipper does or what he stands for in politics, but he is admittedly the Republicans' best bet of holding that State.

Shuns One-Man Control.

The answer, given by one friend of Brown and another, as to why he always has fought Skipper instead of cooperating with him is that Brown does not want any one man to control the Florida delegation in 1932.

This is, of course, a complete turn around from the attitude toward the South heretofore. In past years the man whose business here in Washington it was to deliver the Southern delegates to the President for renomination wanted one man to control each delegation. This one man was more tractable; one could put one's fingers on him easier. It would be too dangerous to deal with numerous individual delegates. But Brown is represented in many quarters as wanting the individual delegates to have power.

And the answer, it is said, that he is afraid Coolidge will run in 1932 and, knowing what havoc Coolidge, with the powerful influences behind him that he would have, could do among the Southern delegates, wants to insure that Hoover at least will get some of these delegates. This he could do, it is assumed, if they were all delegates of independent mind and not governed absolutely by one man.

Hoover May Vision Specter.

This sounds fantastical, but it is heard in explanation of Brown's attitude toward Skipper, and it is heard in explanation of his attitude toward the Georgia leaders who bolted the Democratic party and gave their all for Hoover and who are now out in the cold because of Brown's attitude.

It all may be true. The politician dotes on politics, and there is no telling the range and fancies of his mind on the subject. Whether it is true or not, there are a striking number of Hoover hangers-on who are always talking about the Coolidge threat. The specter of this quiet little man hovers around.

That, indeed, could be the only reason that Mr. Hoover should care whether William M. Butler likes Claudius C. Huston or not.

GIRL ROAMER COMES HOME; GOES TO JAIL

Brentwood, and Policeman Max Brown, the chief's son. The car Wyona is alleged to have stolen was abandoned at Salisbury, N. C., police learned.

Charles Bolton, of New York, to whom the girl was to have been married four days after she ran away, met his elusive fiancee at police headquarters last night. The outcome of the interview that followed their reunion has not yet been learned.

Wyona is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Stevens, of 3606 Baker street, Brentwood, Md. Mrs. Stevens was asked by The Post over the telephone about 8 o'clock last night if her daughter had returned home. She answered in a positive negative.

BUCKET SHOPS GET VICTIM LATER IF HE GAINS AT FIRST

to tide her over the bleak days of later years. At last, when her savings had swelled to about $2,000, a representative of the stock racketeering firm gained her acquaintance. In the course of several subsequent conversations he adroitly weaved into his talks the name of an oil company issue he was booming.

She finally was persuaded to buy approximately 100 shares of the promotional stock for the entire amount of her savings. The investment proved to be substantially as attractive as it had been represented, and an early rise in the market allayed any fears she had entertained regarding the safety of her savings. She accepted the advice of the company to sell out at a profit and congratulated herself on dealing so wisely in her first venture. Well might she have asked the age-old query of the baited sucker, "How long has this been going on?"

Dubious Stock Bomed.

The bucket shop then swung into action for the fleecing by the typical trick of the shady investment house in switching the client into a stock worth little or nothing. The issue of a certain gold mine outfit was extravagantly lauded with the not unexpected result that she was importuned to take her original investment and her profit to buy about 500 shares of the newly recommended stock.

Within the same week the elaborately engraved shares for which she had paid out $1 each slumped to less than 40 cents a share. There is no market for the securities, they are paying no dividends whatsoever, and she is holding them merely as souvenirs of a transaction which is manifestly just another bucketing swindle in which the racketeer connived with a crooked confederate to manipulate the stock to their mutual benefit. Insteady of investing the woman's money, the Washington broker bucketed the money, expeditiously netted 60 cents on every share sold, and finally tendered the woman shares for which he had paid out only the quoted figure of 40 cents each.

In another deal not quite so clear cut, which nevertheless gave every indication of a swindle, several Washingtonians were victimized by a bucket shop which today is doing a thriving business also in a downtown office building. One of the major suckers in this series of deals was a rather elderly widow, who was influenced several months ago to buy about 100 shares in a public utility company of which virtually nothing was known. Upon that occasion the bucket shop accepted the woman's check for $700 as a margin account and gave her a pencilled receipt signed by the president.

Stock Goes Off Market.

Within the week the company sent to the woman its statement seeking the balance of substantially more than $1,000, which she was unable to advance. The unusual procedure of the firm gave every indication of a shady transaction. The stock has disappeared from the so-called "unlisted market," there is no market for it, and it is being offered by others at $7 a share, substantially less than one-third of its original cost. No settlement of any kind has been effected, and the woman counts as lost her $700.

Not long ago a Washington druggist was induced by another shady financial house here to invest about $2,000 in a certain bank stock listed on the "unlisted market." The druggist bought at 20, as listed on the board of the fake brokerage organization, supplied with its quotations from its own private leased wire and not the New York Stock Exchange or other reputable markets.

A newspaper quotation on the same stock gave the market figure at only 18, and his suspicions immediately were aroused. Upon his instructions to sell and allow him to get out of the market with his loss, the firm delayed to such an extent that he finally threatened to institute legal action. The concern made restitution and he quit the market, satisfied that his loss had been no greater than $200.

A somewhat similar case was that of two women employes of the War Department who became convinced that they could duplicate the ventures of several of their friends in speculations of a small nature. Approaching a bucket shop operator dealing principally in investments from small game, they put up their pooled savings of approximately $500 on a slim 10 per cent margin to buy a certain well-known issue, paying the figure quoted by the racketeer.

Delivery Is Delayed.

They likewise grew suspicious when they observed a two-point lower quotation in a newspaper, and their worst fears were confirmed when they proved unable to obtain any statement from the pseudo investment house. Repeatedly failing to obtain any action, they finally gathered together with extreme difficulty the remaining balance on their stock and tendered it. The stock was delivered to them six weeks later. Inasmuch as reputable brokers customarily make delivery within a single week or 10 days at the longest, the lengthy time necessitated in this deal gave every indication to the pair that the bucket shop, failing to execute the order originally, held off as long as it deemed advisable before buying in the hope that the market would drop.

One of Washington's prize suckers is a man of foreign birth who during the past few years has lost an amount conservatively estimated to be about $100,000 in transactions which have given every semblance of fraud and misrepresentation. The man has never seen fit to bring legal action, and today he is doing business with another bucket shop despite the admonitions of close friends who have warned him repeatedly that the firm was no different from those that had duped him here in the past. His present investments have not been made public, nor is there any indication that he will press a suit if he is victimized again.

Methods Often Identical.

There appears to be little deviation in the methods used by the bucket shop to swindle the gullible public. There is revealed an almost monotonous similarity in many instances, as evidenced in the cases in which a well-known brokerage firm of ill repute here figured.

On or about the first of January, 1928, a resident of College Park, Md., was trading to a small extent with the Washington concern. He finally closed out his account and requested that certain certificates previously paid for be delivered. Procrastination by the firm stretched through almost six weeks, and the requested stock was handed over at last after the man had perfected all arrangements to start a suit that would very likely have resulted in damaging publicity for the company.

Another individual of College Park, Md., had a like experience, and he obtained his paid-up certificate after a delay of three months.

Newark Resident Victimized.

A resident of Newark, Md., also had similar dealings with the same Washington company. He finally closed his account and sought to obtain stock due him in September, 1928. Repeated demands brought no action until his threats of an expose through legal means saw the delivery of the securities in the following February.

Through the high-pressure "boiler-house" sales methods of a certain bucket shop here, a resident of St. Albans, W. Va., was persuaded by telephone to invest in certain moderately good stocks. Upon a subsequent long-distance call from the firm he accepted its recommendation not to sell the certificates at the market price of $3, but to hold for an expected advance. The man, according to his semipublic admission, gave instructions to put in a "stop-loss" order for a sale of his stock if the market slumped as low as 44½. The securities skidded to this level, the firm failed to heed his request, but finally sold him out when the market tumbled still lower. In the disagreement which followed the bucket shop denied the "stop-loss" order, and the man was unable to prove statements in his telephone conversation.

Costly Delay Cited.

A substantial citizen of Bluefield, W. Va., in dealings with the same bucket shop, complained to certain individuals in Washington that he was forced to wait for two months early this year before the firm responded to his repeated request to turn over to him stock for which he had fully paid. The man declared that the delay had been costly to him, inasmuch as he had lost an opportunity to sell the securities in his home town for a price higher than had been quoted when he received the certificates.

Still another man, a resident of North Glenside, Pa., was solicited by telephone from another Washington bucket shop to purchase 100 shares of a bank security at $17 a share. The man made a formal complaint to a reputable agency early this month that he had been unable to obtain delivery of his certificates despite the fact that he had been given assurances that any request to this effect would be met promptly.

Federal Employe Bilked.

One other case of unusual interest involving the same bucket shop and the identical bank stock is that of an employe of the General Accounting Office of the Treasury Department. During the spring of this year the individual tendered to the racketeer various securities totaling in market value about $8,000. The operator is alleged to have promised that he would market the securities in a manner to gain a profit for the customer. After delays which seemed to indicate to the client that there were irregularities in the dealings, the Government employe brought sufficient pressure to bear to force the bucketing shyster to deposit in a Washington bank a sum approximating about $2,000 to the customer's credit.

Two professors at the University of Maryland not many months ago, in negotiations with a Washington bucket shop, purchased certain certificates on a 15 per cent margin. When a neat profit on their investment was shown they ordered a sale of the stock, but they were persuaded by the operator to hold off slightly longer in his expressed conviction that a rise was imminent.

Unwillingly the pair took the advice. The market broke without warning. Without communicating with them, the bucket shop sold them out. They obtained confirmation of this transaction from a New York brokerage firm, a nonmember of any reputable exchange.

POST CITY EDITOR VISITS GRAND JURY

at the entrance to the grand jury room, and shortly afterwards Deputy United States Marshal John J. Clarkson served the reporter with the subpena.

Carries Brief Case.

Mr. Taylor entered the grand jury chamber at 11:11 o'clock, a few minutes after Mr. Rover had entered the room. The Post city editor carried with him a brief case filled with documents believed to have related to the bucket shop expose. He remained in the room with the grand jurors for 40 minutes.

Mr. Rover emerged from the room a few minutes later and conversed with Mr. Taylor in the hall at some length. During the course of the conversation, the United States attorney was asked if he intended to ask the Department of Justice to assign agents to complete the investigation of the bucket shop evil. Mr. Rover was noncommittal.

Mr. Mitchell was not called before the grand jury, the United States attorney stating after leaving the jury's chamber that he would not call him before the body at that time.

Subpena Antedates Publication.

Decision of the United States attorney to inquire into The Post articles was announced by him in a letter to Mr. Taylor simultaneously with the service of a subpena. Mr. Taylor was served Saturday, and the letter was received the same day. Issuance of the subpena and dispatch of the letter followed announcement that the series of articles would be carried, and prior to publication of the first of the series.

That Mr. Rover considered the matter of importance was evidenced by the fact that he represented his office in the grand jury room during the time Mr. Taylor was closeted therein. Ordinary matters for consideration of the grand jury are handled by the assistant United States attorneys.

Auto Capsizes at Laurel; Driver Says Passing Car Blinded Him.

Five Baltimore persons were hurt, two seriously, when a car driven by Levy Harris overturned on the north Baltimore boulevard early last night, near Laurel, Md.

Mrs. Neader Wood and Charlotte Tolson suffered severe cuts and bruises and were ordered placed in a hospital after an examination by a physician at Laurel. Harris, Holden Ward and Mary Cook escaped with minor injuries.

Harris reported the accident occurred when he became blinded by the bright lights of a passing automobile. Harry Preedy, of the Maryland State police, is investigating the accident.

GRAF CROSSING TEXAS ON LAST LAP OF TRIP

could be learned for the low altitude or whether the Zeppelin was in trouble. Its estimated speed, according to witnesses, was about 35 miles an hour.

F. R. Blair, telephone operator at Columbus, said that it appeared the Zeppelin was dipping from side to side. He said he could not determine whether it was in trouble, but it still maintained the altitude of but 100 feet.

At 3:43 p. m. Blair reported to the Associated Press over the long distance telephone that he could see the Graf Zeppelin from his office and that it seemed to be gaining slightly in altitude. The propellers could be seen in operation.

At 3:45 the Zeppelin, Blair said, was at the edge of Columbus and then appeared to be about 300 feet in the air.

At 3:47 p. m. (M. S. T.) Blair said the Zeppelin was passing over the Town of Columbus at a speed of from 40 to 45 miles an hour. The ship passed directly over the telephone office and the motors could be heard humming perfectly. The dipping of the ship apparently had stopped.

The ship headed directly east for El Paso, which is 73 miles east of here.

Los Angeles, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Bucking head winds at reduced speed the Graf Zeppelin nosed on toward El Paso, Tex., this afternoon on its flight to Lakehurst, N. J., from Los Angeles, the last stretch in its world-girdling feat.

The big dirigible after leaving California and dipping into Mexico, struck a zigzag course across Arizona as it followed a railroad route leading into southwestern New Mexico.

Thirteen hours after it swung away from the mooring mast here, where it anchored following a sensational transpacific voyage from Tokyo, the Graf had traversed approximately 800 miles at an average speed of slightly more than 60 miles an hour.

Weather reports warned of heavy clouds and strong easterly winds near the Texas line, and as the Graf drove through New Mexico she began to encounter a forerunner of these conditions.

Route Undetermined.

The route from El Paso remained in conjecture, dependent wholly upon weather conditions. Dr. Hugo Eckener, the commander, had indicated he would pursue a northeasterly course over Oklahoma City, Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago and Cleveland and then strike through the Mohawk Valley into New York if favorable atmospheric conditions prevail.

Bad weather on this route probably would send the Graf cruising toward New Orleans, Birmingham, Atlanta, Washington and Baltimore, the commander declared before he left Los Angeles.

Despite adverse winds in eastern Arizona, the Graf had put the worst of the western half of its transcontinental trip behind it in a successful night crossing of the dangerous Rocky Mountains. Departing from Los Angeles at 12:14 a. m. (Pacific standard time), the ship veered southward to San Diego and then cut a direct course to Yuma, Ariz.

Maneuvers With Storm.

Between San Diego and Yuma the Graf maneuvered with a severe electrical storm and poked its silver nose down the eastern ridges of the Rockies in the early dawn, its fabric-covered steel shell and roaring motors, veterans of the strong winds of the Russian steppes and the storms of the Pacific writing another chapter in its victory over weather and space.

Along its route over the arid eastern plains of Arizona, villages turned out en masse to stare in awe at the history-making vessel. Aviators who greeted the ship reported that it was flying perfectly and apparently no serious defects had resulted from a mishap at the take-off early today when the heavily loaded vessel drifted skyward too slowly and its tail group struck high-tension wires.

The 52 persons aboard were given a tremendous farewell at Los Angeles by a throng numering thousands.

Must Land by Saturday.

The Graf, which has now been nearly 20 days on its flight from Lakehurst, must reach the Eastern terminus late Saturday if it is to claim the record-round-the-world flight time of approximately 23 days set by John Henry Mears and the late Capt. C. B. D. Collyer in an airplane. When it reaches New York it will have traveled approximately 19,000 miles.

Over Arizona the Zeppelin kept relatively low, about 1,500 to 2,000 feet above the arth to avoid swirling currents, its commander, Dr. Hugo Eckener said. Because of the altitude of the terrain in the Southwest the actual altitude of the ship was high. Southern Arizona and New Mexico range in altitude from 3,500 to 4,500 feet.

Seven Go by Airplane.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, anticipating difficulties in making the divide had detached seven men of the crew here to lighten the load, ordering them eastward by airplane.

One of the reasons for the late departure after midnight from here, an hour and three-quarters behind schedule, was due to careful inspection of the stowage of all material aboard and check on the lifting gas as well as the fuel.

After crossing the continental divide, the only hazards for which the navigators of the ship will be alert are electrical storms, which the Zeppelin will seek to dodge at all costs.

GASTONIA EVIDENCE LIMITATION HINTED

State Testimony to Be Held Down in Trial of Sixteen for Murder.

WITNESSES ARE QUIZZED

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 27 (A.P.).—A brief court session this morning to conclude hearing of defense motions, and examination of State's witnesses in private by defense attorneys this afternoon were the outstanding activities in Superior Court proceedings involving charges of murder against sixteen Gastonia cotton mill strikers and leaders. The sixteen are accused of being responsible, through a conspiracy, for the death of O. F. Aderholt, chief of police of Gastonia, who died June 8 of wounds received in a fight at a tent colony maintained for strikers by the National Textile Workers Union and the International Workers Relief.

Court officials today hoped to get under way tomorrow with the final phase of the case, the selection of a jury and actual hearing of evidence. Deputy sheriffs tonight had summoned all who could be found of 200 veniremen summoned for possible duty on the jury.

At this morning's court session Judge M. V. Barnhill, of Rocky Mount, assigned by Gov. O. Max Gardner to conduct a special term of court, overruled a motion of the defense for an amended bill of particulars. But in turning down this move he indicated that he would confine the evidence to occurrences on or about the tent colony and would not permit incidents that occurred between April 2, when a strike was called at the Loray Mill of the Manville-Jenckes Co., and the time of the shooting to be brought into the case.

"I will intimate," said the judge, "that it is the purpose of this court to limit it (evidence) to conspiracy about the grounds where the shooting occurred."

Approximately 85 State witnesses appeared at the Gaston County Court house today for the defense examination. They had originally been summoned for a special term of Gaston Superior Court a month ago, but a change of venue took the trial to Charlotte.

The defense attorneys conducted their examination in private, but in the presence of prosecution attorneys. In North Carolina this questioning of prosecution witnesses prior to trial is permitted in capital cases when the defense requests it.

The defense excused 37 of the State's witnesses without questioning.

LARGER FREDERICK FAIR IS PLANNED

Buildings Improved; Stables and Grand Stand Increased.

NEW FEATURES ARE SET

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Aug. 27.—Improvements including an addition to the grand stand, new poultry house, new race horse stable and cattle pens, costing approximately $40,000 will be completed within two weeks of the next annual fair, October 15, 16, 17 and 18, it was announced today. The grand stand improvement will increase the seating capacity 1,000, making a total capacity of 4,000.

The new poultry house will be one of the largest in Western Maryland and will take the place of two buildings, both of which have been razed to make space for the new structure. The new stable, almost completed, is modern and up-to-date.

Applications for Space.

Applications for ground and building space are already being received by Secretary Guy K. Motter. A new feature this year will be two night shows, September 16 and 17. It will be the first time in the history of the fair, started 68 years ago, that the gates will be opened at night.

The grounds will be brilliantly illuminated and in addition to a display of fireworks all of the day grand stand attractions will be repeated. The night exhibit will be conducted along the same line as the day show.

The Federation of Rural Women's Clubs, embracing 24 units with a membership of 670, will have an entirely new exhibit. Instead of separate booths the entire household building will be occupied in a series of daily demonstrations under the direction of Miss Helen Pearson, home demonstration agent. Two members from each of the clubs will be in charge. A large model kitchen will be erected at the north end of the building surrounded by seats for the audience.

Three Demonstrations.

The members in charge will give three demonstrations in the morning and three in the afternoon making salads. Miss McPheeters, State demonstration agent of the University of Maryland, will judge the receipts each day. The exhibit will be on a much larger scale than ever before.

The four-day racing program follows:

Tuesday, October 15—2:24 pace, for nonwinners of $300, $400; 2:16 trot, $400; running, ⅝-mile dash, $200.

Wednesday, October 16—2:18 pace, $400; 2:24 trot, for nonwinners of $300, $400; 2:12 pace, $400; running ¾-mile dash, $200; running ⅝-mile dash, $200.

Thursday, October 17—2:20 pace, $400; 2:12 trot, $400; 2:18 trot, $400; running, 1 1-16-mile dash, $250; running, ¾-mile dash, $200.

Friday, October 18—2:15 pace, $400; 2:20 trot, $400; running, ¾-mile dash, $200.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

IN all probability more men elected to the Senate as Republicans will vote against every increase proposed in the new tariff bill than will men elected as Democrats. As a matter of fact, only a handful of the Democratic senators will vote against every schedule. Even those few, like Cole Blease, of South Carolina, who have said that they would, are under great pressure from interests in their States to vote for some protective schedule or other.

But despite this strange situation, the Democratic national committee continues to function as though there were just one difference between the two major parties, and assumes that the Democratic party stands for a low tariff and the Republican party for a high tariff.

It is very perplexing, especially when one remembers that during that last presidential campaign Gov. Smith did his utmost to convince the business interests of the country that his election would not mean a sharp reduction of the tariff duties—he must have meant to make clear—a resultant upsetting of business.

• • • •

GOV. SMITH went to the length of attempting to call the roll in public of the Democrats who would be in the next Senate to demonstrate to workers in the industries and stockholders generally that they had nothing to fear from the Democratic party on the tariff. Chairman Raskob announced that this poll was highly satisfactory.

Gov. Smith's Louisville speech and this attempt to poll the Democratic senators followed the mildest tariff plank the Democratic party ever adopted. In short, the party as a whole was doing its level best last year to convince the country that the tariff was no longer a political issue.

Now if there had been a reorganization of the Democratic national committee following Smith's defeat, the fact that the Democratic national committee was devoting every bit of its flood of statements to an attack on a high tariff policy would be understandable. It would signify that the high tariff element, represented chiefly by Smith and Raskob, had been reinforced.

But the fact is that Raskob is very much in the saddle. He selected Jouett Shouse to head the executive committee, and approved the selection of Charles R. Michelson to pour out the blasts against the tariff. Indeed, the bitter fight of Bishop Cannon and other anti-Smith leaders in Virginia against the Democratic organization in that State is based almost entirely on the point that the Smith leaders are still in the saddle, and Raskob is still national chairman.

IN view of this official attempt to commit the Democratic party to lower tariff rates, the roll calls on some of the tariff schedules are going to be very interesting. Indeed, it is rather difficult to see now how either party is going to make a great deal of capital out of the final result. The truth is, of course, that both parties are split wide open on the tariff question, with local interests in every instance affecting the result. There are some Democrats who are going to oppose tariff schedules which their own States, or at least substantial interests in their own States, favor. There are Progressive Republican senators who will do the same thing.

In the case of Blease of South Carolina and Overman of North Carolina, to cite two men of the first group who are expected to stick against all increases, the motive is a desire to cling to the old Cleveland Democratic doctrine. In the case of Blaine and La Follette, of Wisconsin, who are also expected to oppose all save the agricultural increases, it is following the doctrines of the elder La Follette.

Local interests in the Carolinas have been clamoring at Blease and Overman to vote for tariffs which will presumably aid local interests. The manufacturing interests of Milwaukee would like very much for their senators to vote for some of the schedules.

BUT the roll of Democratic senators who vote for certain schedules carrying increases in tariff duties is going to be formidable, and is difficult to reconcile with what the national committee is trying to proclaim as party policy. For example Senator Kendrick, of Wyoming, voted for all the schedules of the Fordney-McCumber bill, and is expected to vote for most of the increases this time. Senators Fletcher and Trammell, of Florida, with Cuban and Mexican early vegetables threatening Florida's winter products, are expected to follow the example of their delegation in the House, and vote for the bill as a whole as well as for many schedules.

Senators Broussard and Ransdell, of Louisiana, are expected to vote not only for the tariff on sugar, but for other schedules in which Louisiana is interested, with perhaps a few others thrown in to win the votes of other senators for Louisiana schedules. Senator Heflin, of Alabama, will vote for a good many schedules, having already voted against the Borah resolution. His colleague, Senator Black, will vote for a higher duty on graphite, and perhaps for some other Alabama products.

Senator George, of Georgia, one of the candidates against Smith at Houston, is expected to vote to protect Georgia clays and may vote for other schedules affecting Georgia, and, while Senator Harris, of that State, has made no promises, many of his friends say he is not going to vote against Georgia's interests. The same is true of Senator McKellar, of Tennessee. Vigorous local campaigns are under way to influence Democratic senators from other States by industries that believe they would be benefited by protection. So it is difficult to figure a national issue on the tariff.

Moonshiner's Reform Won By Diplomatic Police Chief

When direct methods failed to deliver results for him, diplomacy and soft words did so, according to Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley, of Rockville, who has succeeded in obtaining confessions and evidence in many cases by the use of softly spoken words. Last week by the same method he accomplished the reform of an illicit still operator, he revealed yesterday.

The chief, for nearly two years, he said, had been trying to catch a certain resident of the Damascus district in the act of making whisky. All his efforts were futile when, by good luck or unusual cunning, the operator managed to evade the chief and his men.

One day last week the chief met the man whom he halted for a heart-to-heart talk. He told him he knew he was engaged in making whisky and warned him that it was only a matter of time when he would be arrested. He suggested that the man turn over his still and equipment and retire from the business "with a clean record."

The man told him he would. The chief promised he would not prosecute him if he complied with the suggestion. Several nights later an automobile drove into the chief's yard and the driver asked for Mr. Moxley. When Mrs. Moxley said her husband was not at home the man left without revealing his identity.

The next morning the chief found a complete still and moonshining equipment on his front lawn. He said he intended keeping his promise not to prosecute, adding that after all he couldn't prove to whom the still belonged.

Virginia Land Values Drop to New Low Mark

Richmond, Va., Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Land values in Virginia were lower in 1928 than at any time since 1917, according to the annual report prepared by United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, and the Virginia Department of Agriculture, division of agricultural statistics.

The 1928 estimated value of all farm lands with improvements was $49.50 per acre. In 1917 the figure was $45.31, increasing to $51.34 in 1918 and reaching the peake in 1920, when it was estimated to be worth $68.40. Lowered to $65.18 in 1921, values continued to decrease, and in 1927 were quoted at $50 even.

RHODE ISLAND AVE. CONTRACT AWARDED

Work of Hyattsville Extension Is to Be Done by Washington Firm.

LANE CLOSING IS UPHELD

Contracts for the construction of the extension of Rhode Island avenue from the District line, at Mount Rainier, to Hyattsville, have been awarded to G. B. Mullin & Co., Washington contractors, by the Maryland State Roads Commission, it was announced yesterday. The contract calls for immediate beginning of the work and completion by November 15.

The bid was for the construction of 1.67 miles of the avenue paralleling the right of way of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. The avenue connects Rhode Island avenue with the Washington-Baltimore boulevard at Hyattsville. The price of the work is $54,000.

Judge Joseph C. Mattingly has denied a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel Mrs. Mary B. Whitridge to remove obstacles she is charged with having placed in historic Faulkner's lane, which bounds one side of her property at Collington, Md. The suit was brought by Mrs. Whitridge's sister, Mrs. Annette B. Roberts, both of whom are direct descendants of former Gov. Oden Bowie.

Judge Mattingly held that permission to use the road was merely a license by the owner and did not deprive her of the right to close the lane when it became necessary to the peaceful use of her property.

The lane has been used by the public for more than a century, according to testimony at the hearing held some months ago. It had been thus used until two years ago, when Mrs. Whitridge chained the gates, tore up a bridge and caused the formation of a large hole at one entrance, contending that persons using the lane were leaving the gate open and allowing her cattle to stray. The sister claimed that the road should remain open to the public because of its public use for such a long time and because, she asserted, entrance to her property on the other side of the road is impeded by the closing of the road.

The carnival held Saturday night and Monday by the Riverdale Heights Volunteer Fire Department to raise funds to pay for hose recently purchased by the department, was a financial success, it was announced yesterday. The department had announced $650, the price of the hose, as its goal, and this sum was raised. The carnival committee was headed by Chief H. E. Stansfield and Mrs. C. O. Taylor, president of the women's auxiliary.

County Commissioner Charles A. Marden, appointed a week ago by Gov. Ritchie to fill the vacancy on the board of county commissioners of Prince Georges County caused by the death of Commissioner T. B. Middleton, yesterday sat for the first time as a member of the board. The board approved three applications for rezoning of residential property to commercial and disapproved three other petitions.

The board disapproved the application of Mrs. Emma Gregory for rezoning a portion of the John W. Gregory estate near Seat Pleasant, it being alleged by a petition from the communicants of Addison's Parish, an adjoining Episcopal Church, that it was planned to open a colored cemetery on the plot. The Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission also disapproved the application.

The application of J. M. Earnest for the rezoning of one lot in block 1, Mount Rainier, was disapproved. The application of Morris Binswanger for rezoning of acreage on the Baltimore Boulevard near Beltsville so that he could establish a tourist camp, was disapproved.

Applications for rezoning filed by the following were approved: Samuel Bass, block in Beaver Heights, from residential to industrial; Anna Lewis Rose, et al., property on both sides of the Baltimore boulevard, between Block street and Maple avenue, Hyattsville, from residential to commercial; John B. Cochran, four lots in the Newman subdivision of College Park, residential to commercial.

W. C. T. U. of Two Counties to Meet

Addresses, Reports and Election on Program at Jarratt.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Aug. 27.—Friday the annual Surrey and Sussex Counties W. C. T. U. convention will convene at High Hills Baptist Church at Jarratt, Sussex County, and a large attendance is expected. The address of welcome on behalf of the town of Jarratt and its churches will be delivered by the Rev. Ralph Bellwood, and the response will be by Mrs. L. W. James, of Dendron. Reports from the various unions of the two counties will be read, followed with the appointments of committees. The morning session will be featured with an address by the Rev. J. F. Rawles, treasurer of the board of missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Miss Beryle Barrett, of Dendron, will give a reading selection.

At the afternoon session the Rev. A. L. Lambin, of Wakefield, will speak. This address will be followed by an oration by Miss Margaret Rawles, of Nashville, Tenn., and a reading by Miss Elizabeth Wheeler. Officers will be elected and committees appointed. After selecting the place for the next convention the body will adjourn.

Box Cars Smashed In Culpeper Wreck

No Fatalities Reported as Part of Train Is Derailed.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Aug. 27.—Thirteen box cars of a Southern Railway freight train were derailed and smashed to pieces at an inlet 3 miles north of Culpeper, about 10:35 o'clock last night, it was learned through a telephonic report from the scene of the wreck.

A careful inspection of the wreckage up to a late hour last night revealed that no one had been killed. All the derailed cars were loaded with freight. None of the crew was injured. The cause of the derailment had not been learned. The train was reported to have been made of approximately 60 box cars.

The train left Washington about 9:30 o'clock for Southern points. Information from the scene of the wreck indicated that other trains, all passenger, will be held up for several hours. Four trains each way were due to travel over the two lines during the night.

HOUSEWIFE BOUND AND HOME LOOTED

Two Bandits Leave Tied Victim in Cellar; Steal $26.

KCKING SUMMONS AID

Surprised while at work in the cellar of her home, Mrs. H. L. Jeffres, living near Arlington, Va., was left bound hand and foot in the cellar for nearly two hours yesterday morning, while two unidentified colored men ransacked the house, stealing $26 in cash.

Other valuables may have been stolen but the home was in such condition after the robbery that the woman was unable to check further losses.

Sheriff H. B. Fields, Deputy Sheriff Harry L. Wood and Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Cloth, of Arlington County, made an investigation of the theft, but stated afterward that clews were lacking. Mrs. Jeffres was unable to tell officials anything about the man who attacked her except that he had black hands.

According to the woman's story she was canning tomatoes yesterday morning at about 9:30 o'clock. With several jars filled, she decided to take them into the cellar. As she stooped to pick up the jars after preparing a shelf to receive them, she was suddenly grasped by both wrists from behind.

All she saw was the black hands of the intruder. Keeping her in front of him the man bound both her hands and feet and left her lying on the cellar floor. While she was being tied, Mrs. Jeffres heard steps of another man upstairs, she told police.

After nearly two hours had passed, during which Mrs. Jeffres screamed and pounded against the cellar steps with her feet, she was found by Joseph Reible, real estate dealer of Clarendon who was attracted to the scene by the woman's cries and the barking of a dog. Reible untied Mrs. Jeffres and it was then that the robbery was discovered.

Every room in the home at Glebe and Shelly roads had been entered. Drawers of chiffoniers and dressing tables were pulled out, contents were scattered about the floor and every possible hiding place for money ransacked.

However when some order had been restored, Mrs. Jeffres told Sheriff Fields that only $1 was missing. A boarder at the Jeffres' home, Benjamin Anderson, reported $25 missing from his room.

A ring belonging to Mrs. Jeffres' son, first thought to be missing, was later found.

Dr. G. H. Long Heads Page G. O. P. Board

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Aug. 27.—The Page County Republican committee, at a meeting held in the community room of the new building of the Page Valley National Bank, for the purpose of electing a chairman to fill the vacancy caused by the death of S. P. A. Brubaker, and a secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Everett M. Berrey, late postmaster of Luray, unanimously chose Dr. George H. Long, Luray physician, as county chairman, and I. N. Lauderback, of Shenandoah, secretary. James A. Brubaker was elected committeeman from Luray precinct.

Dr. Long has been a life-long Republican.

Francis Pool Carnival Will Be Held Saturday

The second annual water carnival at the Francis swimming pools, Twenty-fifth and N streets northwest, will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock under the auspices of the Welfare and Recreational Association of the Public Buildings and Public Grounds.

The program will include swimming and diving championship events and several varieties of stunts. The Miller Memorial 50 will be one of the outstanding events, as the best swimmers will participate in it. The race is named for the late I. Newton Miller, who refereed the carnival last year. Baltimore will have a team of swimmers at the races to give a stiff battle to the Washington swimmers. Entries for the carnival will be received until 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

INSULL INTERESTS BUY WATER RIGHTS

Chicago Concern Acquires Paper Company Plant at Harpers Ferry.

UTILITY CLASH LOOMS

Special to The Washington Post.

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., Aug. 27.—Sale of the water rights owned in the Potomac and Shenandoah Rivers by the Harpers Ferry Paper Co. to the Insull interests of Chicago for $1,100,000 gross, was announced here yesterday through W. H. Savery, president of the selling company.

Informed sources said there was an outstanding bonded indebtedness of $250,000 on the property and a floating indebtedness of approximately $100,000, which would leave a net $750,000 approximately for payment for the stock, or giving about $75 per share for the stock, with par value $50.

The dealings with the local company were made through a group calling itself as the National Electric & Power Corporation, with headquarters in Richmond, Va. An impression which has persisted here that these agents are working for the Potomac River Corporation, composed of Cleveland and Chicago financiers, seems to be without visible authority. In some authoritative quarters here it is believed the sale as announced presages a battle between hydroelectric interests for control of the rights here.

The paper company has been negotiating with the Potomac River Corporation, which has an office here, for some months. Sale to the Insull interests is interpreted by these observers as indicating the Insull group stole a march on the Potomac group.

The Potomac group made a survey at an outlay of $100,000 more than a year ago, of the power possibilities in the section, and applied to Federal authorities for permission to make a more thorough survey, a request that was given approval in a recent report of Lieut. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, U. S. A., retired, chief of Army engineers, and Maj. Brehon Somervell, district engineer of the War Department.

The Harpers Ferry Co. is a small, comparatively old hydroelectric plant, containing a pulp mill in addition to producing light and power, and holds the key situation to enormous water-power possibilities.

It is the site and the water rights which are valuable, engineers agree.

Three Are Injured As Bus Hits Truck

Police Investigate Crash After Driver Swerves Inot Parked Auto.

Three persons suffered minor cuts and bruises when a Blue Ridge Transportation Co. bus smashed into a large truck parked on the South Rockville pike near the Congressional Airport at Halpine late yesterday.

The accident occurred when Harry O. Esworthy, of 1401 East South street, Frederick, Md., swerved into the truck in order to avoid crashing head-on with a speeding automobile, it is reported. The bus was so badly damaged that it was unable to complete its trip from Frederick to Washington.

The acident is being investigated by Joseph Oldfield, of the Montgomery County police.

Three Injured in Leap From Truck on Road

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 27.—Frightened when the truck in which they were riding was descending Sideling Hill, on the National highway, 30 miles east of Cumberland, three employes of the W. T. Stone Shows, exhibiting at the fairgrounds this week, jumped from the machine and were injured. Earl Niblett, 28, Salisbury, Md., had two bones of his right foot fractured and was cut and bruised about the head and body. Louis Volenti, 16, Richmond, Va., sustained a fractured jaw and cuts about the head. Mary Lou Jones, 22, colored, of Petersburg, Va., was cut about the head and face and bruised about the body. All three are in hospitals here.

Alleged Hit-Run Pair Returned to Lynchburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 27.—Policemen Paris and Deaner, of the department here, reached Augusta, Ga., this morning and started on the return trip this afternoon with R. Emmett Casey and J. Frank Jones, who are wanted here in connection with the hit-and-run killing of Mrs. E. W. Crowder, here August 19.

Casey is charged with being principal and Jones is held as a witness. The quartet is expected to reach here Wednesday night. Date for preliminary trial of Casey will be fixed upon his arrival. Casey and Jones agreed to return without extradition.

Wholesale Slaughter Of Fish Investigated

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 27.—Wholesale slaughter of fish in the West Fork River near here was being investigated today by deputy game wardens dispatched here for the purpose from Kingwood and Terra Alta.

The probe followed reports of a second extensive pollution of Cheat River from Cheat Bridge upstream 17 miles and the slaughter of many thousands of fish. State health officials are there investigating. Acid dumpage is suspected.

Family Escapes as Car Leaves Road, Overturns

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., Aug. 27.—Freeman Hood, 68, prominent farmer of the Green Springs district, Louisa County, together with his wife and his mother, Mrs. Annie M. Hood, the latter 91 years old, had a narrow escape from serious injury this morning when their auto overturned near Madison Court House, completely demolishing the body of the car. Mrs. Hood, sr., was slightly bruised and shaken but Hood and his wife escaped without injury.

Mrs. Hood had been spending the summer with her son and en route to her home at Pittsburgh. The accident is said to have been caused by the driver's missing the road in taking a sharp curve.

FAIRFAX ELECTION ATTRACTS INTEREST

Last Year's Upset Makes Race Result This November Problematical.

STUMP TOURS PLANNED

FAIRFAX COUNTY BUREAU,
Telephone Clarendon 919-J-1.

Interest is growing in campaigns for the seat in the Virginia House of Delegates from Fairfax County, chiefly because of the upset last November, when this normally Democratic stronghold went Republican 2 to 1.

M. D. Hall, former county superintendent of schools for more than 30 years, is the Democratic nominee. He will soon begin a speech-making tour.

L. L. Freeman, of Vienna, Va., is the Republican candidate. He is a well-to-do merchant and business man. Ira Hutchinson is the independent contestant for the seat.

Election and registration lists are now being completed in anticipation of the November balloting.

The Fairfax Volunteer Fire Department, of Fairfax Court House, will open a three-day carnival tomorrow. Numerous booths and attractions will be on the ground. Dancing will be on each night from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Fairfax postal receipts for the last fiscal year amounted to $69,689.75 according to announcement by Miss Sayre, postmistress. Owing to the increase of business last year and the constant tourist trade, the postoffice will hereafter be open all day, from 7:30 a. m. until 6 p. m. The total amount of money handled by the office last year was $138,379.

The Fairfax County Sunday School Association will meet Friday at 2 o'clock in the Sunday school room of the Falls Church Presbyterian Church, of which the Rev. A. B. Allfather is pastor. The first session will include committee meetings and a song service.

From 5 to 7 o'clock a picnic supper will be served, after which the Rev. M. C. Minor, State secretary of the Virginia Council of Religious Education, will speak in the church at the evening service. The election of officers will follow the reading of reports.

Plans for participation in the Washington firemen's parade Labor Day were completed Monday night at a meeting of the Falls Church fire department. The firemen are also planning to send one engine to Herndon to compete in the drill there after the parade in the Capital.

J. A. Garber Cited In Order of Court

New Representative Must Answer Charge of Keeping Cash Records.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 27.—Jacob A. Garber, representative in Congress from the Seventh Virginia District and former Rockingham County treasurer, must appear in Circuit Court here on September 9 and show cause why he should not be held in contempt for failure to turn over all the books and papers of the county treasurer's office to his successor, George B. Keezell.

Judge Bertram issued the rule against Garber after hearing a petition from Treasurer Keezell which sets forth that certain books and papers still retained by Garber belong to the office and their absence "hampers the county treasurer in the handling of the affairs of his office and in the proper checking and auditing of various funds thereof."

Keezell sets forth in his petition that he on several occasions requested Garber for the books and documents, but to no avail. The books and documents referred to in the petition include a ledger, daybook, journal and bank passbook "pertaining to the accounts and funds" handled in the treasurer's office.

When Keezell was appointed treasurer of Rockingham County on February 18 last, following Garber's resignation in order to fill the congressional seat to which he was elected last November, Judge Bertram issued an order requiring the outgoing treasurer to turn over all papers and books of the office to his successor.

Automobile Victim Buried in Leesburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Hamilton, Va., Aug. 27.—Funeral services were held today at 10 o'clock in the chapel in the cemetery at Leesburg for Clarence Slack, 35 years old, who was found dead Sunday morning near Hamilton Station. It is presumed that Slack was struck by an automobile some time after midnight Saturday and died instantly. Alvin Clark, a young man from Wheatland, is being held under $1,000 bond, and Robert Raybolt, of Purcellville was ordered held as a material witness. He and two young women are said to have been with Clark.

Slack is survived by his wife and four small children, who were not at home at the time of the tragedy. The body was interred in Leesburg Cemetery.

Apartment hunting is far from a pleasant task. Why not look in the classified columns of The Washington Post? Perhaps the very place you are looking for is advertised today.

SHENANDOAH GOODS PUT ON EXHIBITION

All Departments Filled at Opening of Sixty-first Annual Fair.

PRIZE LIST AUGMENTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 27.—The sixty-first annual exhibition of the Shenandoah Valley Agricultural Society opened today on the Winchester fair grounds with every department filled and several overflowing into specially provided buildings. W. R. Legge, general manager, said this was the first time in many years that this had occurred. The interior of the buildings are attractively decorated. The exhibition is to continue until Friday night. Boyd R. Richards is president of the association.

The association has provided a large program of free acts and attractions, including daily drills by Troop F, Third United States Cavalry, of Fort Myer, Va.; an acrobatic team, a large midway, horseshoe pitching, weight judging, rolling-pin throwing, hog calling, sack and three-legged races, greasy pig catching, field races for young men, and a baby show.

Racing events today were confined to ponies. Starting tomorrow there will be full programs of trotting, pacing and running races, one of the former class and four of the latter Wednesday and Thursday. Automobile races will be held Friday. A. B. Hummer is in charge of the racing.

In addition to offering cash premiums in all departments, the management is giving sterling silver goblets or cups and gold coins for the best apple pies, similar prizes for the baby show winners, and winners in the future farmers of Virginia displays and contests. Sixteen cups and goblets have been offered by merchants, banks and apple exporters for best displays in the apple show. Material increases were made in cash prizes for high-grade livestock, including horses, cattle, ponies, sheep and swine, and increases were announced in the paulary department, the women's section and the juvenile division.

The Winchester Concert Band, under Prof. W. H. McIlwee, is providing the music.

MEMORIAL URGED FOR LEGION CHIEF

Plans to Honor Dr. Israel Brown, of Virginia, Will Be Discussed Soon.

VETERANS PLAN ACTION

Richmond, Va., Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Three proposals on the erection of a memorial to Dr. Israel Brown, late-time commander of the Virginia Department, American Legion, who died in office, will be submitted to the department convention in Petersburg, September 2-4.

According to the Brown Memorial committee report, which will be submitted in the convention by W. Ernest Acton, jr., chairman, Newport News, the first proposal is to erect a granite monument in City Park, Norfolk. The alternate recommendations are that a bronze tablet with Dr. Brown's head in bas relief to be placed in St. Vincent's Hospital, Norfolk; or that a tablet be placed in the State capitol or State library building in Richmond.

Fatally Stricken.

Dr. Brown, a resident of Norfolk, was stricken by fatal illness while attending a meeting of commanders and adjutants at Charlottesville.

The Legion convention also will be called on to consider the proposal of Commander John W. W. Cummings, U. S. Navy, a member of the Newport News Post, that the American Legion sponsors the dedication of an hour on Washington's birthday, February 22, when all good citizens of the land shall gather in meetings and take a pledge of allegiance to the Constitution and the institutions of the United States.

Resolution to Legion.

If adopted by the Virginia State convention, Commander Cummings' recommendation will be presented in the form of a resolution at the National Legion convention in Louisville, September 30-October 3.

When the State convention assembles in Petersburg, seating will be based on membership standings for the last four years, with the Sixth District in first place. The other districts will be seated in the following order: Ninth, Eighth, Second, Fourth, First, Fifth, Seventh, Tenth and Third.

The Sixth District, standing first, is composed of posts in the following cities: Roanoke, Lynchburg and Radford and the counties of Roanoke, Montgomery, Bedford, Campbell and Floyd.

Monument Is Proposed To Stonewall Jackson

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 27.—A movement was initiated at the Harrison County School Teachers Annual Institute here today to erect a large monument to the memory of Gen. Thomas (Stonewall) Jackson, of the Confederate Army, for the benefit of tourists and others interested in history.

Pennies will be taken from school children, and money will be otherwise raised. Jackson was born in Clarksburg on the site of what is now a chain store.

Man Kills Assailant.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 27 (Special).—Charles Thomas, colored, is at Lynchburg Hospital, suffering from razor slashes across his arms and shoulders, which he maintains were caused by James Johnson, also colored. He shot and killed Johnson. Thomas will be arrested when able to leave the hospital.

19 Wardens Attend Warrenton Parley

State Game Warden Heads Discuss Proposal to Raise License Fees.

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Aug. 27.—The game wardens of nineteen counties and the City of Alexandria met here yesterday with Supervisor Albert Fletcher and the members of the Fauquier Unit of the Izaak Walton League of America. The conservation and protection of wild life was discussed at a round-table gathering. Later those in attendance, together with a number of invited guests, were entertained at luncheon in the grill room of the Warren Green Hotel.

Maj. Willis Robertson, chairman of the State Game Department, presided.

Judge W. S. Snow, of Alexandria, advocated raising of hunting and fishing license fees for residents from $1 to $2.50. He also advocated turning over to the game department any surplus remaining each year of dog license fees, after payment of all sheep and other claims, to be used for better payment of wardens and for the further conservation of game life.

You, too, may have a clear skin

Proud? Justly so!

Every person should have a clear skin. If you have skin blemishes why not get rid of them PERMANENTLY?

THOUSANDS of people have weak, impure blood—to this may be attributed pimples, boils, eczema, "run-down" systems, rheumatism and even more serious ailments.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get the number of your red-blood-cells back to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, those pains usually called rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again and sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. You are resistant to disease.

Throughout more than a hundred years S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It is Nature's own blood tonic for improving the appetite, clearing the body of so-called skin troubles, and building strength and resistance to disease.

S.S.S. increases the count of red-cells in the blood. Weak, impure blood is injurious to the system, lowering resistance to disease. Rich, red blood builds and sustains the body. S.S.S. helps Nature build rich, red blood. Good blood improves the processes by which the body is nourished, promotes constructive metabolism (healthy body building) and works against infection and disease. Take S.S.S. daily at mealtime. To get full benefit you must take it regularly and over a sufficient period of time. At all Drug Stores. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Skin troubles—pimples, boils, eczema, and sallow complexion—are usually but symptoms of a deeper, a more dangerous trouble—a lack of the normal count of red-cells in the blood.

When you take S.S.S. to get rid of these outside blemishes, you are building up the system to ward off the graver diseases of which these blemishes are Nature's warning.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

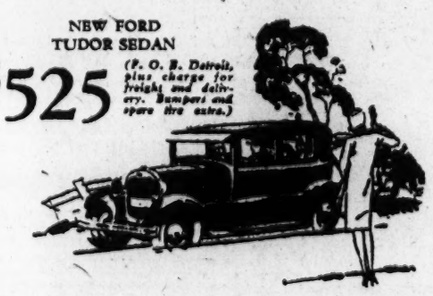
WATCH HOW THE NEW FORD HOLDS THE ROAD

NEW FORD TUDOR SEDAN $525 (F. O. B. Detroit, plus charge for freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra.)



THE new Ford is a great car to drive because of the way it holds the road even at high speeds.

This roadability is due to the low center of gravity, the semi-elliptic transverse springs, the Houdaille hydraulic two-way shock absorbers, and the low ratio of unsprung weight to sprung weight.

Come in and arrange for a demonstration. You'll find this roadability feature of the new Ford as outstanding as its beauty, speed, comfort, safety, reliability and economy.

UNION BRIDGE FIRE BRIGADE TO MARCH

Full Contingent, in Uniform, Headed by Scout Band, Coming to Capital.

WILL BRING TWO TRUCKS

When the firemen's parade marches down Pennsylvania avenue Monday morning, Union Bridge, Md., will have its full share of representatives in line, headed by a Boy Scout band of 40 pieces. According to word received from George E. Eichelberger, secretary of the company, 45 men in uniform will represent Union Bridge, while both trucks from that place will be brought to the Capital for the celebration.

The Union Bridge Fire Company of Carroll County, Md., was organized March 10, 1887, with seven charter members. They were William H. Marshall, Francis G. Eppley, J. Frank Baker, Charles F. Myers, Frank M. Ogle, Harvey H. Bond and John E. Young. Eppley, Young, Ogle and Bond are still living and Bond and Ogle are still active members.

The company has had three different homes for its apparatus, which now consists of a Stutz fire engine, with a capacity for 500 gallons per minute, and a Packard service truck. Ladders and chemical tanks are included in the equipment of the engine, while the service truck carries hose, a high-pressure pump, hand extinguishers and other accessories.

Officers of the company are Howard Gray, president; W. D. Ogle, vice president; George H. Saylor, treasurer; George C. Eichelberger, financial secretary; Roland E. Stonesifer, recording secretary; George R. Lowe, chief; M. E. Gray, first assistant chief; W. E. Reaver, second assistant chief; H. H. Bond, B. M. Hesson, George R. Lowe, R. A. Yingling, G. H. Fogle and Frank M. Ogle, trustees.

FIREMEN WHO WILL PARADE IN CAPITAL

Eager for the firemen's parade in Washington on Labor Day are these members of the Union Bridge Fire Company of Carroll County, Md. They will be headed by a Boy Scout Band of 40 pieces in the line of march and will be accompanied by two fire trucks. The entire Union Bridge representation will number 45 men in uniform.

20 Members of Crew Of Quimistan Paid Off

New York, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Twenty members of the crew of the ancient banana freighter Quimistan, which sank off the Virginia Capes last week, were paid off today by American representatives of the German interests which had purchased the vessel before she started out on her last voyage.

The men, picked up at sea by the liner President Harrison and brought to the seaman's institute here, checked out after receiving their wages and sought employment on other ships. Findings of an inquiry which was held yesterday in the offices of the German counsel into the loss of the Quimistan will be sent to the German minister of marine.

Macon Youth Wins Prone Rifle Match

Chicago Entry Takes Class B Contest as Ohio Events Open.

Camp Perry, Ohio, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Arthur Ferguson, 17, of Macon, Ga., today won the class A prone match of the junior rifle corps, opening event of the National Rifle Association's annual program here.

Ferguson had a score of 294 out of a possible 300. He defeated 43 rivals between the ages of 15 and 18 years. Milton Miller, 16, of Columbus, Ohio, tied him but lost out since Ferguson had the best score on the last relay of the match. Lemmel Clark, 18, of Macon, Ga., was third with 292, Emmett Casson, 16, Macon, fourth, and Felix Kaznicki, 17, of Birmingham, Ala., fifth. Both shot 291 but Casson outranked Kaznicki on the last relay.

Bradford Wiles, 14, of Chicago, shooting in class B had 299 out of 300 possible points, while Richard Heller, 14, Altoona, Pa., was second with 289. Charles Andrews, 14, Canton, Ohio, was third with 286. Richard Gould, 14, Elyria, Ohio, and Vanwyck Brinkerhoff, 14, Toledo, Ohio, fourth and fifth with 281. There were 39 contestants from 12 to 15 years of age.

THERE IS NO OTHER
ALL-STEEL
REFRIGERATOR

THE only all-steel refrigerators in the world . . . these rugged General Electrics. Built of sheets of steel—as strong and long-lived as a safe. They cannot warp because steel cannot warp. Their doors will never sag. Their latch and hinges will never loosen—they are bolted right into the steel.

Because their doors always fit so tightly and because of specially effective insulation, these refrigerators actually maintain perfect temperature (always safely below the 50 degree danger point) on the least possible current. Heat cannot leak in and cold cannot seep out . . . and that is the secret of economical refrigeration.

Just as an all-steel cabinet is superior to other types, so is the hermetically sealed mechanism of the General Electric in a class of its own. It is dust-proof and worry-free. Operation is extremely quiet. It never needs oiling. It has an accessible temperature control. As evidence of guaranteed reliability—there are now more than 300,000 users and not one has spent a single dollar for repairs! Come and see the models, any of which can be purchased on conveniently spaced payments.

Tune in on the General Electric Hour broadcast every Saturday evening 8 to 9 Eastern Standard Time over the N. B. C. network of 42 stations.

A WORD TO PARENTS -:- A FINE PURPOSE DICTATES
There is no instrument for the home equal to the piano; it is the basic instrument. Do not be content in having your children just listen to musical programs all through life; help them procure a piano and they will soon be able to create music. The richest child is poor without a musical training. We are fast entering an era of self expression and music is a definite road for love of the beautiful, a finer and nobler outlook.
WE ARE SINCERELY ENDEAVORING TO COOPERATE WITH EACH ONE OF YOU RIGHT NOW

BRITAIN'S RESPONSIBILITY.

The American people have every right to hold Great Britain responsible for the protection of American lives in Palestine. Premier MacDonald and his new Labor government must face the consequences of the lamentable happenings which so far have cost more than a dozen American lives. If the spreading disorders are not speedily checked the British prime minister will be too busy explaining his failure to his own people to bother about a naval disarmament trip to America.

President Hoover expressed the hope yesterday that the British will be able to cope with the situation. At the same time he manifested deep concern over the present outlook. Meanwhile, Secretary Stimson was expressing his determination to see that Americans are protected to a delegation representing various Jewish organizations in the United States which had come to protest against the "unspeakable atrocities" in Palestine directed against the Jewish population. Mr. Stimson is relying entirely on the British government to protect Americans. Citizens of the United States who are in deadly peril in Palestine must depend upon the British government, and not upon their own.

Great Britain is expected to provide enough cruisers, enough man power and sufficient modern military equipment to control the Arab outbreaks and snuff out all vestige in British-controlled territory of the threatened Moslem war against the Jews. Nothing short of a complete eradication of this fanatical movement against the Jewish race will be worthy of present-day civilization. It would be intolerable for Ramsay MacDonald to report a halfway remedy. If necessary, British resources must be taxed to the limit to command respect for lives and property in territory over which the British assume to exercise control.

Under the circumstances it may become more important for Mr. MacDonald to scrap some of his socialistic policies than to consider scrapping cruisers that are now unexpectedly needed to assert British authority in foreign lands. The new MacDonald policy of dealing with Egypt and with mandated territories along socialistic lines may or may not have a bearing on the outbreaks in Palestine. The treaty drawn up by Great Britain with Egypt was announced with flourishes only a few days ago. It purported to carry out Mr. MacDonald's plan of terminating military occupation and arranging for concessions designed to encourage the idea of ultimate Egyptian independence.

In reality the Egyptian treaty yielded nothing in substance to Egypt, but was intended to raise false hopes among the Egyptian people. British policy has never been willing to rely upon anything but force in coping with such outbreaks as have now occurred in Palestine. Mr. MacDonald's prompt action in rushing cruisers and troops to the scene provides the answer to the question whether his new brand of socialism affords an international panacea.

No one would be warranted in asserting that the socialistic British policy encouraged the Arabs to direct their attacks against the Jews, in the belief that the traditional British policy of swift redress need no longer be feared. But if Mr. MacDonald fails to fulfill the duty now imposed upon him in Palestine, the import of such failure will be noted in Egypt and the Sudan, Mesopotamia, India, Transjordania, Hedjaz and all other Mohammedan countries where Britain exercises control.

A BAD TARIFF PROPOSAL.

The Senate finance committee has yielded to Democratic criticism on one of the most important items in the tariff bill. Democratic fire has been concentrated on the flexible provision, which would give the President authority to alter tariff rates within certain limits to meet changing conditions of competition with foreign goods. The provision has been attacked as a surrender of rate-making powers of Congress, and some legislators have declared it unconstitutional.

Apparently the finance committee is seeking to ward off this criticism by taking the discretionary powers away from the President. The bill, as passed by the House, authorized the President to investigate differences in competition of foreign and domestic products and make rate changes which he found warranted. The whole thing was left to the discretion of the President, in adopting or rejecting the recommendations of the Tariff Commission. But the finance committee has eliminated the phrase "in his judgment," and arranged the bill so that the President would be authorized to "determine and proclaim such increases or decreases in rates of duty expressly fixed by statute as are shown by such investigation to be necessary to equalize such differences."

This action is interpreted to mean that the matter of changing a duty rate would rest entirely in the hands of the Tariff Commission. If the findings of the commission should show that the sugar industry, for example, was in need of a higher duty, the President would be obliged to proclaim the increase recommended. The objection of the Democrats that Congress is surrendering its duty-levying powers is not overcome, but the finance committee would substitute the judgment of a politically divided commission for that of the Chief Executive who appoints that commission.

The finance committee had previously rejected the House provision for a tariff commission appointed without reference to politics. This would have enabled the President to select all the commissioners from his own political party. With this arrangement the investing of discretionary powers in the President or the commission would have been of less importance, because the party in power would be held responsible in either case. But the committee recommends retention of the bipartisan commission, and would clothe this body with the discretionary powers formerly exercised by the Chief Executive. The scheme leaves a loophole through which the benefits of the flexible provision may be virtually nullified. It disregards the inescapable fact that the Republican party is responsible for the country's tariff policy as long as that party is in power. The finance committee could hardly have chosen a worse combination than a bipartisan committee invested with the discretionary authority that should be exercised by the President, if it is to be exercised at all.

THE NEW PUBLIC LAND POLICY.

President Hoover proposes to appoint a commission to advise him on the question of transferring surface rights in the unappropriated, unreserved public domain to the State governments. His letter read before the conference of governors of public land States at Salt Lake City confirms the previous announcement of Secretary of the Interior Wilbur that the administration wishes to withdraw its authority over all except forest, park, Indian and mineral lands. If this policy is adopted more than 200,000,000 acres of land will pass from Federal to State administration.

President Hoover was very careful to state that his suggestions are only tentative. Any major change in the policy of dealing with the public domain is certain to stir up a controversy. For years the Western States containing the major portion of Government land have been fighting to gain control of this area. There has been strong opposition in some sections of the East, based on the argument that Government protection against wasteful exploitation is essential. Both President Hoover and Secretary Wilbur are Westerners, but it can not be said that their attitude is that of the Western States. The suggestion in the President's letter is a compromise between the demands of the West for control of land within their borders and demands of the East for conservation.

The remaining free public lands are valuable in the main only for grazing, the President says. He excludes from consideration areas reserved for parks, forests, minerals and power sites. As a matter of fact these millions of acres have little value except for their minerals and forests. A glance at the receipts from public lands for the fiscal year 1929 shows that oil royalties are the chief source of revenue. Such royalties yielded nearly two-thirds of the $6,193,956 collected by the United States Land Office. The sale of land and timber brought a considerable sum, but fees for grazing, &c., amounted to but $461,000.

The Government proposes to retain control of the most valuable rights in the public domain and turn over the surface rights in the less valuable land to the States. Last year it cost the Government $2,237,303 to administer its public lands. Salaries of the General Land Office and expenses of the district land offices amounted to nearly $1,000,000. Survey of public lands cost $770,699 and $443,773 was spent in protection of lands from trespass, &c. Under the arrangement suggested by the administration the burden of these expenses would fall upon the States, while the Government would continue its control over the major source of revenue. It is not likely that the States will accept any such proposition.

One reason advanced for transfer of the grazing lands is that "the Federal Government is incapable of adequate administration of matters which require so large a matter of local understanding." Attention is called to the fact that the value of grazing land is steadily decreasing because of overstocking, and it is assumed that the States would halt this deterioration. All of the public land State governments are hard pressed for funds, and have less to spend on conservation and reforestation of these lands than the National Government.

The States consider themselves capable of controlling mineral as well as grazing rights on the public domain. They will not willingly accept a theory that they are competent to administer unprofitable lands but not valuable oil reserves. Yet the recent protest against President Hoover's oil conservation policy indicates that these States are more interested in exploiting than conserving the oil fields within their borders.

The close relation of the President's suggestion to reclamation of arid Western land gives added importance to the proposed change in policy. The future of the West is involved in the problem. The Western States are struggling for development and will not agree to any proposition which extends their responsibilities without giving them added economic advantages. It is well that the President has decided to have a commission study the question thoroughly before deciding on a definite policy.

GOVERNMENT WORKERS' INSURANCE.

Announcement that a plan for offering group insurance to all Government workers is in formation is good news for the great army of Federal employes. Details of the plan are as yet very indefinite, but indications are that if the proper response from the employes is forthcoming the plan will take shape in the conference called for September 6.

Extensive savings could be made on a group insurance policy covering more than 500,000 Government employes. This type of insurance has been popular with employes in many branches of industry and there appears to be no reason why its benefits should not be extended to Government workers. The idea is approved by William H. McReynolds, who is directing the field survey for the Personnel Classification Board to determine how conditions in the Government service compare with those of private business. No doubt Congress would be favorable to it if an arrangement satisfactory to the employes can be worked out.

It is generally agreed that the proposal will be dropped if opposition is shown by the Government workers. At this time it appears that there can be no well-founded opposition, because no definite plan has been advanced. To draft a plan that would meet the approval of every one would be impossible, but an agreement satisfactory to the great majority should not be difficult. If the organizations of Federal employes approve the suggestion, it might be well for them to give it attention and make their views known before the conference. Whatever attitude the employes take, much more can be accomplished through cooperation in preliminary plans than by criticism after a definite scheme has been drawn up.

OIL BEATS COAL

Toronto Dispatch, August 26, to the New York Times.

The steam locomotive met and was vanquished today by its first primary power rival to emerge since Stephenson produced his Rocket nearly 100 years ago.

An oil-electric locomotive kept pace with the International Limited, Chicago train of the Canadian National Railways, on a run of 334 miles from Montreal to Toronto and came to rest here in as good mechanical condition as when it started.

Ostensibly, the oil-electric did no more than equal the pace set by the giant Confederation type that pulled the first section of the limited. Its victory, however, did not register on speed, but on the basis of operating cost. For the steam locomotive used about $80 worth of coal on the run, while the newcomer used only $25 worth of oil.

The electric locomotive already has bested the steam locomotive in point of capacity and operating costs, but the installation of an electric system practically means repeating the cost of first construction of a steam railroad.

The oil-electric, by contrast, may be placed on the tracks ready to operate without a costly power plant or third-rail system. Like the steam locomotive, it is a primary power vehicle—that is, one that generates the energy it consumes. If it can equal the record it set today it can delay or even make unnecessary the electrification of many miles of road.

Engineers who discussed the performance of No. 9000, the official name of the new engine, admit that much remains to be done. For one thing, the initial cost of an oil-electric locomotive like No. 9000 is at present about four times the rate for each horsepower of a steam engine. Nine Thousand also consumed more lubricating oil on a larger scale than its established rival.

The fact remains, however, that for the first time an oil-electric locomotive pulled a standard steel train on a passenger schedule which regularly involves speeds of from 70 to 80 miles an hour.

Today the Nine Thousand clocked 60 miles an hour with regularity and after warming up maintained a speed of more than 70 miles an hour for mile after mile. Once it hit 75.

Once well out of Montreal the speedometer in the private car of S. J. Hungerford, vice president of the Canadian National, kept fairly steadily around 60 miles. At Gananokue, Ont., by way of improving the occasion the Nine Thousand was accelerated to 60 miles an hour in slightly more than two minutes, or about twice the rate at which a steam locomotive performs this feat.

"The oil-electric engine is now standard for switching purposes," said C. E. Brooks, chief of motive power of the Canadian National. "Engines like the Nine Thousand will not displace existing electric equipment, but they will displace steam engines and delay or postpone electrification. We will use it in the central region of Canada, where we now must import coal."

Like some electric locomotives, the Nine Thousand is in two articulated units. Each is driven by a twelve-cylinder Diesel engine. In this type heavy oil is used and burned by a progressive explosive process instead of instantly, as is gasoline in an automobile.

The oil engine drives an electric generator, which in turn moves individual motors that spin the four pairs of driving wheels on each unit. With a heavy overload period of a maximum of fifteen minutes, it will develop a tractive effort of 100,000 pounds in acceleration and 42,000 pounds continuously.

Taking the Census.

Los Angeles Times: When the enumerators come to the door next April to take the census a lot of householders will think the Government is mighty nosey. The enumerators are given a list of about 30 questions they are supposed to ask for every man, woman and child in the country and if the man is out of a job there are about a dozen extra quizzes to put. But the idea is to make the census something more than a mere count. The information will be of value in compiling massed statistical facts for use in industry and sociology. Even the men who are unemployed will be helped to new positions if the thing be found possible. The official population of American cities is the least vital of the compilations.

IN THE MIRROR.

"That is my face in the glass," said he,
"That is the thing the world must see,
Which friend and enemy glimpse as me.

"How do I look when I smile?" thought he.
"That is something I'll never see,
For it's seldom, if ever, I smile at me.

"Knowing myself and my weight of sin,
If I smiled as I looked at my face therein
It would be but a manufactured grin.

"What do they see who eye to eye
Look in my face as the days go by
Do they know what manner of man am I?

"Lord, at this mirror I'm doomed to be
Face to face, morning and night, with me.
Let me not shrink from what I must see."

"This Man Is Not Hungry," Says the World; "Let's Feed Him."

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE is an old story about a preacher who borrowed twenty dollars every Saturday night and returned it Monday morning.

When asked for an explanation, he said: "When I preach with empty pockets, I lack courage to denounce the sins of rich men in my congregation. When I can reach in my pocket and feel a crisp twenty dollar bill, it gives me confidence."

That is good psychology.

Only those who have experienced poverty and worked their way out of it can realize to how great an extent poise depends upon money.

Those whose backbones are stiffened by family or intellectual pride or pride of achievement may face the world with unshaken confidence despite flat purses, but the ordinary man has only a pocket bravery and his bones turn to water when he's broke.

I know what it is to be broke and out of a job and a thousand miles from home, and I know from bitter experience how hard it is to keep the whine out of your voice when asking for a job you desperately need.

To him that hath shall be given; nothing succeeds like success; and everybody is willing to help the man who doesn't need it.

But the man in need arouses suspicion. "There's something wrong with you," says the world, "or you wouldn't be in this state." And because he feels the world's suspicion and coldness, the man is apologetic and timid. His need unmans him. His courage is gone.

That is a form of snobbery and does little credit to man's intelligence; but we must deal with the world as we find it and adjust our plans to nature's rules.

Money is a tool and a weapon, and the modern man without money feels as helpless as the primitive felt without a club.

Obviously, then, the sensible thing for him to do is to arm himself. If he can save only ten cents a week, let him save that much and add to it until he can face the world fearlessly.

The world is a snob. Resign yourself to that fact. Jobs, courtesies, friendship, banquets—all are given to the man who doesn't seem to need them.

The secret of success is to seem successful. To seem successful you must feel successful. And to feel successful you must be able to feel a roll in your pocket.

MORE ADVICE TO INVESTORS.

Sir: I bought 10,000 shares of Penick Ford under the impression that Penick was Henry's son. What would you advise? BIDGEWELL.

A. Arsenic.

• • • •

Q. Will you be good enough to give me a complete explanation of the rediscount rate, sterling fluctuations and brokers' loans. PUZZLE MOTHER.

A. No (And you'll make a better mother for not knowing).

• • • •

Q. I am creating a trust fund for my 8-year-old daughter and am anxious for expert advice as I can not afford to take any chances. I have so far chosen for this purpose the following stocks:

American Agricultural Chemical, common.
Manhattan Shirt.
Park Utah Mines.
Hackensack Water, common.
Freeport, Texas.

Have I made a mistake? DADDY.

A. None, except that you have overlooked Florida land.

• • • •

Q. I have $500 to invest and would like to put it into some stocks that will make me independent. Answer right away as I am in great suspense. T. G. L.

A. There is something in the tone of your inquiry which makes us feel that after you attained independence you would take up golf and flood us with questions about the correct grip for the mashie-niblick. It is therefore, best for both of us that you never know.

• • • •

Q. A rich uncle just died and left me $300,000. I am thinking of putting it all into Public Utility stocks when they get a little higher. What I want is a quick turnover. JASON.

"RAILWAY LITERATURE."

Railway bookstalls certainly do not lack an ample supply of thrillers to while away the supposed tedium of holiday journeying. But one old-timer has noted the entire disappearance of what used to be known distinctively as "railway literature."

Half a century ago, and less, publishers found it profitable to issue special "railway editions" of popular books, many of which were written especially for the passenger by rail, states the London Herald. They treated of hairbreadth escapes on the line, encounters of solitary passengers with escaped lunatics, struggles on the footplate with mad or drunken drivers, broken bridges, train-wrecking and other such incidents nicely calculated to put a nervous traveler in a fit frame of mind to enjoy his journey.

The writers of these shockers were many and ingenious, but the Edgar Wallace of the tribe was probably Bracebridge Hemyng, whose "Jack Harkaway" series once enjoyed enormous popularity.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Do Congressmen Get Automobiles for Doing Favors? Investigate!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The meeting of the publishers of rural newspapers in western New York a few days ago appears to have resulted in an accumulation of clouds promising another shower of congressional investigations. Country newspaper publishers in all sections of the country have protested vigorously for years against the alleged interference of the Postoffice Department in what they consider their private business. These publishers insist that the printing of private addresses, together with return requests, upon stamped envelopes is not a legitimate function of the department and that such printing is an unwarranted interference with the business of the printers.

In an address delivered at the meeting, William M. Dailey, secretary of the American Publishers Association, told his associates that the contractor for printing the return cards on stamped envelopes is the "Power and Paper Trust." In view of the scandals which arose through the purchase of many newspapers by the trust, Mr. Dailey suggested that Congress investigate the award of the contract for envelope printing. But he went further, hinting at far more serious reasons for stimulating congressional activity in the matter of investigations. He intimated broadly that organizations of "postal and other employes" are in the habit of giving "automobiles and other gifts" to congressmen for certain favors.

Mr. Dailey should certainly be given the opportunity to present any facts he may have to the House of Representatives, so that those members who have not yet received an automobile or "other gift" may learn the source of supply. Furthermore, such an investigation should enable committees of Government employes who have been trying for years to secure better compensation for departmental workers to obtain an idea of how many automobiles must be presented to congressmen in order to secure consideration for their claims. Let the investigations start without delay. H. P. WILLOUGHBY.

Corferrol, a Compound, Reported to Be Effective in Breaking Down Cancer Cells.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: At the thirteenth International Physiological Congress at Harvard Medical School, the announcement was made that a compound had been discovered which dissolves and apparently cures cancer in animals. The curative qualities of this compound, which is composed of an extract of the suprarenal glands of the kidneys in their healthy state, to which is added iron and pyrrol blue, is effected in a few days. The pyrrol blue, which is a coal tar product, and the iron when injected in the cancer cause an oxidation which in turn causes the cancer cells to die within a few hours.

Boris Sokoloff, a young Russian, of the Russian University of Prague, Czechoslovakia, is the discoverer of Corferrol, which is the name given to this new compound. "The new angle which this discovery contributes to the fight against cancer, it is reported, "is a method of relief by speeding up the natural activities of body cells instead of finding some drug to poison the cancer to death."

Corferrol was used on 1,000 rats and mice which had four different types of cancer, including the malignant kind. About 70 per cent of the animals were to all appearances cured during the tests. Dr. W. H. Howell, of Johns Hopkins University, regards the method important, but the ultimate outcome when the compound is used on humans can not be predicted. C. C. R., M. D

Gaze at Red Antares, 3,500 Times Brighter Than the Sun.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Red Antares! Heart of the Scorpion, rival of Mars! First-magnitude star jewel, shining during evening in the southwest, glittering and gleaming rather low, amid a constellation that well resembles a starry scorpion. Above this firmamental Scorpion we see the constellation Libra and the larger constellation Ophiuchus. Eastwardly from Antares, there shines the yellowish planet Saturn.

Red Antares is most titanic of all known suns. It is perhaps four hundred million miles in its diameter. Its light-rays take between three and four centuries to reach us. Not a very hot "sky-furnace," compared with a bluish sun like Vega. Nevertheless, a surface temperature of 3,000 degrees, Centigrade, is not low. Its actual luminosity approximates 3,500 times that of our own sun. Glittering, gleaming, gigantic Antares! A sun of night which we may thus describe:

Again Antares shines in Southern sky
Like blazing beacon or celestial eye;
Once more it gleams with weird and ruddy fire
Like omen that portends disaster dire;
And like a gem resplendently aglow,
Antares sparkles in the Scorpio.

Rented Airplanes Offer Cheap Means for Making Quick Trips.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The airplane is developing rapidly as a common necessity in speeding up business transactions. The latest proof of this fact comes from Texas, where a firm has announced the plans for the purchase of 100 machines, which will be rented to persons holding Department of Commerce licenses. Thus, it is evident that we are approaching the time of the "rent-a-plane" business.

The question arises whether there are enough persons holding pilot licenses to warrant a demand for the use of the ships. If such a business should take root in Texas, it would undoubtedly extend to other States, and thus cause the number of licensed pilots to grow.

The Southwestern States possess flying advantages, as the country is rather level and snow, sleet and other winter disturbances are a rarity. But experience in flying soon overcomes ordinary handicaps, and the pressure for time-saving will induce more and more individuals to qualify as pilots so that they may rent a plane to make quick trips. Capital's Panic Is Recalled by War Museum

Washingtonians to Go to Fredericksburg to See Civil War Relics.

MEMORIES of the days when the cannon of Bull Run thundered their sinister challenge to the Capital will be evoked in the minds of older Washingtonians who this week will go to Fredericksburg, Va., to view the largest collection of Civil War relics in the United States. The new Battlefield Museum in that town has just completed its work of gathering more than 60,000 separate articles of war used in both the Northern and Southern armies, and the collection is attracting much attention in this city.

Only a score or so of the Georgetown cave dwellers can recall that hectic period when, after the defeat of the Northern army at the battle of Bull Run, Capital residents were in a panic at the dreaded approach of the victorious Confederates. The city teemed with wild rumors and reports of all kinds. From the Virginia shore streamed a constant procession of stragglers, deserters, camp followers and picnicking Congressmen who had ridden forth in state to view a sporting event and returned haggard, spattered with mud, their exhausted horses panting ahead of broken-down carriages.

President Roosevelt was one of those who saw the nucleus of the present Civil War collection, having traveled to the Jamestown Exposition in 1907 particularly to inspect the relics. At that time it was referred to as the Elmer Agen collection, and had been gathered by Mr. Agen, a New Yorker who has spent a number of years locating and purchasing it. President Roosevelt and a number of military men of that day pronounced the collection the best of its kind in America. Since then, it has been considerably added to and enlarged.

This year the collection came into the possession of a Fredericksburg man who donated it to the museum. Among the interesting pieces found are the field glasses and accoutrement of celebrated generals, the table used when "Stonewall" Jackson's arm was amputated, the ink-well of Gen. Grant, candle molds employed in the Union army, candlesticks from Gen. Burnside's headquarters where he entertained President Lincoln at dinner, the field bed of Gen. Jackson, a sash worn by Gen. J. E. B. Stuart, C. S. A.; oil paintings of various battles, rifles, carbines, uniforms, swords and small arms used in both armies.

Two Families Build Homes On S Street

Reeds and Castles Will Live in Block Already Distinguished.

Two new homes are being built in the 2200 block on S street, that already distinguished neighborhood. President and Mrs. Hoover are former residents of that block, and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson has a charming home there, where she has lived since she was the First Lady of the Land. Now Senator and Mrs. David A. Reed have purchased the ground at 2210 S street and will build their home there. Senator Reed, with a group of other members of the Senate who remained in town through the summer, has lived with them at Tuxdene, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, in Edgemoor. Senator and Mrs. Reed have leased a house on R street for this season.

The Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. William R. Castle, jr., will remain in the house at 1818 R street this winter while their new home at 2200 S street is being built. Mrs. Castle is spending the summer at Hot Springs, Va., where Mr. Castle joins her frequently for week-ends.

Miss Hazel Vic Roy To Be Wed to Mr. Howard.

An interesting wedding will be that of Miss Hazel Vivian Vic Roy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Vic Roy, of Clarendon, Va., to Mr. Robert V. Howard, director of music of the Shadside Academy, of Pittsburgh, Pa., at the Calvary Baptist Church in Washington, Tuesday, September 3. The wedding will be the first that has ever been broadcast by radio and the entire service will be sent to the tens of thousands of listeners of WOL, Washington. The broadcast is a compliment to the bridegroom, who for the last four years has been chief announcer of WOL. The bride will be attended by her sister, Mrs. F. LeRoy Richards, as matron of honor; Miss

QUICK ACTION ASKED FOR WHEAT LOANS

Funds Are Sought to Help Growers Put Their Grain in Storage.

BOARD DRAFTS BY-LAWS

Chicago, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Immediate action upon applications of Northwestern wheat growers for loans from the Intermediate Credit Bank at St. Paul to enable the farmers to store their grain, relieve terminal congestion and to prevent glutting the market and forcing prices down was asked today by Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, of H. J. Bestor, Washington, chairman of the Federal Farm Loan Board.

The action was taken in a telegram dispatched following the appearance before the farm board committee members here of M. W. Thatcher, of St. Paul. The farm board is meeting with the committee of sixteen named by grain growers and elevator men to formulate plans for the National Grain Growers Sales Agency, which, when formed, will be eligible for a loan under the farm aid bill.

Because of the inability of the farm board to make loans other than supplemental, Chairman Legge advised Thatcher that the board could not advance any money to organizations until they had compiled with the requirements as set forth in the law.

Meanwhile work of the committee of sixteen in drafting a set of by-laws and articles of incorporation for the proposed sales agency was entrusted to a subcommittee of three members, who reported to the committee at intervals during the day as the trio sought to clear up some mooted point. On this subcommittee are C. E. Huff, Salina, Kans., president of the National Farmers Union; J. S. Cottington, Stanhope, Iowa, representing the National Farmers Co., and John Manley, Enid, Okla., representing the Southwestern wheat pool.

Spokesmen for the farm board explained the members were meeting with the committee of sixteen more as observers than in their official capacities and would continue in the observing roles until the committee was ready to report with the proposed structure of the sales agency.

At adjournment tonight the subcommittee was still conferring over various questions. The subcommittee will report tomorrow.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.

Washington, Tuesday, August 27—8 P. M.

Forecast for the District of Columbia and Maryland—Fair and slightly cooler Wednesday; Thursday partly cloudy; gentle to moderate north winds.

For Virginia—Fair; slightly cooler in central and northeast portions Wednesday; Thursday probably fair; gentle to moderate north and northeast winds.

The northeastern disturbance is north of the mouth of the Saint Lawrence River, Father Point, 29.76 inches, with a trough extending south and southwestward to the Virginia coast. A disturbance of slight intensity is over the southwest Florida coast, moving northeastward. It will probably increase slowly in intensity, and cause fresh to strong shifting winds near the center off the South Atlantic coast on Wednesday. An area of high pressure is moving southeastward over the upper lake region, Marquette, 30.22 inches, and pressure is high from Alberta southeastward to Montana. During the last 24 hours showers have occurred along the Atlantic coast between southern New England and Maryland, over Florida, and at scattered points in the northern Plains States and the middle and southern Rocky Mountain range. Temperatures have fallen in the Ohio Valley, the lower lake region, and northern New York.

The outlook is for fair weather Wednesday and Thursday in the Washington forecast district, except for showers on Wednesday along the South Atlantic coast, and on Thursday afternoon along the lower lakes. It will be cooler on Wednesday in portions of the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States.

TARIFF BILL IS HELD COSTLY TO WOMEN

Strikes at Household and Personal Outlay, Asserts Feminine Legislator.

RATE ON SILK ASSAILED

(Associated Press.)

The pending Republican tariff bill, in the opinion of Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, "strikes viciously not only at the farmer, but at women's household and personal expenditures, affecting principally the 8,500,000 wage-earning portion of the female population.

"Every one of these women, very many of whom are finding it difficult to live now," said Mrs. Norton, in a statement issued yesterday through the Democratic national committee, "will have to pay an increase of from 10 to 75 per cent on their shoes, stockings, dresses, coats, hats, underwear, toilet articles; in fact, upon everything that goes to make a woman comfortable."

Mrs. Norton voted against the tariff bill in the House. Her two Democratic women colleagues, however, were divided on the final roll call, Mrs. Pearl Oldfield, of Arkansas, voting against and Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, voting for the bill.

As for silk, the New Jersey woman legislator said this was no longer the exclusive fabric of rich women, but working women were using it extensively, too. The industry, she added, already was overprotected and suffering from overproduction, which the tariff could not cure.

Fine toilet soap was something every woman appreciated, she continued, arguing there was no need for the proposed increase of 30 cents on every dollar's worth.

A $10 hat, in her opinion not a luxury, called for a tariff of $2.50, she said, adding that if the proposed tariff on shoes is finally enacted a great hardship would be placed on "working women who must keep well dressed in order to keep their positions."

Another article she listed as overprotected was perfume. All women of refinement, rich or poor, she said, value French perfumes, and it would not be fair to France to increase this duty.

Mrs. Norton's attack came at a time when Democratic members of the Senate finance committee were combing further the House bill as revised by their Republican committee colleagues, with a view to framing amendments to be offered on the floor.

Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking minority committeeman, said several amendments were discussed, but none was formulated.

Driver Here Injured In Crash With Truck

Harry T. Lore, 35, of 3500 Fourteenth street northwest, received a possible fracture of the ribs and other injuries yesterday morning when an automobile he was driving collided with a truck on Twentieth street at Connecticut avenue northwest. Lore was treated at Emergency Hospital and later sent to his home.

The truck with which Lore is said to have collided was driven by George Glasser, of Twenty-fifth and Water streets northwest, according to police.

Granny Main Patron Of Beauty Specialist

Chicago, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—It was not the flapper, but grandma, who made the beauty business the sixth industry in the United States, Mrs. Ruth B. Maurer, of New York, today told the tenth annual convention of the National Association of Cosmeticians and Hair Artists.

"Women under 30 years, buying their beauty a la carte, go in extravagantly for faddish make-ups and haircuts, but the larger profits come from older women, who order their cosmetics and beauty culture table d'hote, from hair waves to pedicures," she said.

Statistics showed that the average woman now spends $50 a year on cosmetics and beauty culture, she added. She predicted that women in the near future would invest a minimum of $100 a year each in maintaining their beauty.

City's Courts Adjourn In Honor of Mullowny

The District Supreme Court and all branches of Police Court adjourned yesterday at noon out of respect to former Police Court Judge Alexander R. Mullowny, of 6300 Connecticut avenue, who died Monday night from complications following an operation.

Adjournment of the District Supreme Court was taken on motion of Attorney D. Edward Clarke. Justice Alfred A. Wheat stated from the bench that he had known Judge Mullowney during his previous residence in Washington and that he had always held him in the highest esteem. All judges of the various branches of Police Court delivered eulogies in connection with the adjournment of the courts. Plans for the funeral services have not been completed.

You can't paint the schoolhouse with a Waterman's pen—but

You can get more out of the schoolhouse if you use a Waterman's when you are in it. Waterman's makes writing and studying easier. It helps both thinking and writing. Parents may think it worth while to pass this thought and a Waterman's to their children.

If you know the outstanding features of Waterman's you will know why it is the best fountain pen to buy. Note these features.

The hard rubber, perfectly balanced holder that is light and stainless, that will not burn, and feels fine in the hand.

The big ink capacity that enables a Waterman's to do a full day's work without refilling.

The selection of pen points offered so that any style of writing may be suited, and a range of prices to fit any desired expenditure.

Ask to see Waterman's No. 7, and use it as a pen point guide.

Ask any dealer to show you Waterman's No. 7 and select the point that best suits your style of writing.

Today's True Detective Story

The Mystery of the Cedar Chest

By VANCE WYNN

DID Anna Schmidt rob her mistress of a gold wine cup and other valuable articles?

That was the question that agitated Amsterdam a great many years ago and eventually enabled Ploos van Amstel, its chief magistrate, to win himself a reputation as a great detective and a judge of human nature.

Mme. Hartzell, an exceedingly wealthy woman, insisted that Anna Schmidt had been systematically stealing from her, and said that recently she had taken the wine cup in question and a number of other objects worth thousands of dollars. Anna denied the impeachment, denied it with a shaking voice and tears in her beautiful blue eyes. Thereupon Mme. Hartzell went before a magistrate and swore out a warrant for the girl's arrest.

This necessitated a search of the house, which included the room occupied by Anna Schmidt. When they reached this room Mme. Hartzell pointed to a box in the corner of the apartment, and exclaimed, dramatically:

"You will find the stolen articles in that box. I have been watching the wretched girl, and I know that is where she has been hiding the stuff."

Anna was furious at this accusation, and, to prove her innocence, she hurried to her bureau and secured the key of the box. She gave it to the police and invited them to inspect her property.

But, alas, when it was opened it was found to contain a number of the articles that belonged to the mistress. Silver, lace and articles of great value were there in abundance, although singular to state, the gold wine cup was not to be found. With great bitterness, Mme. Hartzell said the girl had probable sold this family heirloom.

The girl was arrested and sent to prison and sentenced to be publicly flogged, which in those olden days, was the penalty for theft. Anna, behind the bars, cried her eyes nearly out and waited for the humiliation that was in store for her.

In the meantime, Ploos van Amstel, seated in his office in the city hall, did some thinking. After a time he visited the prison and had an interview with Anna Schmidt. He came away convinced of her innocence. But how could he prove it in the face of such circumstantial evidence?

"I must," he said to himself, "first find a motive for making a false accusation against this girl."

He made it his business to have an interview with Mme. Hartzell, and, in the course of the talk, he suggested the idea of leniency toward the prisoner. But the fury with which the mistress received this mild suggestion gave him the very information he was seeking.

The motive was jealousy!

Anna Schmidt was a beautiful girl with countless admirers. Mme. Hartzell, who was unmarried, was homely and without attractions of any kind. In spite of her great wealth and position she could find none to pay her homage.

With this motive to work upon the shrewd chief magistrate set about his investigation. Within 48 hours he discovered a charwoman who worked in the Hartzell home who threw light upon the mystery. She said that she had seen the gold wine cup in the possession of her mistress after she had accused Anna Schmidt of stealing it. Also Ploos van Amstel learned that Mme. Hartzell was in the habit of paying secret visits to a poor sister who lived in the suburbs.

On a given date the houses of Mme. Hartzell and the poor relative were searched. Van Amstel found a cedar chest in the home of the sister and in it the gold wine cup. The woman confessed that she had taken part in the conspiracy because she was dependent upon the bounty of her sister.

Anna Schmidt was instantly released from jail and her mistress placed on trial, and those who may be curious enough to search musty old records will find that the rich and influential Mme. Hartzell was compelled to serve a long imprisonment for her despicable crime.

Justice Wheat Modifies Penn Restraining Order

Justice Alfred A. Wheat, in District Supreme Court yesterday, modified the restraining order signed Monday at the request of William H. Smith so that it will not affect the ordinary operations of the business of the Penn Improvement & Electric Co., Inc.

Smith, in his petition for injunction, asserted that Simon S. Freedman, his wife, Selma Freedman, and Isaac J. Freedman had conspired to prevent him from collecting a judgment against the former. The alleged conspiracy was said to have resulted in the formation of the Penn Improvement & Electric Co., Inc., the transfer of Simon S. Freedman's property to the company and the transfer of stock he received for it to his wife.

GOOD-GROOMING is never so difficult—and ill-grooming never so unforgivable—as in summer. What a relief, then, is this new sanitary protection that can never embarrass!

Kotex is non-detectable, even under the light, filmy clothes of summer. Corners are rounded and tapered for perfect fit. There is no awkward bulk.

Kotex is light, cool, comfortable. It is filled with the wonderful absorbent Cellucotton wadding, that actually absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture!

Kotex deodorizes, too—so important in summer. And disposes like tissue. The layers can easily be adjusted to suit individual requirements.

Try this new, improved Kotex. It costs but 45c per dozen at any drug, dry goods or department store—and offers such a world of comfort!

KOTEX IS SOFT...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.

3—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

4—In hospitals . . . Kotex is the identical material used practically exclusively by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

Kotex—45c for 12—at any drug, dry goods or department store.
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12.

"Drain that stuff out—and fill'er up with Amoco-Gas"

"IT'S mighty good to be back where there's always an AMOCO-GAS Pump within reach. Believe me, I never realized how much AMOCO-GAS had to do with the smooth way my car ran—until I tried to run without it!

"So I made up my mind that the very first AMOCO-GAS Pump I saw, I'd have every last bit of that stuff drained out—and put the car back on the diet it's been brought up on!

"I've had my lesson. I've seen that car actually get weak on inferior gas! I've seen a cheaper gas actually cost me more.

"So fill 'er up with good old AMOCO and we'll get going in a way we haven't been going in some time! And if anybody ever catches me trying anything else again—well, they never will, that's all! And by the way, I'll need oil, too. So make it AMOCO all the way!"

Journey of Zeppelin on Air Today

Flight to Lakehurst and Arrival Will Be Described Over Network by N. B. C.; Other Programs Suspended.

The graphic account of the arrival of the Graf Zeppelin at Lakehurst, N. J., expected some time during this afternoon or evening, will go out from WEAF, WRC and a nation-wide network of stations. Precedence will be given this broadcast, all scheduled features being subject to cancellation at the moment the giant ship is sighted in the West.

Microphones have been set up at Lakehurst and line tests now are being made in order that the closing chapter in this radio story of an international event may reach the entire Nation without interruption. As during previous broadcasts, the report will be rebroadcast from short wave transmitters operated at WGY, Schenectady; KDKA, Pittsburgh; WLW, Cincinnati, and KGO in Oakland, Calif.

All Germany heard the details of the landing of the Graf Zeppelin at Los Angeles on Monday morning. A radiogram to WGY said that the account of the arrival of the dirigible was being received with excellent quality and without fading. Broadcasters in Berlin, Germany, reported receiving the program through WGY's short wave station, WXXK, operating on a frequency of 17,300 kilocycles. It is understood that the program was rebroadcast throughout Germany.

In the event the dirigible passes over Washington, Station WRC is prepared to give a description of the flight from vantage points about the city.

Olive Palmer, coloratura soprano, will sing the Scottish melody, "Annie Laurie," during the broadcast of the Palmolive Hour over the coast-to-coast system of the National Broadcasting Company at 8:30 o'clock tonight. With Paul Oliver, tenor, the soprano will be heard in a special interpretation of "Because You're You," from "The Red Mill." Under the direction of Gustave Haenschen the orchestra will play "Dance of the Comedians," "Should I?" and "Crazy Rhythm." Station WRC will transmit the program for local listeners.

Jack Parker, tenor, will sing the old Irish ballad, "Kathleen Mavourneen," as the spice of the program which the Happy Wonder Bakers will broadcast at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The following program, ranging from a "Serenata" by Moszkowski to a Negro spiritual, will be under the direction of Frank Black.

"Yo Ho," orchestra; "Beautiful," ensemble; "Song of the Moonbeams," from "Sketch Book," and "Serenata," orchestra; "Thou Swell," from "The Connecticut Yankee," vocal trio; "Nobody Knows de Trouble I've Seen," Negro spiritual; "Once in a Lifetime," from "The Vanities of 1928," orchestra, and "Rio Rita," ensemble.

"Recollections of Rudolph Friml" is the title of the broadcast known as the Mobiloil hour from WRC at 7 o'clock. Artists who will appear in the all-Friml concert include Gladys Rice, soprano; Robert Simmons, tenor, and Douglas Stanbury, barytone. A male quartet will also be heard in the following program:

"Song of the Musketeers," barytone solo; "Not Now But Later," from "High Jinks," soprano and tenor duet; "Giannina Mia" from "The Firefly," Soprano solo; "Allah's Holiday" from "Katinka," contralto solo with chorus; "Indian Love Call" from "Rose Marie," soprano solo; "Rose Marie," tenor solo with male quartet; "Love Everlasting," soprano solo; "Ma Belle" from "The Three Musketeers," barytone solo; "Katinka," male quartet; "Sympathy," from "The Firefly," contralto and tenor duet; and "Song of the Vagabonds" from "The Vagabond King," barytone solo.

"Che Mi Amigo," a spirited tango of the Argentine pampas, represents one of the highlights in a program of dance music by the Pacific Vagabonds which will be broadcast from the San Francisco studios of the National Broadcasting Co. through WRC at 3 o'clock. Max Dolin will direct this orchestra in the following program:

"Song of the West," "Sweetness," "My Dear," "Blue Hawaii," "Lovable and Sweet," "Che Mi Amigo," "Tell Me," "Do I know What I'm Doing?" "At Close of Day," "Pretty Little Thing," "You," "If You Believed in Me," "When You Come to the End of the Day," "Good Morning, Good Evening, Good Night," and "Laughing Marionette."

The National Light Opera Company will present "Patience," by Gilbert & Sullivan, through WEAF, at 9:30 o'clock. Because of the "Amos 'n' Andy" program, this feature is no longer heard locally.

A program of seldom heard compositions is promised music lovers in the program to be broadcast by the Kolster Concert Orchestra at 9 o'clock. Italy, Russia, France, Germany and Hungary are represented in the broadcast, which opens with the "Dance of the Camorrists," from Wolf-Ferrari's "Jewels of the Madonna." The "Allegro con Grazia," from Tschaikowsky's "Sixth Symphony;" Wagner's "Dreams," Lisat's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 6," De Bussy's "Bateau" and "Pierette," by Chaminade, also will be heard.

"Dixie Echoes", a program of Negro spirituals and songs of the South, will be broadcast at 9:30 o'clock.

Two dance orchestras are scheduled for the hour beginning at 10 o'clock, to be followed by a "DX Request Program" by Stanley Bell and Les Colvin.

Station WOL will be on the air from 7:30 to 11 o'clock this morning. The Edith Reed Entertainers will be presented at 6:15 o'clock, followed by two short talks.

Carl Conrad, barytone, will be presented by WJSV as an early feature at 8 o'clock. Other soloists scheduled are Sue Kennedy, contralto; Joseph di Meglio, operatic tenor, and Chick Godfrey, the singing Leatherneck.

King George Purchases Six-Wheel Automobile

London, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—A six-wheeled motor car has been delivered to the king at Sandringham, Norfolk. It is an all-British production designed to travel over the roughest moors and broken ground, and even over ploughed land.

The automobile, which can travel at 60 miles an hour on the open road, has detachable rubber caterpillar treads for really rough ground.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

If August 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 9:15 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger period is from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m.

The astrological influence in force on this date are good, from a material point of view. Selfish interests will be advanced, and most previously made plans will be carried out as arranged. There will be no spiritual, mental or psychic unfoldment.

Children born on this August 28 will have artistic temperaments, and will take a keen interest in both music and literature. If they live up to, and cultivate, the gifts which nature has given them, they will make a name for themselves. They will have very refined and cultured tastes.

If your achievements have not reached your expectations, it is because you are too satisfied with your own opinions and too contented with your own knowledge.

You cling to a few set ideas, because they are yours, although time or circumstance may demand that they be changed. You appear to view everything from a different angle from every one else. In an argument, which you thoroughly enjoy, you always take the opposite side. Although not meaning to be quarrelsome you bring about opposition and unnecessarily create wrong impressions and hard feelings.

As a leader you will always be unpopular, unless you give up trying to be an absolute dictator. Those who are willing to sink their individualism, and to carry out your ideas in your way, get along with one of your temperament. You clash, however, with almost all positive types of people.

You need a mental wastebasket into which to consign wornout and worthless ideas. Your library of thoughts is limited extensively to one author that of self. A more varied storehouse of ideas is of much more value

You are very generous, and your heart bleeds for suffering humanity. You are unselfish in your charity as far as generosity is concerned. You may be stubborn and dictatorial, but you are not stingy.

Successful people born August 28: James L. Kingsley—Educator.
Ira D. Sankey—Evangelist and author.
Bellamy Storer—Lawyer and diplomat.
Rufus F. Zogbaum—Artist and author.
Frederick H. Bigelow—Astronomer.
M. A. DeWolfe Howe—Author.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

ANGUST 28.

Lucy Ware Webb Hayes, wife of Rutherford Hayes, nineteenth President of the United States, was born this day, 1831, at Chillicothe, Ohio. They had eight children. Mrs. Hayes was an ardent prohibitionist and prohibited wine at the White House banquets. Hayes' administration was from 1877 to 1881. Mrs. Hayes is buried with her husband at Fremont, Ohio.

Jane Wheatley, noted American stage star, was born this day, 1881. Her most notable successes were in "On Trial," "Fixing Sister," "Oh, Henry," "Ambush," "Voltaire" and "What the Public Wants."

Other noted women born this day include Clara Erskine Clement Waters, American writer and lecturer, 1834; Nellie Richmond Eberhart, librettist, 1871.

Art in Radio Programs to Get Prizes

Six Different Annual Awards Will Be Made for Excellence in Broadcasting—No Limitation on Type.

In order to stimulate program artistry, and to focus public attention upon the radio stations, broadcasting chains and artists presenting worth while broadcasts, the Freed-Eisemann Radio Corporation announces that it is creating the "Joseph D. R. Freed Foundation." This organization, until permanently established, will be administered by several officers of the company.

Six different annual awards will be made for broadcasting excellence. The first award will be made to the broadcasting station which presents the outstanding program of each year, the broadcast year being figured from September 1 of one year to August 31 of the following year. No limitation will be placed upon the nonpartisan committee as to the type of program selected other than it be of outstanding merit and that it be handled in such a way as to have focused public attention upon it. It is expected that the committee which will handle this particular award will consider fan reaction and public acceptance as an importnt element in its decisions. Two honorary citations will be made for radio stations which present outstanding programs during the year.

The second award will be made to the outstanding individual radio broadcaster each year. This award will be open to all singers, orators, actors, conductors of orchestras; in fact to artists presenting any type of program on the air, but only may be awarded to an artist actually broadcasting.

The third award will be made to the individual creating the outstanding program on the air. This award will be restricted to program directors, men or women who are wholly responsible for the creation of broadcast programs.

The fourth award will be made to the radio station which, during each year, makes the greatest technical advance in handling programs. This does not necessarily mean that the award will be made to the radio station or chain which develops or perfects a new engineering device, but may be made to the station or chain which improves methods of handling programs. If the foundation had been operative during the last few years, the man who first eliminated the announcements of a long list of radio stations making chain broadcasts, and arranged for local station announcements, might have been honored. Another year, the man who first conceived the idea of a theme song background for announcements, might have received the award.

The fifth award will be made to the radio station which, through its programs shall best represent the educational value and power of broadcasting in raising the American standard of morals, taste and manners. The scope of this award is very wide, recognizing a it does radio broadcasting as a public service institution.

The sixth award is to be made to the advertising agency or corporation presenting the finest advertising programs on the air each year.

Deviating from foundations in other fields, the Joseph D. R. Freed Foundation will not require artists, radio stations or advertising agencies to submit their work for approval to the committee making each award. The committees for each award will be composed of men and women located in different sections of the country who are constantly listening to broadcast programs.

The country is being divided into six sections, a representative of each section of the country being on each committee. Details of the methods to be used by the committee in making each award has not been made public at this time, but an announcement is expected within the next few weeks.

BRAINS OF THE CHILDREN.

Drs. Kempf and Collins say that the factors which influence the mental equipment of school children are inheritance, physical development, absence of physical defects, race, color, nativity, language used in the home, occupation of the father, age and place of residence of the child.

Their opinion that superior children physically are also superior children mentally has been made the subject of another article. This one deals with some of the other qualities. The conclusions of Drs. Kempf and Collins are based on a study of the school children in two counties in Illinois.

The children were examined physically and mentally. Their reports and other school records were given proper consideration. Rural children were found to have less mental ability than urban. By urban was meant those children living in cities and towns with 2,500 or more population. Negro children had less mental ability than whites. Negro children in the rural districts were slightly superior mentally to those from the cities and towns. The children of Negroes who had recently moved to Illinois from the South were equal in mentality to the children of Northern Negro parentage.

White children of white native stock were superior to all others in mentality. The children of other racial origins ranked in the order given: English, Scotch, Irish, Welsh, Scandinavian, German, Polish and Italian. The Poles were considerably below the Germans and the Italians much below the Poles. However, the investigators found that children were under a great handicap if any language other than English was spoken habitually in the home. This doubtless explains some part of the good showing made by the children of native stock, English, Scotch, Irish and Welsh stocks, and also some part of the poor showing made by those of Polish and Italian stocks. However, practically all of the foreign born in these two countries had been in America ten years or longer.

LOTS OF GALLSTONES ABOUT.

W. H. N. writes:

X-ray shows I have one stone in the gall bladder, about the size of a dime.

1. Is there any danger in this?
2. Is there anything I can take to dissolve it and pass it?
3. Will olive oil and lemon relieve it?

REPLY.

1. Some, but not a great deal. A fair-sized minority of middle-aged people have gallstones. It is the prevailing malady among the "fair-fat-and-forty."
2. No.
3. No On the other hand, large doses of olive oil cause the formation of stones of a kind. Fortunately, they pass.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Stunning white lizard trims the coat of afternoon ensemble of black reps, matching skirt and sheer white woolen blouse. (Courtesy of the Maison Jenny, Paris.)

Lace and chiffon seem to show a remarkable affinity for each other in the design of evening gowns for fall. Which is natural enough, of course, but the results being obtained this season are distinctly different.

One of the most charming effects is obtained by combining a skirt of lace and a bodice of plain chiffon, usually of the same color. As such a combination fails to "hang together," however, the lace motif is repeated at the top in a big lace bertha collar, matching the skirt. This collar is quite deep, falling in the back to just above the waistline. Need we say that the effect is stunning?

• • • •

In other instances, dresses for very smart, formal occasions are entirely of chiffon but have a wide hem of lace, placed at a slant so as to give the back-dipping hemline.

If the dress is white or rose, a light colored lace, such as ecru, is used, whereas if the dress is red, green or blue, the hem is of black lace, giving a rather Spanish effect. (Member we told you that the Barcelona Exposition was going to result in a lot of Spanish dress influence?)

And, of course, as usual, we will continue to see a considerable number of models where the lace is draped over a chiffon or georgette foundation, sometimes matching but very often a contrasting color.

Jenny frocks are incurably youthful—and yet she seems to manage to make them youthful and elegant as well. The ensemble I illustrated for you today is black and white—a black reps skirt sewn right onto a white woolen blouse, all-over embroidered in white and a delightfully tailored black coat, which allows the white sleeve of the dress to show through in a highly interesting manner.

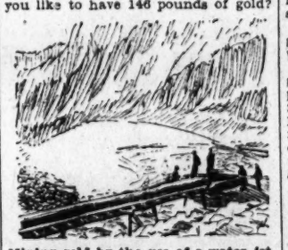
The Bright Shining Metal.

In 1851 a large gold "nugget" was found in South Australia. It weighed 146 pounds. How would you like to have 146 pounds of gold?



Mining gold by the use of a water jet.

In another part of Australia—Victoria—a still larger nugget was found. It weighed 183 pounds and was worth more than $40,000. It was given the name of the Welcome nugget—we may be sure that it was "welcome" to the man who found it.

People who seek gold are not always so lucky. Of the thousands of men who took part in the "gold rushes" to California and Alaska, only a small portion became rich.

Far back in the history of the race, people began to prize gold. It could be beaten into ornaments—bracelets, earrings, noserings—and the glitter did not fade away. New copper looks bright and pleasing, but before long it turns dark, while gold keeps its shining appearance.

There are two ways of obtaining gold—by digging and by the use of water.

If you want to obtain gold by digging, be sure to dig in the right place! Gold mines are seldom found in the backyard. Nature seems to have stored most of her gold in the mountains. The veins are composed of gold ore, rather than pure gold—the ore being a mixture of gold with such other metals as silver, copper or iron. The ore is crushed and the gold is taken out by chemical means.

It has been found that grains of gold often lie in the beds of rivers. Men wade into rivers and scoop up sand from the bottom. By washing the sand, they sometimes lay bare bits of gold. This is called "panning."

Mining companies employ men who direct strong streams of water against the surfaces of hills. The muddy water which comes running down may bring gold with it.

WORK ON BRIDGE

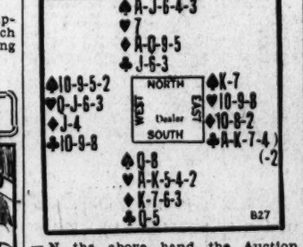
Bridge Brevities, a pamphlet, by Milton C. Work, the world's preeminent authority on Auction and Contract Bridge, free.

This valuable pamphlet, containing concise suggestions for players of both games, will be sent with the compliments of this paper to readers of Mr. Work's articles who request it.

Requests must be addressed to Milton C. Work, care of this paper, and must include a stamped (2c stamp) self-addressed return envelope.

Read Mr. Work's articles on Auction and Contract. Every day exclusively in The Washington Post.

COULD YOU DO BETTER?



In the above hand the Auction Bridge bidding would be: South, one heart; West, pass; North, one Spade; East, two Clubs; South, two Spades, followed by three passes. The Contract Bridge bidding would be: South, one heart; West, pass; North two Spades; East, pass; South, three Spades; West, pass; North, four Spades.

When the hand was played, East started by leading the King of Clubs, and when West played the Eight, East thought West was starting a signal and led the Ace of Clubs, on which West played the Nine, showing that he was not signaling. Nevertheless East then led a third Club, which North won, and put dummy in so that he could lead the Queen of trumps. North ducking. As the finesse lost and West subsequently won a trick with his Ten of trumps, the Declarer made only three-odd.

Could you have done better?

The Answer.

When Declarer won the third Club trick in the closed hand he should have led a small trump from that hand toward dummy's Queen. With Ace-Jack and three small trumps in one hand and Queen and one in the other, the King and Ten being adversely held, leading the Queen for a finesse can not gain. With an even division of the six adverse trumps, if the King be on the wrong side of the Ace, the finesse loses; if his royal highness be on the right side of the Ace it will cover the Queen; and in either event the adversaries must make one trump. But if the adverse trumps be divided 4-2 and the Queen be led, they probably will make two trumps; whereas, even with a 4-2 distribution, they may make only one trump if a small lead be made toward the Queen. This is illustrated in the above hand.

PRICES DROP UNDER TIGHTENING CREDIT

Stocks Show Rallying Tendency, However, as Trading Slackens Up.

CALL FUNDS 9 PER CENT

New York, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—An unexpectedly early tightening of credit in preparation for the month end requirements set the signal for a further corrective reaction on the stock market today, but prices displayed a firm undertone and losses were held to moderate limits.

Operations for the advance were pressed forward in some of the rails, utilities and specialties, and a fair-sized group of stocks closed 2 to 17 points higher. A wave of selling came into the market as call money mounted from 7 to 9 per cent in the early afternoon, but trading slackened on the decline, and rallying tendencies were notable in the late trading.

While the higher money gave impetus to the selling movement, the liquidation was based more on commission house opinion to the effect that the speculative structure had become rather top heavy after the recent violent bullish activity in "Blue Chip" issues, than on fears of any acute credit situation.

Securities Loans decline.

Banks called between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 in loans, presumably in preparation for the Labor Day holiday cash requirements, which are estimated at about $100,000,000, and are in addition to September 1 corporate needs. The Federal Reserve condition statement of the weekly reporting member banks in leading cities indicated further success in diverting credit from speculation into business channels, loans on securities declining $62,000,000, while business loans mounted $57,000,000.

Paramount in the day's news was the placing of New Haven common on a $5 annual dividend basis, as increased from the 84 rate inaugurated last year, further attesting the remarkable financial restoration of this carrier.

Several more large railway systems reported increased July earnings, notably Atchison, New York Central and Pennsylvania.

After the close of the market U. S. Steel announced the first step in retiring funded debt of its subsidiaries. Also it was reported that the recapitalization plan for General Asphalt included retirement of funded debt and preferred stock.

Atchison and Pennsylvania were strong features of the rails, selling up more than 7 and nearly 4 points, respectively, to record levels, but the slipped off somewhat from their best levels later.

Others at Top Levels.

New Haven, Lackawanna and Nickel Plate, Baltimore & Ohio, and Union Pacific were other carrier stocks reaching the highest levels in years, but these issues also encountered profit-taking in the late trading. New Haven and Lackawanna closing with fractional net losses.

A few of the utilities were rapidly bid up, Philadelphia Co. rising 17 points to a new peak and American Water Works selling up 9 points to new high ground. Stone & Webster reached a new top at 181, but then fell back in realizing. Standard Gas was a strong spot, rising about 9 points. Royal Dutch came to the fore in the oils, rising about 5 points to a new top.

Pan-American issues reached new high ground on Standard of Indiana stockholders' sanction of the merger plan. Transcontinental reached a new top on estimates that third quarter earnings will exceed $2,000,000.

Several of the chemicals continued to display buoyancy. Allied Chemical rose 7 points to a new top at 349, and Columbian Carbon shot up nearly 11 points to a record level at 219½. Other strong issues included Corn Products, Drug Inc., General American Tank, General Electric, Macy, Marlin Rockwell, Midland Steel preferred, Columbia Graphophone and Continental Insurance, several of which reached new high territory.

International Telephone Reacts.

International Telephone pushed further into new high record levels, then reacted to close slightly lower, while American Telephone and Western Union each reacted about 4 points in profit taking. Other shares to turn heavy included such issues as Allis Chalmers, Detroit Edison, Du Pont, Greene Cananea, Bordens, Johns Manville and Montgomery Ward. International Cement reached another new low for the year, reflecting sagging prices for its product. United States Steel closed about a point lower.

Commodities were generally steady to firm. Wheat futures mounted a cent and more on better foreign demand and absence of rain in Argentine. Corn made similar gains on reports of crop damage in the Southwest. Cotton was quiet but held steady on continued dry weather in the South.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, with sterling cables a shade lower at 4.84¾, which is near the point at which further gold might profitably be taken from London. The Canadian dollar sagged to a discount of about 4-5 of a cent.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—The cotton market was comparatively quiet again today, but prices ruled generally higher on covering or rebuying by recent sellers, who appeared to be influenced by the failure of weather reports to show any appreciable break in the Southwestern drought and bullish private crop advices. December contracts sold up from 18.76 to 18.93 and closed at 18.85, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 9 to 25 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 10 to 15 points in response to relatively steady cables from Liverpool and a private report stating that the condition of the crop had declined below the average for this date, and for the belt as a whole was now in approximately 58 per cent of normal.

Private reports of showers in the Southwest encouraged selling on this initial advance, and the market reacted several points during the early trading. October contracts, for instance, sold off from 18.58 to 18.45. While March reacted to 19.07, or back within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotation. Offerings were quite readily taken at the decline, however, and the market firmed up again during the middle of the day.

The official weather reports seemed rather a disappointment to some of the early sellers, as they showed rain at only a couple of stations in the interior of Texas with continued high temperatures. This, no doubt, accounted for some of the early afternoon buying, which was supposed to include a little price fixing for the trade as well as covering or rebuying by early sellers.

October sold up to 18.60 and March 19.20, making net gains of 14 to 18 points on the active positions. There was enough real ing to check the advance of these figures. While there also seemed to be a little Southern selling; but closing prices were within a few points of the best on most positions.

There was probably buying during the middle of the day on an idea that every day without good rains in the Southwest was making comparatively low condition figures more likely.

Some private reports of showers in Texas reached here during the afternoon and may have accounted for some of the realizing noted on the later setbacks.

Liverpool cables reported covering and local buying in that market.

Exports today 5,861, making 169,818 so far this season. Port receipts, 27,404. United States port stocks, 575,528.

WASHINGTON: WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 28, 1929. 13

NATS TAKE 14-INNING THRILLER FROM RED SOX, 5-4

CUBS' CREED IS SOCK AND GALLOP

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—The principal charm of the Cubs in their winning of the National League pennant in the last few weeks consisted of their sock-bang-pow. The old so-called murderer's row of the Yankees, composed mainly of Babe Ruth, who knocked the other runners around if they managed to get on base; and Jack Dempsey, are the only two performers of recent memory who possessed sock-bang-pow of the same overpowering type.

Mr. Tilden, the great actor, testimonial writer and dilitante tennis player, was gifted with this quality, but it often looked as though he was merely showing his opponents a good time up to a certain point. When the matches had gone far enough he sometimes overwhelmed his opponents with such marvelous command that the spectators wondered why he hadn't done it in the first place. Being a noted actor, he loved his drama and it sometimes looked as though he was straining for it. He went in for sock-bang pow at times when it seemed that he could have achieved the same results with a little expenditure of pft-pft-pft.

Sock-Bang-Pow Is Hard to Explain.

It is very had to explain what this sock-bang-pow is except that when a ball club wins its ball games and its pennants by rushing up from behind and knocking its opponents quite dizzy, that is sock-bang-pow. It is a comic strip term, something on the ofder of bloole and wow, only much more so, but inasmuch as the comic strip is by many millions the favorite literature of the U. S. A., I don't believe sock-bang-pow needs any explanation.

Traveling around with the Philadelphia Athletics, who seem quite tired and willing to drift the rest of the way, I have been noticing on the scoreboards in the outfield that the Cubs generally win their hardest ball games in the later innings. Or, if a game is already won, they crush the other fellows so hard that there is no chance of the game being lost back.

Cubs Run Wild in Boston Series.

There was a game in Boston about three weeks ago. The Cubs were ahead, 7 to 5, at the start of the ninth, but there is always a chance that a team which has scored 5 runs, may pick up a couple more in a last rally to tie things up and perhaps to win in extra innings. So, in this particular case, the Cubs went wild and scored 5 more runs, which was several runs more than enough. It was in Boston again, a few days later, that they went into the seventh inning trailing the Braves, the score being 2 to 1. They scored 2 runs in the seventh and another in the eighth, winning 4 to 2.

In Brooklyn a couple of days later the Cubs made 4 in the seventh inning and these turned out to be the runs that won the baseball match. They were leading 5 to 3 up to that time, but Uncle Wilbert's people got 2 in their half of the ninth, so of course, the game would have gone into extra innings, but for the Cubs' sock-bang-pow in that round. Final score 9 to 5.

Highly Developed Sock Is Demonstrated.

Two days after that, entering the eighth with a lead of 1 run they scored 5 more and finished 10 to 4. Kiki Cuyler hit a double in the seventh inning ten days ago against the Giants. Two sacrifices brought him around and that run was all the runs of the ball game, inclusive.

In nine demonstrations of their highly developed sock-bang-pow in these last three weeks the Cubs have scored 48 runs in the last three innings against 5 for their opponents, and just watching their games on the scoreboards, while also watching the Athletics in the flesh I am able to understand why one must risk $2 to win $1 on the Cubs in the world series.

Not only have the Cubs finished the season with a rush, coming from a short distance behind to pull far ahead of the entire field, but they have been doing something on that ROSEDALE PLAYGROUND won the annual Municipal Playground Department field and track meet for girls yesterday by the wide margin of 36 points to 14, scored by the second place Georgetown lassies, but, despite the apparent ease of the Northeast conquest, 24 playgrounds figured in the point scoring and the first places were nearly as widely distributed. Rosedale owed its triumph to well-balanced material in all events. The victory will give it possession of The Washington Post Cup for a period of one year.

It was the third triumph in as many years for the victors and particularly pleasing to the director, Mrs. Ruth Britt, since it was the largest meet ever held for girls in the District, slightly more than 1,000 fair athletes competing from the 55 play fields.

Colorful Track Costumes Make Fine Sight.

Mrs. Susie Root Rhodes, supervisor of playgrounds, who presented The Post cup and some of The Post medals, which were awarded to girls who were first, second and third in each event, voiced the sentiment that was in so many minds that it was a "beautiful sight" to see so many tiny girls arrayed in colorful track costumes and taking their victories and defeats like old-timers.

When the first event was called, the 70-pound class 40-yard dash, 78 little girls appeared at the start and were lined up in heats in surprisingly quick time. So it ran through the day as the so-called weaker sex tossed basket balls, volley balls and quoits, ran and jumped for their respective teams with clock-like precision. If there was a hitch during the memorable day it was not in evidence to the eyes of the hundreds of interested spectators.

The only record of the day to be smashed was in the 115-pound quoit throw, which was won by Miss Margaret Simmel, of the champion Rosedale Team. Miss Simmel tossed the rubber "discus" 101 feet 7 inches, bettering the mark set last year by Mildred Hook of the same playground by 4 feet.

Many of Smaller Playgrounds Represented.

A pleasing feature of the meet was the number of small playgrounds to win places. The New York Avenue ground, which took third with 18 points, made the best showing it has ever made, while Buchanan, with 9½ points; Fillmore, with 6; Edmonds, with 5; Wallach, with 5; Hayes, with 3; Kenilworth, with 3; Reservoir, with 3; Stanton, with 2; Bancroft, with 1½; Maury, with 2, and Benning, with 1, surprised even their own friends.

The novelty races were one of the features of the meet, the most interesting part being that none of the youngsters knew what these would be until lined up for the start. Sack and hoodle races were held and the

MACFAYDEN BEATEN ON HITS BY RICE AND MYER IN LONG GAME

Single Follows Triple as Latter Atones for Early Error.

Jones Is Relieved by Braxton; Goslin Hits 15th Home Run.

IN the best home game of the season, and incidentally the longest in which the Nationals have figured this year, the Washington Club yesterday defeated the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 4. Fourteen innings were necessary before the winning run was scored. Then Sam Rice led off with a triple; Goose Goslin, who previously had cracked out his fifteenth homer of the season, was intentionally passed, and Buddie Myer came through with a single which sent the 6,000 or more enthusiastic fans home in a fine frame of mind to enjoy late dinners.

It was one of those games which started slowly, but which gathered momentum as it progressed and every one of the extra frames contained at least one thrill.

Danny MacFayden and "Sad Sam" Jones essayed to do the pitching, but only the Boston youngster was on deck when the game ended. Jones was not hit hard, however, and but for a costly error by Buddie Myer might have finished the job he started.

Myer Miscues With Double-Play In Sight.

This miscue, for which Buddy made up with his winning blow, came with Reeves on first and none out in the eighth. It was a fumble of Scarritt's grasser with a double play in sight.

Had the play gone through, Rothrock's fly, which followed, would have been the third out and the Nats would have won in regulation time. However, Jones then filled the bases by walking Barrett and Regan doubled two home. Garland Braxton then rushed to the hill and allowed Todt to single home the tying run before he could stop the Boston onslaught.

The Nats also had benefited from errors; in fact, one by MacFayden gave them their first two runs, in the fourth, when the Hub hurler pegged to left field trying to turn Myer's attempted sacrifice into a force play at third. This weird heave let Rice, who had doubled, and Goslin, who had walked, check in at the registering station.

Goslin Bounces Ball Over Fence in Sixth.

Boston's other run came in the sixth, the result of Scarritt's single, Rothrock's fielder's choice, Regan's one-shot and a double-steal with Rothrock crossing the plate on the front end. In the lower half, Goslin, first up, got this run back by smacking a homer which hit the top of the right-field wall and bounded over.

An error by Rhyne, which gave Hayes life, helped the Nats to another marker in the seventh, as it was followed by Jones' sacrifice and Judge's single. In the next canto, the Sox came through with their three-run rally to knot the count at 4-all and then came five extra frames before the Nats finally won out.

Round 10 saw Myer open with a single, West sacrifice and Cronin walk. Spencer then shot a liner toward left-center which looked as if it would break up the game, but Rhyne made a fine leaping catch to turn it into a double play.

Hayes' Stop Checks Boston Rally in Eleventh.

In the eleventh, it was the visitors who threatened, Todt opening with a single, taking second on a sacrifice and third on an out. Then Hayes raced over toward short to make a good stop and peg to rob MacFayden of a hit and to save the day.

Rice led off in the twelfth with a single and advanced on Myer's out after Goslin had popped out. West was complimented by being intentionally passed and Cronin then shot a liner to left which had all the earmarks of a hit until Scarritt came from nowhere to snare it after a long run.

Each team had a man on in the thirteenth and the Sox were set down in order in the next frame when the Nationals got in their winning licks.

Sam Rice was the game's leading hitter. In addition to his triple, which was turned into Washington's winning run, he also came through with a double and single. Joe Judge

Pipgras Holds Macks to Three Hits in 2-0 Win

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Without Babe Ruth, who struck out in his only appearance and then disappeared to nurse the wounds of battle, the Yankees accompanied one of the surprising upsets of baseball today when they broke a losing streak of five games at the expense of the Philadelphia Athletics, the tottering leaders in the race for the American League pennant.

The Athletics out-tottered the Yanks. The latter scored two runs, one on an error by the Mackmen's shortstop, and the other on a soft Texas Leaguer single by Bill Dickey. The Athletics could score none at all, for they were hampered greatly by the work of George Pipgras, who suddenly recovered his form after a lapse of some twenty days. Pipgras allowed the Athletics only three hits and shut them out for their second blanking in a row. The score was 2 to 0.

Boley's Fumble Aids Yanks at Start.

The first Yankee run was made in the second inning. Lazzeri walked, Dickey shot a single to center and Lazzeri took third to score a moment later on Boley's fumble of Durocher's grounder.

And thus events rolled on until the sixth, Pipgras throwing unhittable stuff. With two out in that inning Gehrig walked. Lazzeri smacked a soundly hit single into center and Gehrig took third. Dickey lofted a Texas Leaguer into center and when Miller and Haas both failed to get to it Gehrig scored the second run of the encounter.

TOP DOUBLES NET TEAMS TRIUMPH

5 Seeded Pairs Win Tests in National Tournament.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 27 (A.P.).—The tail-end seeded teams on both the American and foreign lists today met with disaster in the second round play of the forty-eighth national doubles championship here on the Longwood turf courts.

Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., and J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J., the domestic fourth, were eliminated by the mid-Western youngsters, W. F. Coen, jr., of Kansas City, and Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, Iowa, 6—4, 11—13, 7—5, 7—5.

The equally ranked British team, E. R. Avory and E. M. Buzzard, both of Oxford University, was put out by F. X. Shields, New York, and Donald Strachan, of Philadelphia, 6—3, 6—1, 6—4.

These two matches were the only upsets of the day. When the second day's volleying ceased, the first three American teams and the two top-ranking foreign pairs were safely in the quarter-finals brackets.

Tilden and Hunter Win Handily.

Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, 1927 champions, seeded third, had an easy session with A. W. Jones and W. W. Ingraham, of Providence, defeating them in straight sets, 6—3, 6—4, 6—4.

H. W. Austin and J. S. Olliff, the top-seeded British pair, defeated George O'Connell and Fred Roeyer, of Chicago, 11—9, 6—3, 3—6, 6—2, and Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, Davis Cup doubles champions, gained a bracket from David Jones, of New York City, and Richard Murphy, of Utica, N. Y., by defeating them 6—2, 6—2, 7—5.

Results of other matches:

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Second round—Berkley Bell, Austin, Tex., and Lewis N. White, Dallas, Tex., defeated H. H. Hyde, Hartford, Conn., and W. B. Wood, jr., Boston, 7—5, 6—4, 1—6, 6—3; George M. Lott, jr., Chicago, and John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., defeated Brandshaw Harrison, Portland, Oreg., and Kenneth Appel, Orange, N. J., 6—3, 2—6, 4—6, 10—8, 6—3; F. X. Shields, New York, and Donald Strachan, Philadelphia, defeated E. R. Avory and E. M. Buzzard, England, 6—3, 6—1, 6—4; Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., and Norman Farquharson, South Africa, defeated Fred and Don Dixon, Provo, Utah, 8—6, 7—5, 6—4.

MIXED DOUBLES.

Mrs. Phoebe Watson and J. S. Olliff, England, defeated Miss Florence Boutillier, New York, and Arthur Roberts, Boston, 6—1, 6—1; Miss Clara Zinke, Cincinnati, and George O'Connell, Chicago, defeated Mrs. W. M. Shedden and George Floyd, Boston, 6—2, 6—3; Miss Helen Jacobs, San Francisco, and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., defeated Miss Marion Hunt, San Francisco, and Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., 7—5, 6—4; Mrs. Shepherd Barron, England, and Norman Farquharson, South Africa, defeated Miss Virginia Rice, Boston, and F. X. Shields, New York, 6—4, 6—2; Mrs. R. C. Covell and R. W. Austin, England, defeated Miss Edith Cross, San Francisco, and Donald Strachan, Philadelphia, 6—0, 6—4; Miss Sarah Palfrey, Boston, and W. F. Coen, jr., Kansas City, defeated Miss Mianne Palfrey and C. H. Perkins, jr., Boston, 7—5, 5—7, 6—2; Miss Penelope Anderson, Richmond, Va., and J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J., defeated Miss Marjorie Gladman, Santa Barbara, Calif., and John Van Ryn, Orange, N. J., 3—6, 9—7, 7—5.

Channel Abandoned By Egyptian Swimmer

Calais, France, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Ishak Helmy, giant Egyptian swimmer who began an attempt to swim the channel from Dover to the French coast at 7:09 a. m., arrived here tonight at 7:30 aboard a tug. The Egyptian abandoned his effort 12 miles from the French side of the channel.

Bobby Jones Praises Coast Links But Practice Shots Bely Fears

DEL MONTE, Calif., Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Pebble Beach links, Del Monte, Calif., next week will provide a magnificent setting for the greatest amateur golf tournament in the history of the game, Bobby Jones, who will defend his title in tour championship, declared today.

The forthcoming United States amateur.

Jones praised the course, scenery and climate at Pebble Beach sufficiently to please even the most exacting "native son."

Jones found the Pebble Beach course a true test of championship golf, although he believes par will not be as invulnerable as local enthusiasts have claimed, and expects to see several of the leading players venture into the late sixties during the next few days.

The bent putting greens bothered Bobby a bit on his first few rounds.

Most no warrivals comment on the difficulty of judging distances on Monterey Peninsula courses, and Bobby said so too. But to those who watched him place his shots with apparent unerring accuracy on his very first round it would appear that Jones must have been referring to inches instead of yards.

Cyril Tolley agrees with Jones that under favorable wind conditions a 67 or 68 is not impossible at Pebble Beach. Tolley thinks that 147 will be good for medal honors in the qualifying round.

Jones today denied a report published in San Francisco that he had been offered $50,000 to appear for two weeks in motion pictures.

15-MILE SWIM IS DELAYED BY COLD

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Postponement of the fourth Wrigley marathon swim for 24 hours on account of cold water was ordered this afternoon by the aquatic committee in charge of the race, which was scheduled for tomorrow.

The temperature of Lake Ontario off the grounds of the Canadian national exhibition this afternoon was 54 degrees, four lower than the required temperature.

Another three-cornered international duel is in prospect in the swim. In a field of more than 400 entries, three stand out in advance calculations—George Young, of Canada; Ernest Vierkoetter, of Germany, and George Michel, of France.

Young Gained Fame in First Marathon.

Young first leaped into fame when he captured the first Wrigley marathon at Catalina Island three years ago. Vierkoetter won the second and Michel took down most of the prize money last year although he failed to finish. The Frenchman covered 12¼ miles in 11 hours and 12 minutes, and was the sole survivor when he was forced to withdraw.

It was the disappointing end of last year's event that led to the rule that the temperature of the water in Lake Ontario must be at least 58 degrees at race time or the event will be postponed until more favorable conditions.

Although Young, Michel and Vierkoetter seem to hold the inside track in prerace forecasts, there are other entrants ranked not far behind. These include Norman Ross, of Chicago, former amateur star; Eddie Meyers, former ice skating star from New York, and Ruth Tower, of Denver, who finished second to Martha Norelius in the women's 10-mile event last week.

MISS WILSON BEATEN IN TOURNEY

By PAUL R. MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Most of the favorites from the defending title holder, Mrs. L. Pressler, Los Angeles, down, came through victoriously in their first 18-hole round matches in the women's Western tournament today, but one of the mightiest little golfing marvels of them all, Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, struck a par-breaking rival and vanished from the championship picture.

The frail-appearing Chicagoan, who established an all-time record for women's golf last June by shooting a spectacular 71 on the rugged Allegheny Country Club course at Pittsburgh, fell before Mrs. Gregg Lifur, of Los Angeles, by a 3-and-1 margin.

There was nothing radically wrong with Miss Wilson's golf today, as she matches her few mistakes with four birdies to shoot even par on the seventeen holes it took to decide the issue. She just ran into the former Californian champion when the latter was playing hot golf, a game that gave her the lead most of the journey and a card one under par.

The rest of the fourteen matches were according to prediction, although Mrs. Pressler had a hard fight disposing of Mrs. Curtis Sohl, of Columbus, Ohio, the Buckeye State champion, by a 2-and-1 margin.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, whose 77 gave her the tournament medal yesterday, shot the best golf of the field in routing Mrs. Harold Foreman, of Glencoe, Ill., 6 and 3. She was three under par over the fifteen holes and was ahead after the fourth hole, where the match was even.

Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, one of the most ominous threats to Mrs Pressler, came through by eliminating the youthful June Beebe, of Chicago

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 26.—Turning back its chief rival, Pittsburgh, here today, 10 to 5, the Washington Union Printer Nine, took the lead in the battle for the International Typographical baseball championship for 1929. It was the fourth straight triumph for the Capital City entrants and it was the most desired of the conquests to date as Pittsburgh appears to be the team that bars the way to a sixth leg on the Garry Herrmann trophy.

Washington took a two-run lead in the second inning and with Roudabush hurling a seven-hit contest the decision was never in doubt thereafter. Gerard Edward's home run, Hutchinson's triple and the base running of Goldsmith, Holbrook and Edwards featured the winning attack.

D. C. Victory Today Would Leave Only Three in Fight.

The Pittsburgh-Washington fray was the lone engagement scheduled today. Tomorrow's program calls the Capital team into action against Detroit, which has shown considerable strength to date. Cincinnati will clash with New York and Pittsburgh meets Cleveland. Should Washington win today, but three teams would remain in the tourney, as each of the other teams have lost one game.

At its annual meeting today the baseball commission decided to hold the tournament next year at Pittsburgh. Cincinnati was chosen as the scene of the Winter meeting in January.

John M. Dugan, of Cincinnati, president, and Edward Springer of St. Louis, secretary and treasurer, were reelected today.

5,000 AT CUMBERLAND DEBUT SEE LONG SHOTS WIN

Special to The Washington Post.

FAIRGROUNDS, Cumberland, Md., Aug. 27.—Surpassing all records for first-day crowds, 5,000 persons witnessed the inaugural card of the Cumberland Fair Association five-day racing program this afternoon with Mrs. F. I. Vanderbeck's Five Oaks, with O. Nicholson up, winning the feature event, the Windsor Hotel Purse, at 1 mile and 70 yards, for a purse of $500.

The track was in fine shape, although the favorites fared badly. Master, the choice in the feature, came in second, with E. Coats up. Immortal was third. Five Oaks paid $15.60 to win, $5.80 to place and $3.50 to show.

In the third race, Gold Piece wheeled at the barrier and blocked the favorite, Mac Day, both being left at the post. An old favorite at this track, Harry Carroll, with F. Slater up, won this event, paying the long price of the day, $28 to win. Smoke Stack was second with Guidance third. The place horse paid $18.20 and $7.80.

Lewsenelda, Favorite, Takes Opener.

The favorite in the first race, G. L. Stryker's Tewsenelda, paid her backers $2.70 to win, and a heavier price to place and show, the pay-off being $3.20 and $2.80, respectively. Naughty Naughty, ridden by P. Sandford, placed, paying $11.40 and $5.80, while West Drift held the third position at the finish, paying $3.50.

In the second race Domineer, an even money favorite at post time, came through and paid $4 to win, $3.20 to place and $3.10 to show. L. Lang rode this chestnut gelding from the T. Francis stable, followed in second and third positions by Crasher and Force.

Caraluce, a newcomer to the Cumberland track, carrying the silks of A. B. Berger, jr., stables, paid a long price, $23.20, to win the fourth event of the afternoon. Silenus, T. Shaw riding, and another old Cumberland visitor, Chef d'Ouvre, placed and showed respectively.

Elfrieda G., owned by S. W. Labrot, of Annapolis, and ridden by J. O'Malley, another even money favorite, paid $4 to win in the next to the nightcap event and giving the backers $3.20 to place and $3.40 to show. Rival and Royal Spring followed in the money.

In the nightcap, the distance event of the day's card, Fasciate, of the J. D. Welden Stable, ridden by O'Malley, headed the field, followed by Immolator and Gold Dust in order.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—NANCY SETH, $4.78, $3.62, $3.04; MARY M'CLAIN, $4.88, $4.28; CAROLYN CHAPPELL, $5.48.

NANCY SETH, reserved off the early pace, moved up stoutly entering the stretch and, overhauling MARY M'CLAIN, drew out fast in the final sixteenth. MARY M'CLAIN, close up for the first half mile, moved into command when DODIE LEIGHTON quit, but tired in the final drive. CAROLYN CHAPPELL raced close up all the way, but hung under punishment in the final drive. OTILLA was far back all the way. DODIE LEIGHTON showed speed for five furlongs.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:32½. Off at 5:33½. SHADY LADY SCORES AT SARATOGA

Widener Filly Wins by Nose Over Curtsey, Just Lasting.

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—George D. Widener's Shady Lady, which has developed into a fairly good juvenile, added another stake to her list when she won the Kentucky Claiming Stakes here today. Shady Lady was a favorite and was ridden by J. Eaby. H. B. Swope's Curtsey, a long shot, was second, with Sun Blow third.

The start was poor. Flying Fantom and Snappy Snub were both caught in the barrier and had no chance. Sun Blow and Curtsey were away flying but Shady Lady, which broke about fourth, quickly ran into the lead. She showed excellent speed and raced Sun Blow into defeat. However, in the final sixteenth Eaby had to ride hard to keep Shady Lady going. The filly responded with courage and won by a nose over Curtsey, with Sun Blow only a head behind the latter. The race was worth $4,125 and the time was 1:06 3-5.

The career of the Athletics this year has been generally opposite. They pulled away to an early lead of about a dozen games and of late they have not even been able to defend it. In fact, the only reason why they haven't been hauled back is that the Yankees, too, have been fatigued and have lost game after game with the A's. Without going in to a prediction which would not be any good any way, I do not see how a baseball club with such emphatic sock-bang-pow can be much bothered in a world series by a team which, at the current writing doesn't even show a moderate amount of pft-pft-pft.

POLICE NINE SCORES.

The Police Department Nine shut out the Diamond Cabmen, 5 to 0, yesterday in the third of their four-game series. The Cops took tthree of the clashes. Lefty Cox hurled well and Rinker starre dat bat by driving in three of the Cops' runs. Rinker collected thtree singles in four times at bat.

NAVAL AND PULLMAN TEAMS PLAY 3-3 SERIES TIE

Game Halted By Darkness After 9th

Collier's Home Run Knots Count for Pullmans.

Pitching of Ingram, Colliflower Are Features.

THE Naval Hospital and Pullman Nines battled through nine innings of hectic baseball yesterday without coming to a decision, the final score being 3 to 3, with darkness calling a halt on further proceedings. This game, the first of a series of crucial contests in the City Week-day League's play-off series being waged on the Terminal Grounds at Union Station, was featured by the clever pitching of Ed Colliflower for the Trainmen and Pete Ingram for the Sailors.

Both hurlers had complete control of the situation at all times, and but for the errors of their mates at crucial times, the score would have been considerably less. After a series of wild throws by Colliflower's mates had given the Hospital lads two runs and the lead in the sixth, after they had been in the van throughout, Fee Collier, catcher for the Terminal champs, saved the game in the following inning with a Ruthian clout over the center field fence into Second street. This tie encounter enables both teams to carry on with a spotless record.

The Pullmanites opened scoring proceedings in the second, when, with one gone Stahl singled, stole second, advanced to third on a wild pitch, and scored when Miller fumbled Naples' slow roller to short. The Trainmen added a run in the third. Buckley received a pass, and when Hall singled to center the speedy Buckley ambled to third, scoring when Fee Collier collaborated in working the "squeeze" play.

Fumble With Bases Full Permits One Run.

The Departmental League champs got a run back in their half of the third. Howk walked as a starter, and advanced on Ingram's single. The next two were retired, but again Colliflower became unsteady and passed Hicks to fill the bases. Buscher, keystone guardian, then bobbled Miller's bounder and Howk scored. Both pitchers bore down after this frame, and neither team threatened again until the sixth, when the Pullman Nine contributed an exhibition of very good and very bad baseball to give the naval lads two runs and a temporary lead of one run, although Roberts' timely double played an important part in this rally.

Colliflower again gave the Gobs a start in this frame by walking Rumbolt. After Miller had grounded out, Roberts doubled over the left field barrier, advancing Rumbolt to third. At this juncture, Fee Collier outguessed the opposition, and called for a pitchout on the first play after Roberts' double, with the result that Rumboldt was caught by a wide margin at the plate when the "squeeze" play failed to materialize. The inning seemed over when Piller grounded to Stahl, but when this usually reliable third sacker threw wildly past Hughes, Roberts scored the tying run.

Wild Throws Aid Sailors To Add to Score.

The husky right-hander of the Trainmen again got himself into bad straits by walking Howk, and then uncorking a costly wild pitch, and when Collier retrieved the ball and threw wildly past third in an attempt to nip the advancing runner, Piller scored the run that gave his mates the temporary lead. Howk tried to score on the same play when Buckley returned Collier's throw wildly to the plate, but he was nipped at the plate, Hughes to Collier.

The final run was made in the seventh, when Collier uncorked his circuit smash.

This decisionless encounter makes the second game necessary for the Naval Hospital entry to replay, as they have a previous 4-4 tie with the Union Printers to replay. Today the Naval Hospital lads return to the Terminal grounds to give battle to the Calvary Baptists.

latter brought into the limelight a determined, clever little lass.

Anna Bono, of the Chevy Chase playground, weighing but 80 pounds, hopped down the 40-yard stretch with her curls flying to the wind, taking first three times in heats and again in the finals. Anna did not know what the event would be anymore than the others before facing the starter but apparently this was one event that she was peculiarly adept at and not a little of her success was attributed to the determined little expression as she nosed out her competitors.

Staunton Wins First In Play-Off Series

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Aug. 27.—Staunton, pennant winner in the Augusta County Baseball League today, won the first game in the series with Weyers Cave, runner-up in the circuit, by a score of 4 to 2.

Whitehead's homer with one on accounted for the Cave tallies. Staunton led throughout the play.

The series will be terminated when one team wins three games. The teams play here again tomorrow.

CAPITAL CITY UPHOLDS 2 UMPIRES

Georgetown Is Given Forfeit Over Corinthian Insects.

OFFICIALS of the Capital City League last night disposed of three protests recently filed. They ordered the Corinthian-Georgetown Insect game of last Saturday forfeited to the Georgetown team. They denied protests made by the National Press Building Cardinal and Browns Corner unlimited teams relative to games of August 18.

The Georgetown team claimed that the Corinthians used a player named Webb in centerfield and that the latter was nor under contract. Manager Newman, of the Corinthians, admitted the use of the ineligible player and declared that he had informed the Georgtown manager before the game that he was going to use the player.

In upholding the Georgetown team's protest, the league officials restored that team to the top position in the league standing, which it occupied before being defeated Saturday.

Decisions, Actions of Umpires Are Upheld.

The umpires' decisions and actions were upheld by the league officials in both of the unlimited section protests. The Cardinals protested Umpire Eberhle's right to forfeit the game of August 18 to the Dixie Pigs. With the Dixie Pigs leading, 3 to 1, in the eighth, a fight among players and fans started. When order was restored the Cardinals failed to obey orders to play ball, the umpire stated, and the contest was forfeited to the team on the field ready to play.

The Browns Corner team protested the decisions of Umpire Harrington in the St. Joseph-Browns Corner contest, which also created considerable disorder on the north Ellipse diamond. The protest was based on judgment decisions of the umpire, the league officials decided.

BRENTWOOD HAWKS PLAY.

The Brentwood Hawks play the Woodburn Hawks today at 5 o'clock on the Brentwood diamond. Saturday the Little Sam Wonder Nine will be met on the same diamond at 4 o'clock.

TAKOMA TIGERS DRILL.

The Takoma Tigers will practice Friday on the Silver Spring diamond at 5 o'clock in preparation for games over the week-end. Sunday the Friendships will be met in a Montgomery County series double-header, while on Labor Day the Hamilton, Va., Nine will be met at Hamilton, Va.

INDIAN HEAD IDLE.

The Indian Head Cardinals are looking for games for Saturday and Labor Day. Unlimited teams interested, phone Manager Sprague at Indian Head 101-K-3.

CHERRIES AT ROCKVILLE.

Cherrydale plays Rockville at Rockville on Labor Day at 3 o'clock. Cherry players are requested to report at 2:30 o'clock.

SEATON WARWICKS WIN.

The Seaton Warwicks defeated the St. Marys Celtics Peewees yesterday on diamond No. 1, 14-t 09, in a slugging battle. Singer and T. Parrell were the hitting heroes.

Hornsby and Blake Star as Cubs Win, 4-1

Chicago, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Rogers Hornsby's big bat and Sheriff Blake's effective pitching combined today to give the Cubs a 4-to-1 victory over the Reds in the closing game of the series, two engagements of which were played in Cincinnati on Sunday and two here yesterday and today. The Bruins took three of the four decisions.

The Chicago victory coupled with the defeat of Pittsburgh in Philadelphia lifted Joe McCarthy's margin to 14½ games, the greatest lead any National League club has enjoyed at this stage of the season since 1906 when Frank Chance's Immortals won 116 victories to defeat the Giants by 20 games. The Cubs open a five-game series in Pittsburgh tomorrow with a double-header.

Hornsby collected four of the seven hits the Cubs obtained from the deliveries of Adolfe Luque and Pete Donohue, enjoying a perfect day at bat. The Rajah drove home the first marker in the third when he singled to score Blake, who had walked and advanced on a sacrifice and an out. Another single by Hornsby in the sixth led the rally which netted the ultimate winning run, and his eighth-round hit for one base started the drive which gave Chicago two decorative runs off Donohue.

Pitcher Wins in Debut For Phils Over Pirates

Philadelphia, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Harry Smythe, starting his first big league game, pitched the Phillies to a 7-to-4 victory over Pittsburgh today.

One big inning—the seventh—when eight hits and a pass turned loose on Brame, defeated Pittsburgh. The Corsairs held the Phillies to four hits, until this uprising.

When Ira Flagstead tripled as a pinch hitter in the ninth and scored on Bartell's out, it was the first earned run off Smythe in sixteen innings. Previous to today he had pitched seven innings in relief roles. The first three Pittsburgh runs today were unearned.

45 TO TRAIN AT G. U. GRID CAMP

Little to Meet Squad Tuesday; Coaches Gather Here.

BACK at the Hilltop yesterday after a vacation in New England, Athletic Director Lou Little, of Georgetown University, completed plans for opening the football training camp at Ocean City, N. J., next Wednesday. Forty-five candidates, including all but four of last year's regulars, will start training at the seashore camp, he announced.

Mike Palm, former Penn State back field star and assistant to Little in 1924 and 1925 when the Hilltop was represented by its strongest teams during the Little regime, will report here Thursday along with Herb Kopf, end coach, and John DeGross, line coach. Palm will have charge of the backs.

Candidates to Gather At Philadelphia.

Little will remain here until next Tuesday, when he and his assistants will meet the varsity candidates in Philadelphia. They will immediately go to the Ocean City camp to start light training the following day.

The squad will remain in training at the New Jersey resort for about two weeks. There will be little change in the early season training system, Little stated, but it is probable that a lighter program will be arranged after scrimmage starts than that of last year.

"Several players were injured near the close of last year's training period and these casualties hurt the team during the first month or more of the season. The Hilltop head coach is hopeful that this year's training scrimmage will be less costly.

Alexandria Bowlers Meet to Form League

Alexandria, Aug. 27.—Stanley Dreifus, manager of the Health Center, has called a meeting of the managers and captains of the following bowling teams, to be held tonight at his office at 8 o'clock. Fruit Growers Express, Carter Motor Co., Alexandria Auto Accessories Co., the Nationals, the Snooters, the Southern Railway, Old Dominion Boat Club and any other teams that figure on participating in the activities of the city bowling league.

Joe Duncan defeated Duncan yesterday, 7 to 5 and 6 to 1, to enter the finals in the senior tennis tournament which is being conducted under the auspices of the city recreation department. Tomorrow Travers and Fowler will play, the winner to enter the finals.

In the boys' class, Russell Smith and Goode will fight it out for the junior title. Miss Dwight has already won the honors in the ladies' division.

HISER NINE PREPARES.

In preparation for their games over the week-end, Manager Hiser has called a practice for his Hyattsville Nine today on the Riverdale diamond at 6 o'clock.

Saturday the Hisers journey to Gaithersville, Md., for a game with that team at 3:30 o'clock, while on Sunday the Lanham A. C. will be met on a Prince Georges County League double-header at Riverdale, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

MARY DELLA

A Serial Story

By JULIE ANNE MOORE.

SYNOPSIS:

Mary Della and Robert are parked on the old piece of highway off the Cheshire road when a woman is murdered by the Red Mask in the darkness ahead of their car. They leave the body and decide to say nothing about it—to protect themselves. But after three days Mary Della writes an anonymous note to the police telling about the murder and where the body is. The American carries the story under glaring headlines the next day, but says the police could not find the body.

Younger Brett has written a musical comedy called "The Clock Shop Clockers," in which Mary Della is to be a leading lady.

Mary Della discovers that she has lost the letter written her by Robert, and from which she tore a piece of paper to write the police about the murder.

CHAPTER XV.

Having agreed with George that any attempt to see Mary Della might prove embarrassing to her as well as to himself, Robert decided that the better plan under the circumstances was to have George leave another note on the landing before the Chubb's door. They did not leave early, therefore, but arrived at the Marabee home shortly after 8 o'clock.

Marjorie and her mother were no less effusive than on his last visit, and even Mr. Marabee, good, honest soul that he wanted to be, took the two young men to his study and poured them out what he assured them was prewar stuff, which led both Robert and George to think that he must have been talking about the Nicaraguan war.

In Mrs. Marabee's "drawing" room were four tables of guests, deeply immersed in the problems of their respective hands. These bowed casually without rising, or, in the case of one or two of the men, rose and extended a flabby hand, and immediately went on with their games.

A fifth table was promptly set up, and Mrs. Marabee and George opposed Marjorie and Robert.

It was the typically febrile bridge party, with the typically brilliant wit flowing freely.

"The orchids were beautiful, Bob," Marjorie remarked, assorting her cards.

George kicked Robert on the shin, and Robert bowed and smiled. "They were to substitute for the call I couldn't make," he said gallantly. "Mid-years, you know."

"Of course, you poor things," Mrs. Marabee interjected. "I reserve, George, dee-yah."

Mrs. Marabee had the ace of hearts, the jack of clubs and most of the numerically small cards of the deck. She did well to reserve her bid.

Robert bid a spade with four in hand, including the ace, jack and ten. George, a novice at the game who held bridge to be on a par with mah jongg and death by mercurial poisoning, gathered that he was supposed to make an informative bid for the benefit of his partner who had failed him utterly. With the queen of spades and the queen of clubs for support (by his own reasoning) and the king and ten of hearts, he bid two hearts, with four in hand.

Marjorie did not lack for quick tricks. She held the ace, king and queen of diamonds, with five in hand, the ace and king of clubs and the king of spades with four spades in hand. "Two spades," she said sweetly, and turned to her mother.

Now Mrs. Marabee considered it a mark of imbecility to bid on a minor suit, but out of consideration for her guests she considered it a matter of social necessity to accept the invitable and raise George's bid of two hearts. "Three hearts," she declared, and beamed at George. After all she held the ace, the nine, the seven, the six and the deuce; he should have a comfortable hand.

Robert understood well enough that he must rely largely on his own hand, but the fact that Marjorie had raised the bid was assurance that she held the king or the queen or both. Still he preferred to hold five in hand in the absence of insufficient quick tricks. He decided, therefore to pass the bid. "By," he said and acknowledged Marjorie's smile.

George, growing increasingly apprehensive, waited breathlessly for Marjorie to declare. Deserted by her partner, Marjorie made a second survey of her hand, decided against a blind bid on diamonds, and passed.

"There George," announced Mrs. Marabee with enthusiasm, putting her cards out in a neat row across the table. "Even a minor suit may be of some consequence when sufficiently strong, my dee-yah."

But you do not care for bridge? Nor I. We pass over the painful interim. The last trick is played. George has accumulated three tricks. Nine would have equaled his bid.

"But my dee-yah George!" Mrs. Marabee is leaning far over the table. The smile on her face is a fixture. "How—George—what did you bid on—Am I mad?—George—It is preposterous—you couldn't have bid, my dee-yah—I refuse to believe my eyes——"

By this time Marjorie has resorted to George's tactics and caught Mrs. Marabee on the instep with the toe of her shoe. Mrs. Marabee subsides, but continues to boil within. This is worse than heresy, treason, all the violations of social, religious and legal laws, ethics and customs.

When it came time to move, Marjorie and Robert slipped out into the hall and shut themselves in Mr. Marabee's study. (Mr. Marabee was in the kitchen, had been in the kitchen all evening, preparing that portion of the refreshments which no one else could prepare so well as he. He had his faults, did Mr. Marabee, but bridge was not one of them.)

"Bob, darling, I must have a moment with you. Those dreadful people are such a nuisance when one wants to talk . . . seriously," Marjorie added. "Tell me what you have been doing. Have you thought of me every minute since you were here? Do you really love me, Bob? Oh, darling, I've wanted you so, so earnestly."

She tucked her head under his chin and pulled his arms about her.

"I've been mighty busy, Marjorie," Robert said truthfully but by no means satisfying his conscience. "Sometimes I think I've taken on too much lately. I hardly have an hour to do as I please any more."

"I know it, my darling, but I do wish you had more time to devote to me," pouting a little. "You don't know how it is . . . not going out with any other young men, and you so seldom here."

"Good heavens," exclaimed George. "Why aren't you going out with whom you please? You make an awful cad out of me, expecting you to go out with no one but me."

"It's mother, Bob . . . She says she doesn't think it right for an engaged girl to run around with young men other than her fiance. And I do so love to have a good time.

"Why, Thornton Webstone, you know, that's the boy who was madly in love with me before you came along, and such a nice boy—he arranged a big party just for me, with all the fixings—and mother wouldn't let me go. Said I shouldn't put a foot out of the house with a young man unless the young man was you."

Silence.

"This Thornton—" asked Robert. —"is he—I mean, do you like him?"

"Oh, lots, Bob. We were sweethearts as children. And he's still mad about me. But—" she met Robert's eyes—"you undrestand, I don't care for him as I do you, darling."

"Of course not," Robert agreed readily. "Life is funny isn't it, Marjorie?"

"Awfully, Bob—Did I tell you you were to send me a photograph of yourself, Bob? For the newspapers, you know. Mother's whispered it about, and they've already been asking."

"Is that considered . . . necessary—?"

But the door was opened at that instant and Mrs. Marabee caught a hand of each and led them back to the "drah-ing" room.

"Marjorie's such a little talkie," she explained, "and we mustn't start gossip among the guests."

In a very different part of town an amateur musical comedy producer was going over his script with his leading lady, a few other characters, and a part of the chorus. They were in the living room of the Svenson flat on West Main street. Pending arrangements for a small hall where they might have a stage and a little makeshift scenery, they were rehearsing where they could. Olga had made this first night possible by inviting them to her home.

"And now," Brett Younger was saying, "we'll let that part go for the present and consider the leading lady. Mary Della, the part was made for you. You were the logical person for it and I thought of you all the while I was writing it. . . ."

"No soft soap, now, Brett. . ." Mary Della sat in a muchly overstuffed chair and tried to appear as if carrying musical comedy parts was a daily occurence.

"Soft soap, my eye," Brett replied. "I'm telling you the truth. And to prove it, there's the song. Didn't I have your name put in it? I'm a married man, Mary Della; you don't have to worry about me. But if I wasn't. . . ."

They all laughed at that and felt a little easier for it.

"Now, Mary Della," Brett resumed, "you enter something like this. . . ."

Brett stepped into the hall and immediately reentered, walking as much like a woman as he could, hanging up an imaginary coat and hat and dropping behind an improvised bench wearing an expression of gentle boredom. "Not too peppy, not too mopey. You see, you want to look your best all the time, but pretty quick you have to hop up and show the audience just how much life there is in the modern girl. See? Now, you try it."

Mary Della went out, then came back in, a little self-conscious, but about as she would have entered had there been no musical comedy rehearsal.

"Gee! That's great. Child, you're a wonder. You just behave like Mary Della and you'll be a whiz. Now for the dance and song."

He hunted through his brief case and extracted a piece of music, written in pencil. At the top of the sheet, in ink, was written: "The Clock Shop Clock."

"You see, Mery Della, the "Clock Shop Clock" is a dance. I started to call it the "Clock Shop Click" but "click's" a weak ending for the title You click your heels; so why not let's say clock is the past tense of click. Click, clock, clocked. See?"

Once more they joined in the laughter led by the producer.

"Here's the dance, Mary Della. I'm no Pavlowa, but you'll see what I mean.

"First, click your heels; then raise your right hand, like this. If you were dancing with a partner, it would be all the same, except he would have to raise his left hand, of course. Now you walk straight ahead, four or five steps—it doesn't matter as long as you get off with the proper foot. Then you take one step to the left, quick and snappy; then one step to the right the same way, and stamp your feet; one two three, like that. Now two steps forward again, two steps backward. Then sway to the left, to the right; now rock, forward backward. Then begin all over again. See?"

"That's the kittens!" declared Olga "Thatll sure make a big hit, Mary Della."

"And now, Mary Della, if Olga will play this, I'll try to sing the song. It's got a catchy tune."

Olga took a seat at the upright piano with its pink silklined scroll work in front and ran over "The Clock Shop Clock."

"Say, that is a wow," she exclaimed as she came to the last note. "Ready, Brett?"

And Brett who really had a pleasing barytone voice, sang for the first time "The Clock Shop Clock." Like most of the present day songs, it needs music to support it, and lots of it, but I give the words as they appeared on Brett's handwritten copy:

"Click your heels, girls—raise your hand . . .
Walk straight ahead—ain't life grand!
One step left—one step right;
Now stamp your feet—g-o-o-d night!
Two steps forward—hold your boy;
Two steps backward—o-o-o-h joy!
Now you sway—now you rock—
That's the snappy dance they call the Clock Shop Clock."

Chorus.

And the second verse:

"Do it over—this way, see? . . .
Make 'em click—wh-o-o-p-pee!
Stamp 'em hard—Barnum was right!
Now it's forward—do your stuff;
Now it's backward—don't get rough!
Sway and sway—rock and rock—
That's the snappy dance they call the Clock Shop Clock."

And the chorus:

"Tick! Tock! Tick! Tock!
Mary Della, with a brand new fellow,
Ain't he handsome? Ain't she sweet?
Wonder how them two come to meet?
Never saw a sweller couple on the floor;
Come on, sheik band, play some more!
Tick! Tock! Tick! Tock!
Watch 'em dance! Watch 'em prance!
Watch 'em sway! Watch 'em rock!
Don't they do a demon Clock Shop Clock!"

The first rehearsal was over.

"Honey," said Miriam as they hurried along West Main street, "you don't know what a killing you're going to make with that song, and everything. Believe me, if I had your voice and your legs, I'd get a job on the stage."

"I'm not aching for anything I haven't got," Mary Della replied. "And I could do without a lot I have got."

"It seems to me," said Miriam, as they crossed Prospect street; "it seems to me, honey, you'd be better off if—oh, boy! Look at that yellow baby leaning against the curb."

Mary Della turned her head carelessly and walked on. Then she looked back again, and caught Miriam's arm.

"Miriam . . . Miriam . . . It's Bob's. . . . That's Bob's car . . . !"

"No wonder you let it hit you, darling," Miriam remarked irrelevantly. "I'd let that chariot run over me any time Where you going, Mary Della? . . . There's nobody in there. Come on."

But Mary Della had opened the door of the exceptionally long and exceptionally yellow roadster and was getting in.

"Go on . . . Miriam. . . . I've got to see him. So long."

She slid down in the seat until only her little blue felt hat was visible.

(Mary Della and Robert get something off their chests, and go into the clinches tomorrow. But that's before Robert and George clash with the law. More excitement, girls!)

JULY'S INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT DECREASES

Production, However, Continues at Higher Level Than in Previous Years.

GAS LIGHT STOCK ACTIVE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Industrial production decreased slightly during July, but continued at a higher level than in other recent years, the Federal Reserve Board's summary of general business and financial conditions throughout the Federal Reserve districts, based on statistics of July and August, reveals today. Wholesale commodity prices increased further during the month, reflecting chiefly higher prices of agricultural products and loans for commercial and agricultural purposes by reporting member banks increased during July and the first half of August.

Employment in manufacturing industries decreased in July by less than 1 per cent, the summary states, while a somewhat greater decrease in pay rolls was reported. At this level factory employment and pay rolls, as in earlier months, were larger than in any other year since 1926.

The value of construction contracts awarded in July was higher than in the preceding month or in July, 1928, indicating chiefly a sharp increase in contracts for public works and utilities; but for the first half of August total contracts declined to a level below the corresponding period a year ago.

Loans for commercial purposes by reporting member banks increased to new high levels during the four weeks ended August 14, while security loans, after gaining further during the latter part of July, declined during the first two weeks of August. Member bank borrowings at the reserve banks averaged $45,000,000 less than during the week ended August 17 than in the week ended July 20, manifesting increased sales of acceptances to the reserve banks and further imports of gold.

Open market rates on call and time loans on securities were firmer during the last half of July and the first week of August, and, during the second week of August, rates of call loans declined while those on commercial paper in the open market advanced from 6 to 6¼ per cent.

The summary shows that output of manufacturers decreased in July while mineral production gained. Average daily output of automobiles, copper, tin, zinc and cotton and wool textiles declined and there was a small decrease in the production of iron and steel. In all of these industries, however, output was larger than in the same month in earlier years.

Activity in silk and shoe factories and in meat-packing plants increased during July and there was also a larger output of bituminous coal and crude petroleum than in June. Reports of the first half of August indicate sustained activity in the iron and steel and automobile industries and a further increase in the output of coal and petroleum.

Wholesale prices in July continued the rise, which began in June, reflecting chiefly higher prices for farm products and their manufactures, particularly live stock and meats, grains, flour and potatoes. Prices of hides and leather also advanced while wool, rayon and textile products declined slightly in price. There was a marked rise in the price of sugar and rubber prices also advanced somewhat. Prices of petroleum and gasoline receded and those of iron and steel were somewhat lower.

The review cites the August estimate of the Department of Agriculture indicating a wheat crop of 774,000,000 bushels, slightly below the five-year average and 128,000,000 bushels under last year's production, and a corn crop equal to the five-year average crop and about 100,000,000 bushels smaller than in 1928. The cotton crop is estimated at 15,543,000 bales, 7 per cent larger than last year.

Gas Light Stock Active.

Favorable reports on the operations of the Washington Gas Light Co. Monday, were followed yesterday by unusual activity in its stock on the Washington Stock Exchange, where sale of 175 shares was the largest in any single issue for the day. The sales were made in three blocks, one of 10, another of 5 and a third of 160, all at 129, last sale price.

Prices held firm in eight issues, declining in four and advancing in three. There was a decline of 341 shares in stock volume previous to the session's 645 and the aggregate of bond transactions, $9,100, was $100 behind Monday's business.

Firemen's Fire Insurance advanced 3½ points in a 25-share sale at 43½. Largest bond sales were $4,000; Capital Traction 5s at 95 and a fractional advance and $4,000 Chestnut Farm Dairy 6½s at 106½, last sale price.

Revenue Freight Loading.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on August 17 totaled 1,100,267 cars, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday. This was an increase of 9,651 cars over the preceding week, and an increase of 42,358 cars above the corresponding week last year. It also was an increase of 33,439 cars above the corresponding week in 1927.

Increases over the week before were reported in the loading of live stock, coal, merchandise less than car load lot freight and miscellaneous freight, but reductions were reported in the loading of grain and grain products, coke, forest products and ore.

Grain and grain products loading for the week totaled 61,423 cars, an increase of 216 cars over the corresponding week last year and 7,378 cars over the same period in 1927. In the Western districts alone grain and grain products loading totaled 44,924 cars, an increase of 1,735 cars over the same week in 1928.

Ore loading amounted to 74,574 cars, an increase of 10,348 cars over the same week in 1928 and an increase of 11,672 cars compared with the corresponding week two years ago. Miscellaneous freight loading for the week totaled 437,280 cars, 22,055 cars above the same week last year and 31,033 cars over the corresponding week two years ago.

All districts except the central Western reported increases in the total loading of all commodities compared with the same week in 1928, while all, except the Pocahontas and Southern districts, showed increases over the same week in 1927.

Loading of revenue freight in 1929 compared with the two previous years follows:

CONFUSED TRADING INVADES BOND MART

Few Issues Move Up; Leading Convertibles Are Under Profit Taking.

FOREIGN GROUP IS DULL

New York, Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Price movements in the listed bond market today were confused, with active profit taking carried on against the recent leaders in the convertible list. A few issues in response to special news developments or advances in stock prices worked higher, some to record levels.

The market developed a firmer tone in the late trading in the face of an advance in call loan rates to 9 per cent from a 7 per cent renewal. Time money was unchanged at 8¾ and 9 per cent for all maturities and bankers' acceptances were steady.

The United States Steel Corporation announced the start of a program of subsidiary bond retirement, with the calling for redemption of $31,770,000 bonds of Indiana Steel Co. and National Tube Co. This follows Steel's cancellation of its direct debt of $271,385,000 this year. The two subsidiary issues are to be retired November 12 at 105. Indiana 5s today closed at 104 on a small turn over for a gain of half a point.

The telephone convertibles International Telephone 4½s and American Telephone 4½s both sold off on profit taking, the former closed at 216¼ for a net loss of 1½ after touching 212½. The latter sagged to 216 and finished at 218 for a net loss of 1 5-8.

Atchison convertible 4½s moved to a new high ground at 1[illegible], but retained only a point of their 3-point gain. The stock was strong. Atchison adjustment 4s yielded 1¼. Alleghany Corporation 5s of 1949 lost a point. In the Short Line issues, Fonda, Johnstown & Gloversville 4½s, which performed sensationally earlier in the year on announcement of the road's inclusion in the New York Central's trunk line plans, jumped 4 points. They closed at 33. Their high price for the year is 50.

American International 5½s sold at a new high at 116⅝, but held only a small fraction of their 2⅞-point rise. Commercial Investment Trust 5½s turned weak at the close after an early period of strength and closed with a fraction loss.

General Asphalt convertible 6s dropped 2½ points to 104½ on announcement of their call for redemption on December 23 at 105. The bonds are convertible par for par into common stock, or $100 of bond for one common share. The common today closed at 90½.

United States Government obligations were mixed.

The foreign list continued dull and featureless.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ARLINGTON HEALTH CENTER OPENED

Dr. R. K. Flannagan, State Health Aid, Attends Ceremonies.

MANY VIEW BUILDING

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Speaking at the opening exercises of Arlington District Health Center, located on Lorton avenue in Clarendon, yesterday, Dr. Roy K. Flannagan, of Richmond, Va., assistant State health commissioner, said that Arlington County is one of the foremost counties in the State in health activities, being the only county in the State that maintains and operates child health clinics.

"While there are many counties in the State that have full time health officers, Arlington County leads in having health centers in each of the three districts," he added.

Reviewing health work in Arlington County, Dr. Flannagan, to whom credit is due for establishment of a full time health officer and the inauguration of child health clinic, said that Dr. J. W. Cox, the county's first full time health officer, laid the foundation for child health work in the county when through his efforts the county board of supervisors erected the health clinic in Jefferson District, the first in the county.

"Money spent in health brings dividends in both happiness and health," said Dr. Flannagan.

"The child health clinic is not only a place to make babies well but is also the place that keeps them in good health and gives to the mother valued information," said Dr. Flannagan.

"Arlington County is to be congratulated," continued Dr. Flannagan, "In having the efficient health department it enjoys under the leadership of Dr. P. M. Chichester."

Mrs. Mary E. Lockwood, member of the Mothers' Health League, whose efforts were largely responsible for the speedy erection of the present health center, called upon the women of the county to cooperate with the health department and continue holding the record that Arlington County has in standing first in the State, in health as well as in education, among the 100 counties.

"Health and education are the life of any community," said Mrs. Lockwood.

The program included recitations by little Miss Rose Maxine Cardwell and Marjorie Stockett.

The building opened at 9 o'clock and throughout the day several hundred persons made an inspection of the building, finding it equipped with all modern facilities that constitute a modern child health clinic.

Announcement was made last night by the law firm of Jesse, Phillips, McCarthy & Kline that an application has been filed with the Arlington County Zoning Commission through the county engineer's office for a permit for the Sun Oil Co., of Philadelphia, to erect a $100,000 plant in Rossiyn for the distribution of petroleum products.

The application will come before the commission at its meeting, to be held at the courthouse Friday night.

With this announcement coming from counsel for the company, it was learned last night that strong opposition has developed against granting the permit.

An application was before the zoning commission at its meeting two weeks ago for a permit to allow the company to locate in Rossiyn, and at that time strong opposition was made by Capt. Crandal Mackey and Dr. J. N. Roberts.

It was understood at that time that the application would come before the commission at its meeting this Friday night.

Since the last hearing it was learned that opposition has grown and indications are that the hearing Friday night will be well attended.

It was learned yesterday that an application will be presented to the Arlington County Zoning Commission asking for a rehearing on the application of Mrs. Marie Clark Bell for a permit to erect a gasoline filling station on the Lee Highway opposite the intersection of Rucker and Virginia avenues, Lyon Village.

The commission at its meeting August 23, when strong opposition was filed by the Lyon Village Citizens Association, refused the permit.

The papers are now in the office of the county engineer and will be submitted to the commission at its meeting Friday night.

Alleged inactivity on the part of a contractor, after having torn up a section of Wilson boulevard in the heart of the business section, was causing much unfavorable comment yesterday among business interests.

With one side of the boulevard from Lorton avenue to Clarendon avenue covered with "no parking" signs, where there has been no excavating, parking is permitted on the opposite side, where it is necessary to drop down into the rough dirt nearly one foot.

The public utilities are making much progress and are now more than one block ahead of where excavating has been stopped. Machinery has been moved and many are wondering when work will be resumed.

Joseph Parker, colored, alias Ernest Green and Joe Brewer, returned to Arlington County Monday by Sheriff Howard B. Fields and Officer John R. Burke, of Portsmouth, Ohio, wanted for questioning in connection with the holding up of W. H. Hampton, superintendent of the Washington Brick & Terra Cotta Co., of South Washington, on August 10, was given a hearing before Police Judge Harry E. Thomas yesterday.

Making investigations since the return of the man, Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth had him tried on the charge of holding up R. W. Smith, night watchman at the West Bros. Brick Yard in South Washington, on the night of July 29, 1929.

Smith, on the stand, identified Parker as the man who held him up, taking his watch and $3. Parker denied the accusation. He was held for the grand jury without bond.

It developed from investigation, according to Gloth, that the man is wanted in Richmond for an alleged escape from the State penitentiary in 1928, where he was sent on charges of housebreaking.

With their new 650-gallon American la France pumping engine all polished up, twenty members of the Potomac Volunteer Fire Department left last night for Lexington, where they will attend the annual State firemen's convention.

Chief Operator Thomas J. Cockrell will drive the new engine to Lexington. A part of the group will go with the apparatus, while the balance of the delegation will go in private automobiles.

Potomac will strive to return with two of the silver loving cups this year. The local firemen hope to win the cup for the st appearing department in line and also the one offered the department coming the longest distance to the convention

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Falls Church Fire Department completed its plans to enter a float in the Washington firemen's parade Labor Day.

The Falls Church Fire Department plans to enter two pieces of apparatus in the parade.

The executive committee of the newly organized Back-to-the-District Club, of which Dr. Frank T. Stone is president, will meet tonight at the home of the president, in Clarendon.

President Stone requests all members to attend. Plans will be discussed for carrying on an aggressive campaign in the interest of the movement.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its meeting tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club. President Dr. R. N. Sutton will preside.

ST. ANNE'S SCHOOL HAS NEW PRINCIPAL

Miss Margaret Love Porter, Prominent Educator, Heads Faculty.

OTHER CHANGES MADE

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 27.—St. Anne's, widely known school for girls, conducted here by the Episcopal Church, will open September 18 with a new principal, Miss Margaret Love Porter. She is a graduate of Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, Va., and also has her M. A. degree from Columbia University in the department of history and political science.

Miss Porter has had a wide range of teaching and executive experience in both boarding and day schools, as she has been head of the history department at Miss Bennett's School, Millbrook, N. Y.; principal of the Professional Children's School, New York City; supervisor of the training department, State Normal School, New Britain, Conn., and adviser to the lower school at the Winsor School, Boston's largest private school for girls.

Of the former faculty Mrs. C. C. Speidel, of the English department; Misses Phyllis and Louise Van Lear, of the primary and kindergarten departments, respectively, and Mrs. Burnley Lankford, of Norfolk, will return to the school this year. Miss Ruth Dillard has been granted a scholarship for foreign study by Vassar College. Her place in the French department will be filled by Miss Elizabeth Stone, of Greensboro, N. C.

Miss Stone is a recent graduate of Randolph-Macon. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and comes to St. Anne's with high recommendations. Miss Virginia Birdson, of Petersburg, Va., also a graduate of Randolph-Macon, will have charge of Latin and mathematics. Both Miss Stone and Miss Birdsong will assist in sports and recreation. Mrs. Lankford will again be the house mother and will have charge of all social activities.

Miss Jean Wardrope, who has been in Y. W. C. A. work for several years, is the new registrar and business manager. She will also have charge of religious instruction and help with the choral classes.

The intermediate department will be taught largely by the teachers of the upper school and French conversation will be offered to all pupils in this department. Miss Porter will give special attention to these grades, as she has made an intensive study of newer methods in elementary education.

Bus Diver Held For Grand Jury

Witnesses in Fatal Crash Testify to Recklesness at Inquest.

Earl Reed, driver of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. bus which struck a roadster on the Washington boulevard Monday night, resulting in the death of a man, was ordered held for the Howard County grand jury by a coroner's jury yesterday afternoon. The coroner's jury was called by Dr. Germanus J. France, automobile coroner, at the central police station in Baltimore.

Action of the coroner's jury came after testimony of several occupants of the bus. One of these, Herman Patterson, of Griffith, Md., testified that Reed had hardly escaped running over some road workmen ten minutes before the fatal crash. "I felt like crying out to stop the bus several times," Patterson told the jury. Riders said that they could feel the bus sway as the driver passed several cars going in the same direction.

Other evidence was to the effect that in attempting to pass a machine going in the same direction the bus crashed head on with the roadster bound in the opposite direction. Herman Feigold, of Torrington, Conn., driver of the roadster, was the man killed. His wife was injured.

Bible Conference Visited by 50,000

High Church Officials Take Part in Virginia Sessions.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 27.—More than 50,000 persons attended the 60-day sessions of the Massanetta Springs Summer Bible Conference, which has just closed its eighth season. It is estimated by Dr. William E. Hudson, of Staunton, the conference manager, the attendance at the three services on the final day was 7,000 persons.

A dozen or more outstanding churchmen in the country appeared on the conference programs. These included Dr. Robert Speer, of New York; Dr. John Timothy Stone, of Chicago; Dr. William Evans, of Los Angeles; Dean Weigle, of the Yale Divinity School; Gypsy Smith, jr., and Dr. George L. Robinson, of Chicago.

On the platform at the closing services Sunday were two former moderators of the Presbyterian Church of the United States, Dr. Stone and Dr. Speer, and one former moderator of the Southern Presbyterian Church, Dr. A. M. Fraser, of Staunton, Va.

Virginia Presbyterians To Convene in Danville

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Aug. 27.—The Virginia Presbyterian Synod will open its annual meeting September 9 at the First Presbyterian Church here.

Sessions will last for two days and will be consumed by annual reports reflecting the condition of the Virginia church. About 200 Presbyterian ministers and elders are expected.

McKinley Pool to Have Life-Saving Classes

Life-saving classes will be held at McKinley Pool Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday mornings from 9:30 to 11, by B. H. Gammage, life-saving instructor of the District of Columbia Chapter of the Red Cross.

Classes also will be held in the evenings as soon as the pool is opened for evening swimming. Anyone wishing to take the course should go to the manager's office of McKinley Pool for further information.

Officers Elected By Religious Body

Place for Next Meeting of Albemarle Association Yet Undecided.

Special to The Washington Post.

Gordonsville, Va., Aug. 27.—At the closing session of the Fifty-second Annual Convention of the Albemarle County Sunday School Association, held at Mount Moriah Methodist Church, the following officers were elected:

H. A. Via, Red Hill, president; A. H. Burnett, Charlottesville, vice president; Miss Ruth Smith, Red Hill, secretary, and N. T. Shumate, Charlottesville, treasurer. Mrs. Roland B. Oliver was elected head of the home department and Mrs. H. A. Via head of the cradle roll department.

Representative J. A. Garber, of the Seventh District, president of the Rockingham County Sunday School Association, was one of the principal speakers of the occasion, his subject being "The Importance of Training Youth." Others on the program included:

G. C. Speidel, of Charlottesville; the Rev. Minor Miller and E. F. Wine, of Lebanon; Gale Smith, of Charlottesville; the Rev. E. V. Carson, who made the address of welcome, and C. C. Wade, of Batesville.

Mount Moriah and Batesville both extended invitations to the association for the 1930 meeting. The place and time will be determined by the executive committee and announced later.

Wife of District Court Crier in City Succumbs

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., Aug. 27.—Mrs. George W. Mowbray, 75, whose husband is crier for Chief Judge McCoy, of the District Supreme Court in Washington, died here this morning from uremic poisoning.

Mr. and Mrs. Mowbray spend the summer months in their Easton home, and the deceased had been sick since before leaving Washington in July. Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Reginald G., of Baltimore, and Charles, of Seattle. Wash Services will be held from the home here Thursday morning. The Rev. R. C. Meeks, of Baltimore, will officiate. Interment in Spring Hill Cemetery, Easton.

BRIDGE OPENS TODAY AT POTOMAC YARDS

Alexandria Traffic Again to Cross Span After Repairs Are Made.

FIREMEN GO TO PARLEY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Work on the bridge over the Potomac yards, on Washington street, extended, was completed late yesterday and the bridge will be open to traffic today after having been closed for two weeks. The flooring of the bridge, which is of wood, has been practically replaced, four treads of plate steel have been placed, two each for eastbound and westbound traffic, and the spaces between these treads have been filled with sheet asphalt, making the bridge much more substantial and the roadway much smoother than ever before.

One defect in the approach to this bridge which has been remarked upon by motorists, and which constitutes a dangerous hazard, is that at the western end the roadway slopes down at a sharp angle and automobiles have difficulty in making the sharp turn necessary to get on the River road even in dry weather. In winter, when the roadway is often covered with snow or ice, or in ordinary wet weather this is very dangerous. There is a frail wooden fence guarding a drop at least 10 feet, and many serious accidents have been narrowly averted at this point. This roadway, however, is a part of the State highway system and after January 1 will be within the corporate limits of Alexandria, the city being then responsible for its maintenance.

Since work on the bridge was started traffic has been detoured by way of Oronoco street, West street, Mushpot road and Mount Vernon avenue, and traffic officers have been stationed at the principal turns to direct motorists. The traffic has been extremely heavy and the completion of the bridge will be a welcome relief to the thousands of persons who are compelled to use the detour.

The members of the Alexandria Fire Department who will attend the State firemens convention entrained yesterday for Lexington, being accompanied by the Citizens Band of 32 pieces, and approximately 40 members of the Ladies Auxiliary. The firemen were headed by Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., and the auxiliary by Mrs. John W. Travers, president of the organization. The party from Alexandria, which included members and families and friends of the firemen, numbered approximately 150. They will return home Friday night, and a big welcome is planned by the stay-at-home members of the department.

C. T. Harris, of Staunton, last surviving member of Gen. Ashby's Regiment in the Confederate army, said to have numbered 3,000 men, was a visitor here yesterday, being the guest of his two sons, T. Weller Harris and L. V. Harris.

Harris participated in thirteen battles during the war between the States, and was wounded twice. He has recently returned from Massanetta Bible camp, where he arose in answer to a call concerning Ashby's men, the late commander's last stand having been made near Massanetta, and a monument to Ashby being erected at that point.

Although 84 years of age Harris is hale and hearty and much more vigorous than would be expected from one of his advanced age. He states that a well-known historian has been able to find no other survivors of his famous command.

Leon Cornell, aged 26 years, who was injured in an automobile accident Sunday afternoon on the Franconia road, was in a serious condition last night. Cornell improved Monday, but yesterday his condition became worse.

The city health office will hold a free chest clinic this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, conducted by a specialist, and will hold a free clinic for colored patients tomorrow at the same hours.

Fifty members of Potomac Lodge, No. 38, Odd Fellows, motored to Fredericksburg last night and visited the lodge of that city, when the traveling gavel was presented by Charity Lodge, of Warrenton, Va.

Policeman Quarterhouse Monday night took in custody a 16-year-old boy giving the name of Ira Lee Harris, of Charlottesville, along with an automobile reported as stolen in Fredericksburg on August 20. Chief of Police Perry of Fredericksburg was notified and sent here yesterday and had the boy and car taken there.

One of the unnofficial functions of the local police headquarters appears to be to furnish the correct time to the residents of the city, as the desk sergeants state they answer an average of 100 telephone calls a day asking the time.

Mother and 6 Children Saved as Home Burns

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Aug. 27.—A six-room bungalow in Prince George County on the Petersburg and Hopewell highway, near this city, occupied by Mrs. W. J. Sumpter and her six children, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin at an early hour this morning, with most of its contents. Mrs. Sumpter was awakened by the coughing of her baby and she herself was strangling from the smoke which filled the room. Mrs. Sumpter and her children narrowly escaped with their lives. Mr. Sumpter was away from home at the time of the fire. He is employed near Baltimore.

The bungalow was owned by S. E. Atkinson and was valued at $3,000, on which there was no insurance. A cottage adjoining the Sumpter bungalow also was damaged badly.

Bishop James E. Walsh Is Cumberland Guest

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 27.—Bishop James E. Walsh, of China, is a guest at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Peter J. Seaver. Bishop Walsh, who is a missionary in China, is a son of the late William Edward Walsh, of the Cumberland bar and is a brother of former Chief Judge William C. Walsh.

As representative of the Catholic Church at Kong Moon, Bishop Walsh is in charge of the vicarate, similar to a diocese, 200 miles in extent and about as large as the State of Connecticut. Here for eleven years Bishop Walsh has labored. With coworkers he has added about 3,000 communicants, working through 18 missions with central staffs and about 100 small churches and chapels.

Monument for 'Montebello;' Taylor's Home, to Be Asked

Senator Swanson to Offer Bill Calling for $10,000 to Be Used in Improvements; Birthplace of a President.

Special to The Washington Post.

Gordonsville, Va., Aug. 27.—Senator Swanson, in reply to a letter written him by Maj. Allen Potts, of Happy Creek Farm, near here, has replied by advising that he will introduce a bill for the erection of a monument to mark Montebello, the birthplace of President Zachary Taylor, when the regular session of Congress convenes in December, and will do all that he can to secure its passage.

Montebello is located on the Spotswood trail about four miles out of Gordonsville. The roadway leading to it is bordered on each side by age-old boxwoods, while a hedge of the same shrub encircles the grounds. Nothing, however, marks it as an historic spot or calls attention of tourists to the fact that a President of the United States was born within its walls.

The property was formerly the home of the late Mrs. B. S. Brent, mother of Mrs. W. Saville Morris, and of Mrs. Charles F. Russell, the latter better known perhaps by her pen name, "Virginia Staite." It is now owned by John Stewart Bryan, of Richmond.

Senator Swanson will ask for an appropriation of $10,000 for the proposed monument. If the sum asked for is granted and is insufficient for the erection of the monument, whatever difference necessary can doubtless be easily obtained through local subscriptions, Swanson said. Bryan has offered a plot for the erection of the monument and the Dolly Madison Garden Club has offered to assist in beautifying surroundings.

MERGER OF FARMS OPPOSED BY COOPER

Loan Commissioner Warns Rockingham Bureau of Consolidations.

SENATOR SILVER SPEAKS

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 27.—The greatest menace confronting American agriculture today is the movement to consolidate farms into giant corporations as is being done in industry, former Gov. Robert A. Cooper of South Carolina, now United States farm loan commissioner, of Washington, told the annual picnic of the Rockingham Farm Bureau at Masanette Springs today.

Gov. Cooper declared the merger of small farms into giant operations, owned and controlled by a corporation, would destroy the individuality of the American farmer. Such a system of farming, he said may result in cheaper costs of productions but its benefits in this direction would be far outweighed by the destruction of the independence of the American farmer, a balance wheel in American civic life.

Work Out Own Problems.

Cooper declared farmers must work out their own problems. He added that congressional and State legislation may help them reach a solution, but they can not make the cure permanent. He said the tariff, in his judgment, will fail in bringing the relief many farmers expect. He deplored the centralization of authority and power in Washington and in the Federal Government, which he declared is growing into the biggest political problems of the day.

Senator Gray Silver, of Martinsburg, W. Va., another of the speakers, declared the farm relief bill recently passed by Congress provides machinery and methods by which farmers, by organizing themselves into cooperative organizations, can obtain control of their marketing machinery and thereby be able to hold their crops and have a voice in the price of their products.

Measure Is Lauded.

He saw a long step toward farm relief in the measure if the farmers and the Federal Farm Board pull together.

About a thousand farmers and farm wives attended the annual picnic, which is a big event in the valley. The Rev. Dr. Wilson, Mayor John W. Morrison of Harrisonburg and Senator Ward Swank made short addresses. D. C. Acker, president of the Rockingham Farm Bureau, and Brock White, president of the organization, presided at the morning and afternoon sessions. An old-fashioned fried chicken dinner picnic was spread on the Massanetta lawn and all visitors invited to join in the feast.

Jurors Are Drawn For Circuit Court

Fall Term of Tribunal Will Convene September 9 in Frederick.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Aug. 27.—The following jurors were drawn by Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Judge John S. Newman for the fall term of the circuit court, a grand and petit jury term, which will convene September 9: Frederick, John F. Kreh, Irving M. Landauer, Lewis E. Birely, Ernest D. Michael, Noah E. State Legion Chiefs To Resume Newspaper

Richmond, Va., Aug. 27 (A.P.).—Recommendations that the department of Virginia, American Legion, recommence publication of a monthly newspaper will be made to the department convention in Petersburg, September 2 to 4.

The recommendation is made in a report of a department committee composed of M. E. Bristow and Henry M. Taylor, both of Richmond, filed today with W Glenn Elliott, department adjutant. A short-lived department official organ suspended publication several years.

CUMBERLAND FAIR RACES DRAW 12,000

Betting Is Heavy as Week's Schedule Begins With Ritchie Present.

FEW LOOK AT EXHIBITS

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 27.—The inauguration of the week's racing program at the twelfth annual Cumberland Fair today saw the largest Tuesday crowd in the history of the fair. It was estimated at 12,000 and was 2,500 in excess of last year's attendance. Notwithstanding the Cumberland Jockey Club took away to the club veranda scores who heretofore patronized the grand stand, crowds swarmed the grand stand and betting stalls. It was stated that the betting was much heavier than last year.

Interest centers almost entirely in the races. The visitors to the exhibits were few in comparison to the number witnessing the races, while the concessions had little patronage during the afternoon. The farming population is expected Thursday, Friday and Saturday. It can be said that the live stock, corn, fruit and flower exhibits have never been excelled.

Cattle Judging Ends.

The judging of cattle was completed today by Dr. Devoe Meade, head of the dairy division of the University of Maryland extension service, and W. E. Hunt, assistant professor of animal husbandry, was judge of swine and sheep. Troop F, Third Cavalry, is offering several new features this year, schooling for which Capt. Hugh A. Fitzgerald has just completed. Their drills already include several acts not in their riding repertoire last year.

The pyrotechnic display at night in the center field opposite the grand stand surpasses anything before attempted in this line here. The aerial bombs which closed the show, exploding in machine-like rapidity, kept the stable hands around the race stables busy pacifying the 200 or more horses.

A new feature of the fair was introduced tonight in dancing in the pavilion on the grounds. This, with the reception given in the brilliantly lighted Cumberland Jockey Club house, provided the fair for the first time with a social aspect.

Ritchie Has Busy Day.

Gov. Ritchie had a busy day. He inspected the Frostburg State Normal School and Miners Hospital, State-aided institutions, in the morning, and at noon was the guest of Tasker G. Lowndes and Miss Elizabeth L. Lowndes at the first of race breakfasts of the week. He was the guest of former Chief Judge William C. Walsh at the fair in the afternoon, and at night was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Bladen Lowndes, jr., at dinner.

Tomorrow is "Governor's Day," at the fair, in honor of the visit of Gov. Ritchie, who will be escorted to the grounds by Troop F. The governor's salute of thirteen guns will be given as he enters the grounds. A half holiday has been declared by Mayor Thomas W. Koon and there will be a general suspension of business from noon, with the postoffice, too, observing the half holiday.

Man Draws Gun to Kill Snake and Shoots Self

Special to The Washington Post.

Franklin, W. Va., Aug. 27.—Having drawn a revolver to kill a large rattlesnake in a patch of woods, Virgil L. Calhoun, 38, of Thornwood, near here, was wounded fatally when the weapon was accidentally discharged, and he died within a few minutes.

A sapling on which Calhoun stepped broke as he was preparing to shoot, and he lost his balance. The bullet lodged in his neck.

DAIRYING INDUSTRY BOOMS IN VIRGINIA

Fine Pasturage and Better Stock and Methods Are Contributing Factors.

MILK PRODUCTION LARGE

Richmond, Aug. 27.—Dairying has been showing a gradual growth in Virginia for many years, and the rate of increase has been more rapid during the past few years, according to statistics compiled by the United States and State departments of agriculture.

Creamery butter production during 1928 was nearly twice the amount produced in 1922; cheese production increased nearly 400 per cent since 1922; the production of condensed and evaporated milk nearly doubled, and there was an increase of 30 per cent in the production of ice cream. During 1928 there were 41 creameries operating, eight cheese factories and eight condenseries and evaporated milk plants.

In addition to the butter produced within the State, last year approximately 650,000 pounds were made in other States from cream shipped from Virginia.

Milk Production Increases.

The production of milk for consumption in towns and cities also has increased considerably. In all parts of the State more farmers have been selling milk and cream each year, but during the past year Southwest Virginia made a tremendous increase in dairying. In the Shenandoah Valley dairying has always been an important source of farm income and this section has shown an increase in recent years.

The production of milk has increased more rapidly than the number of cows, due to the fact that farmers have improved both their methods of feeding and the type of dairy cows. Reports from dairy manufacturing firms for the first half of 1929 indicates a considerable increase in the production of dairy products as compared with 1928. Butter production during this period was approximately 30 per cent larger than last year, cheese production nearly 400 per cent, ice cream 5 per cent and evaporated and condensed milk 32 per cent.

Excellent Pasturage Factor.

While excellent pastures have been the cause of some of the increases, there are more dairy cows on farms than in 1928. The following statistics show the great increase that has been made since 1922: Creamery butter production in 1928 was 6,051,000, compared with 3,306,000 pounds in 1922; cheese, 507,000 pounds, compared with 128,000 pounds; condensed and evaporated milk, 4,500,000 pounds, compared with 2,600,000 pounds, and ice cream, 2,900,000 gallons, compared with 2,500,000 gallons.

Officials of the State Department of Agriculture and Agricultural College believe that within a few years Virginia will be one of the most important dairy States in the East, as climatic, soil and market conditions in this State are unusually favorable for dairying.

Albemarle Hunt Trials Scheduled

Card of October Event Includes Three Classes of Horses.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 27.—Announcement was made today that the hunter trials of the Albemarle County Hunt would be held at Blue Ridge Farm, property of Randolph Ortman, near Greenwood, this county, Saturday, October 5. Entires close Friday, September 20.

The card contains three classes—lightweight hunters, middle and heavyweight hunters and women's hunters. Horses must be owned and ridden by members or subscribers of a recognized hunt or officers of the United States Army.

The course is about a mile and a half in length, with ten jumps. Fences are from 3½ to 4 feet in height. All fences must be jumped between flags. Silver trophies will be awarded in each class. In making awards, the judges will determine the "best hunters," based on manners, way of going, performance and confirmation.

Barbers in Virginia To Vote on License Law

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Aug. 27.—Associated Master Barbers of Virginia will hold its third annual convention in Danville next Monday, sessions to run through Tuesday.

About 200 master barbers are expected to attend the meeting. A feature will be discussion of the proposed Virginia barbers' license law, which is to be submitted to the general assembly at its next session. The proposed law is to be explained, discussed and voted on at the coming convention.
